MR. J. W. THROCKMORTON, of Harrison, candidate for the Democratic Nomination for Governor, was here last Saturday. He is active and strong.

HON. S. E. BRASHEAR, a former Representative from Harrison County in the Legislature, died Monday at his residence at West Point. He was an honorable man, a good citizen and a kind neighbor.

We ask our Democratic friends who contemplating throwing their votes away on a third party to wait and see how their Republican neighbors vote before they vote. Our word for it you will find Republicans voting the Democratic ticket almost to a man.

THE Flemingsburg Times-Democrat places the names of Mr. Hord of the land of Dominions as the Democratic candidate for the Legislature but refuses to support him for election. The Democrats of Fleming have gotten themselves into a terrible muddle, but we hope to see them come out all right in the end.

HON. MAT. O'DARBY, the Republican candidate for Lt. Governor, who was killed for a speech here last Saturday, arrived on time from Maysville, and shortly after his speech was delivered he died of the effects of the death of his brother. He took buggy for Paris and our people were decided the pleasant of leaving him.

Republicans who are so anxious for over Jno. Wm. D. Bailey should know that he is a renegade Democrat, Simon-Pure war he has been chairman of the Democratic Committee of Garrard County, and has always been Democratic County Attorney of his county. He is now a wild-eyed Republican office seeker.

THE count of the cash receipts in the results of the United States Treasury, which begins May 31, will probably show this week. The cash receipts and a single penny's delivery has been made.

Our readers in Boston are urged to read Mr. C. Dana Wilson's letter to the Legislature. Mr. Thomas will submit credit upon his County and State in the Legislature, and the Democrats of Boston should see that his majority is large. As an orator he will compare favorably with the best speakers". As a gentleman his habits and character are above reproach, and together he is qualified to maintain the good repute of his native county.

Democrats do your duty. Let no side issue lead you astray.

BRADLEY HIDING BEHIND JIM JONES.

(Louisville Commercial, July 10th.)

Gen. Buckner and Mr. Bradley met at Gregson, Carter County, last Thursday for the first time during the campaign, and Mr. Bradley probably regretted it. Gen. Buckner demanded of Mr. Bradley whether or not he had stated in his speech at London that Gen. Buckner had written the speech delivered at Buckner's at Lexington.

Jim Jones' Secretary Mr. Bradley replied that he had written the speech from notes furnished him by Jones, who knows Proctor Knott well, and was that he recognized Knott's remarks in Gen. Buckner's Lexington speech, and he (Jones) believed that Knott had written the speech. This is the nearest to a direct denial made that statement on my own responsibility, and upon the information furnished me by Jones.

Gen. Buckner, proceeding with his speech, said: "Now, Jones and gentlemen, you see the predicament my opponent has gotten himself into; he has not originated a falsehood, but he has wilfully circulated a falsehood with the intention of injuring me. Nothing could be more humiliating to me than have it charged that I wilfully spread the ideas of another and palm them off upon the public as my own. For the man who would wilfully circulate such a charge, although not himself the author of it, I can, of course, have nothing but contempt. Jones, knowing the charge to be false and cutting, is trying to shoulder a necessity of foundation. I have not seen Mr. Bradley to meet me at my appointments. I now withdraw the invitation and henceforth I decline to have anything whatever to do with him."

If Mr. Bradley has any sensibility whatever, which is doubted, he must have felt keenly the situation in which he found himself, hiding behind the coat-skirts of Jim Jones while the grand old gentleman they have jointly slandered was expressing the just indignation of his heart.

DR. R. F. REYNOLDS, Judge C. L. Lyle and the editor of the MERCURY send over from Paris on Monday to attend County Court and look after the political campaign. Speeches were made by Hon. V. C. Lockhart, Judge Lyle and D. J. Reynolds, Esq., of Democracy. Mr. Lockhart made a good speech, and we think it and we hope it will be left. Democrat somewhat enthused. It is our honest opinion that Democrats will come up with her usual Democratic majority.

THE vote cast for Gen. S. B. Buckner will be the basis of Representation in Democratic Conventions in Kentucky for the next two years, and if Nicholas wants a good vote in Conventions she should be represented. Let it be done.

JIM WAY, as a member of the Legislature, will be a valuable acquisition to Nicholas and the Democratic party. He is a good fellow and a good citizen
