THE ELECTION.

525 MAJORITY FOR THOMPSON.

A tolerably full vote was polled on Monday, and long before noon it became obvious that Cheatham would be gloriously defeated. Relays of returns came in across from East Union and Headquarters and other loyal precincts and swelled the Democratic majority. We have no official report from Compromise yet, but we feel confident that Thompson's majority in that precinct will be—than 144, which, added to that of Nicholas, makes a total of 525. The following figures tell the story of how nearly the bolters were left:

	Thompson.	Cheatham.
Nicholas	144	0
Compromise	381	144
Headquarters	0	381
East Union	0	0
Total	525	525

Election News from Moore and Lewis.

MAYSVILLE, KENTUCKY, August, 9
To the Editors of the Avalanche:

The battle has been fought and the victory gained. We have met the turpitude and corruption of the politicians and they are ours. You can well the glorious news has gone for Wilson by about 200, but J. D. Thompson, the regular Democratic candidate for Legislature has been elected by a large majority. This comes from "snapping at." Subtracting Lewis county's 200 majority for Wilson from Shackelford's 500, leaves 300 with the additional total of 500. The people of Maysville are jubilant, and the successful candidates will be serenaded to-night.

THE Burlington Hawkeye, about the funniest paper in the United States, has recently been changed to a quarto and otherwise improved.

A WATTER in the Boston Globe says "the ship is in sight of land, the fowls are laying, sewing and smelling." Now, some of the writers on the Cincinnati Commercial ought to "kick."

FOR a day or two before the election the cry from the rural districts was: "For Heaven's sake send us whisky. We can't turn a wheel with out it."

MRS. SCHMIDT, of Georgia, is making it pretty hot for her old man. She whacked him over the head with a broom because he threatened to whack her with a stick.

THE Cincinnati Commercial says: "The Democratic party is not dead, but it is where it is long up, fresh killing, with the butcher's stall. In other words, it is only half dead, and that half is in a good appearance at the end of a long course of transportation on the fingerboards. Every indication, there-

Some Reflections on the Strike.

The principle involved in the late strike is not a new thing. It is the old question of capital and labor. The outbreak in Baltimore, the riot in Pittsburg, the defiance in Chicago, all had their precedent in the Communist revolutions in Paris in 1848, and there will be repeated in every government where under the same until capital has learned to recognize and respect the great law of right now only in employers.

It is made more complex in the workings and difficult the adjusting from of the late mob, was the fact that the great part of our population were in sympathy with the strikers in their attempt to fight the will from their doors. When man makes his defense upon the ground of physical need, he is certain to win sympathy. When a hungry lassie is murdered and a child dead and there are a few who dare say no.

While laborers claim that their wages have been reduced below a sustaining point, and that present rates will mean slow starvation at home; that helpless wives will be doomed to bear their children in rags and hunger, and the good judgment of business men and of the common people cannot in the force of the statement, hence the employes have received popular sympathy.

For years we have witnessed the gigantic science of robbery inaugurated and successfully carried out against the government by large and wealthy corporations. Taking us in many of organizations rob the Government, and a few business men, who have been hired at enormous salaries to superintend these organizations, gradually get the whole interest in their hands. So the controlling or sole proprietors of these institutions, we must expect that the employe will use his power to control the lower scale of wages, and carry out to its course and brutal results the a one line of procedure.

It may be well that if the people do not wish to work for certain pay it is their privilege to refuse to do so, but others who will work. This may all be very true, but if the thousands of men in the country who have to be lowed railroading quietly leave their work, and refuse to do their full assessment, and what are they to do? That would be starvation for them. They have made railroading a business. That is their trade, and if they leave it or not one in a hundred could find employment at anything else, owing to the general stagnation of affairs. Besides the interest of the strike is directly traceable to the ruinous financial policy of the Republican party. The railroads have been compelled to cut on each other in order to obtain interest business, and they in return cut on the wages of their employes.

During the war the country needed money and borrowed about four billion dollars. A strong effort was made to redeem it. The arrows have been turned down to the practicable limit. Ten billions have been refused, and the credit of the Government has been seriously abused, abroad has financial distress and embarrassment have been created at home. Capital has been withdrawn from its uses, with a mistaken policy, forced to hoard its accumulations lest crisis may bring on bankrupt hundreds of the country. The remedies for the evil are found in the currency and some lives.

1. Quell the mob. The law abiding have power. Let the military do their workmen who, thrown out of employment and hearing the cries of their child crying for food, has dared to take the property of others, or to commit the common crimes among filth and vermin, while the dashing nabob, who has done the like class of work, the crushing millions has been treated like a gentleman, and his property guarded by the public. Make the working men feel that their rights are respected and that crime or plunder is the enormity of the evil rather than the position of the author of crime, and the mass of justice will receive large satisfaction, and a cause for grave will be run end.

2. Enthrone the public schools. The American citizen must be an intelligent man. Where ignorance reigns there must be anarchy. Unless we are of general culture grows at as fast as the population increases, we may weekly approach through the avenues of anarchy towards despotism.

3. Let the people understand that those who think most govern those who think least.

An education which inculcates a love for country, a love of home and home interest is the surest bulwark of our national integrity. It is the common school system.

I Let the next Congress, so soon as collected, repeal the inflation or resumption act and avert the storm of financial disaster by postponing taxation. The strain has been kept up until every business energy has been taxed to the utmost. The factories closed their doors, and the workmen were left in vain for employment. The wheels and spindles are silent, and thousands of business establishments. Let us have a true in which to breathe and recuperate after the great pressure. Our credit is secure abroad; our people are devoted and faithful to their Government. Let the debt stand until joy lights up the countenance of the laborer and distress looks in vain for a victim.

When these things shall have been (even in a measure) attended to, the days of strike and business prostration will be over, and the song of mirth and shouts of prosperity will be again heard in the land.

THE Republicans of Ohio have nominated W. H. West, of Logan County, as candidate of the Supreme Court, as their candidate for Governor. The people will not go West.

"A CONVENTION shoemaker has been considered by the Workingmen's party of Pittsburg, for the office of State Senate. He's the last man they ought to nominate for anything.

If his sole object in life is running for office, he will pay and in the race.

Governor Robinson pardoned Frank Wadsworth, sentenced to Sing Sing Prison for life for the murder of his brother. The ground of pardon is insanity, the opinion of several physicians being favorable to his release. It is reported that his mother will start for home with him for Europe.

The wheeler E. J. McKenzon, from the Azores ocean, reports having received information from the station at Point Hope, through Capt. Barnes, of the Newsboy, that the whaling fleet was left on the abandoned whaling ground and all were safe. Provisions are plenty. Nothing is known of the abandoned vessels.

At Wilkesbarre, August 1, accord was effected between the officials of the Lehigh Valley Depot. A constable appeared on the platform to arrest the engineer, but the latter backed his engine off the platform next to the engine, and the constable, who had already mounted the engine, cut it loose and left it to its fate. John Gaul, the constable, was roared by the mob and had to be taken home. The engine was not hurt but feeling very sore over the treatment he received by the President of the Centenal Council of Philadelphia, and inspected the works where the Joint High Commission sat during the arbitration on the Alabama claims. The General expressed his satisfaction with the condition of the report concerning the accurate settlement of the Alabama claims by the arbitration. The powerful nations. He will return to Europe in a few days. The settlement of these international difficulties seems to be a great satisfaction. On Tuesday the General was entertained at dinner by citizens of Boston from Geneva a salute of artillery was fired in his honor, and the city was illuminated. At Pierre Jay's residence Mont Blanc, a number of the Swiss bands gave him a grand serenade. The General left Boston for Mer de Glace and Montenvert.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

Our hundred thousand troops were engaged on both sides at Shipka. The Russians were routed, and poured across the Danube Bridge, retreating into Roumania.

A Shanda dispatch reports that Suleiman Ali is striving the Russians near Hargrad. Fighting continues, and the Turks are reported to be meeting with success. Several Telegrams are received by the Turkish Kaki-Sagbra.

The Porte has the following official despatch: "The Russians, Tuesday, attacked Suleiman Pasha at Kaki-Sagbra. After seven hours fighting Hauf Pasha executed a movement on Suleiman. Ten Saim Pasha coming up, repulsed the enemy and recaptured Kaki Sagbra, capturing several guns and inflicting considerable loss on the Russians.

The Turkish monitors have been captured at Nikopolis, nearly ready for service. The sailors have arrived from Batoum. Yesterday Grand Duke Alexis will come and the Danube flotilla.

The Turkish Minister has received a telegram from Constantinople officially denying the report that the Russian wounded were killed on the battle field of Plevna.

It is now positively settled that when the Legislature meets in September the question will be over, and the song of mirth and shouts of prosperity will be again heard in the land.

THE Republicans of Ohio have nominated W. H. West, of Logan County, as candidate of the Supreme Court, as their candidate for Governor. The people will not go West.

DISASTROUS FIRE IN CINCINNATI.

Seven Persons Rumored Killed.

About 1 o'clock Friday morning the city was startled by the following fire, starting, 271, 273 and 275 Broadway, Cincinnati, was burned to the ground. The cause of the fire is unknown. It was ten minutes after the fire started before the alarm was given, and were literally roasted alive. The names of the killed are John Flankenberger, Frank Stoerker, Josephine Hoffman, and a child of John Kibler. The bodies of the victims were found in the cellar, having fallen from the burning building. Several persons were injured, but not seriously. Loss to the depth of many feet with ashes, bricks and burning timbers, and the flesh stripped from the bones, and were scarcely recognizable.

Seven or eight families were rendered homeless. The fire was discovered by Officer Hoffman, who was passing at the time. He ran to the burning building, and attempted to enter the front door, but was driven back by the flames. He then ran to the rear door, and succeeded in getting out a number of persons, who were already enveloped in smoke and fire. The officer then ran to the front
