THE CARING CORNER

I Chronicles 29:11 "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory..."

Thanksgiving is a time for remembering. It is a time when we center our thoughts on the God who is the Creator of Heaven and earth.

Thanksgiving is an occasion for individual and personal reflection. A time to view all of God's blessings from the present moment. A time to recognize the goodness of a righteous God who, in spite of our limitations, continues to bless and claim us as his own.

Thanksgiving is a time for loving, because God is love and we who are of God should understand love. It is a time for reaching out and a time to sing praises to Almighty God and tell of his wonderful works.

Join with us this Sunday afternoon at 3:00 for our Advent Concert Series featuring the Second Presbyterian Church Handbell Choir from Lexington.

Surprises for the holiday table

By Helen Price Stacy

These are the days of turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, cranberries, pumpkin pie and other holiday foods. But they can be days of clothespins, trifles, kisses, water wink eye, scrapple and lots of other foods Kentucky cooks dream up, then cook up.

For cooks who may want to try trifles, beat one egg and add two tablespoons sugar and pinch of salt, then stir in sifted flour to make soft dough. Roll one-fourth inch thick, cut with biscuit cutter and fry in deep fat.

If you really want a taste of Kentucky heritage, try something more basic, like clothespins. Use any basic yeast dough recipe, roll into a flat rectangle and cut into strips which are wound around clean, all-wood, old-fashioned clothespins. Dip each clothespin into melted shortening before wrapping dough. Place on greased baking sheet and let rise until double, then bake. Remove each pin while still warm.

The same dough recipe can also be used to make knots. Instead of winding strips of dough on pins, tie the dough into loose knots, then bake.

How about water wink eye, a recipe from Lake Cumberland country? Brown one chopped onion in two tablespoons of flour and three tablespoons of bacon grease. Add a pint of cold water and three sliced potatoes, dash of salt and pepper. Cook until done.

Since Indians helped greatly during the early settlement days, why not try Indian nog, Indian bread and pudding, frizzles and gravy. For nog, use two cups evaporated milk (instead of thick cream), two cups cold water, a dash of salt and cinnamon and three tablespoons sorghum molasses. Combine and stir well, then pour into glasses, sprinkle with a dash of nutmeg, ginger or cinnamon and serve. Serves five.

Modern Indian bread can be made with a basic yeast biscuits (angel type) recipe. Roll the dough thin and fry in hot oil or shortening. Sprinkle with sugar or with salt and eat warm. May be spread with syrup, molasses or other spread.
