Nicholas County Elementary celebrates Thanksgiving

Corey Grimes and Elliott Mattox were Native Americans for a day atone of the many Thanksgiving parties at Nicholas County Elementary School last week..

Seth Haney, center, smiled for the camera as he joined Miss Geraldine McMillan's class.

Brandy Norman enjoyed dressing in Thanksgiving attire and the food was good, too.

Tonia Sidles learned keyboarding in Charlene Dillon's class.

Fern provided the following 1997 highlights for Rural Development programs in Kentucky:

- Provided financing to help 1,450 rural people to buy single homes, USDA also financed the building or rehabilitation of 110 units of multiple housing. In total, USDA's Rural Housing Service invested more than $81,145,580 either as loans, guaranteed loans or grants in rural housing last year.
- Helped to build new or improved community facilities – including a child day care center, nursing home, city hall, vocational school, two fire trucks and two hospitals - in 11 rural communities by providing more than $4,677,700 in loans, guaranteed loans or grants. These facilities serve a rural population of approximately 109,000.
- Provided in excess of one million dollars in rental assistant to help nearly 6,000 rural low-income households obtain well-built, safe housing. Half of the rental program beneficiaries were elderly, with average annual income of less than $6,000.
- Financed the start-up or expansion of 15 rural businesses or cooperatives, creating or preserving more than 1,710 jobs in the process. Over 32.5 million was approved for the past year for the guaranteed and direct Business and Industry (B&I) program to rural business and cooperatives.
- Extended $800,000 under the Rural Development Economic and Grant Program (REDLG) to rural electric cooperatives currently participating in the Rural Utility Service program for commercial development or expansion.
- Loaned $3,500,000 to local, non-profit entities or public bodies to relend to local businesses in the rural community through the Intermediary Relending Program (IRP).
- Provided more than $30 million in loans and grants for 49 rural water or wastewater projects that serve 23,596 people.
- Provided $211,410 in grants and $135,229 in loans for two distance learning and telemedicine projects that serve rural citizens in Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia and Tennessee.

"When USDA was reorganized in 1994, rural development programs that had been scattered among numerous agencies were collected under the umbrella of USDA Rural Development to create a stronger, more flexible and better integrated rural development agency," Long Thompson said. "We are seeing ample evidence that this new agency is the major force behind the renewal of our heartland. USDA is now better able to offer help to some of the nation's neediest rural communities."

Whitney Gray and music teacher Becky Castle were getting in the Thanksgiving spirit last Wednesday.
