Voting Machines.

Voting machines are used in the larger cities of New York, in Buffalo, a city of over 350,000 population, the complete returns of the election were delivered at the city hall 37 minutes after the polls closed, and the official first return was made at 5:01. There were 1,000 voters in the first district which came in at 5:07, were "delayed," after the polls closed by having forming the line. The whole election returns are made in New York in from 1 to 2 hours after the last ballot is cast. The machines are not know entirely on a close case, but are reliable. And yet Indiana has a law that permits us to have voting machines as well as Buffalo. It is not worth all it would cost to get the result of an election in a few minutes after the polls closed? But besides, voting by a machine simplifies and shortens the number of returns impossible as also any contest of election, and is what is a delicate ballot. It a man fails to vote a ballot in each and every place, it is to be counted by the machine with, actually accounting for the ballot not voted, and only to the hands of the voter. We understand that Indiana has not enough record one idea. When the voter votes a ballot, the machine counts the vote, and it stands unalterable. There is no chance for ballot stuffing, or the larger presents made possible by the ignorance of the election officers and the time of their service.

Uncross Your Legs.

"Uncross your legs," said a doctor, "you are not a lady and gentleman." "What's the matter with us?" "Why, you are a lady." "Is that a crime?" "Yes, it is a crime." The latter answered, "I not only cross my legs, but I cross my ankles." "Well you do worse yet." "Why?" "Because you are doing a thing that is forbidden by the laws of health." "What is it?" "Wearing a tight garter." "Why is that?" "Because it is a violation of the laws of circulation." "Can you prove it?" "Yes." "Show me." "Let me see your leg." "Why?" "Because I want to see if it is a violation." "Well, I will show you." "Now, I will prove to you." "Wait a minute." "Why?" "Because I want to see if I can
