Rules For Business Men

(From Ideal Power.)

Don't worry; don't overbuy don't go security.

Keep a high vitality; keep inured; keep sober; keep cool.

Stick to chosen pursuits, but not to chosen methods.

Be content with small beginnings and develop them.

Be wary of dealings of unsuccessful men.

Be cautious, but when a bargain is made stick to it.

Keep down expenses, but don't be stingy.

Make friends, but not favorites.

Don't take new risks to retrieve old losses

Stop a bad account at once.

Make plans ahead, but don't make them in cast iron.

Don't tell what you are going to do until you have done it.

"Quit Yer Kiddin"

The Cynthiana Democrat says: "The Times-Democrat thinks free mail delivery at Flemingsburg would be unpopular with the boys and girls, because it would break up the reception at the postoffice on the arrival of the evening mail. How soon one forgets! Do you remember those receptions at the Cynthiana postoffice? Nothing doing now."

No doubt the bachelor editor has many tender memories of the time of long ago, when the trying place of a certain loving couple was at the postoffice. But alas! He could never make up his mind and bring himself up to the popping point and in despair she married the butcher and lived happily ever after, or words to that effect.—[Flemingsburg Times Democrat.

Why Not Carlisle?

The Cynthiana public school needs a gymnasium. By their own efforts some of the boys have installed a nucleus of a gymnasium, and the girls, by paying a small fee, have been admitted to its use. The Board of Education can well afford to make a donation for the enlargement and improvement of the work. A few hundred dollars would be sufficient, and the auditorium furnishes an admirable location for the gym. As now conducted, only those boys who are members of the Y. M. C. A. and put up their own money can be expected to have the privilege of the apparatus they have bought. The Board of Education should reimburse them for the outlay, add enough to make a good start, and throw the work open to all the pupils. There is a strong athletic spirit in the school, among parents as well, that ought to be encouraged. Nothing so strongly stimulates interest among boys and girls. Pupils will be attracted from the outside, those already in the school will be the more readily held, and the tonic influence all around will be excellent.—[Cynthiana Democrat.

Peach Crop Is Killed Says Expert

Apple Crop, However, is Unhurt, But Other Fruits Damaged.

PRINCETON, Ky., Feb. 28. Judge H. A. Yeager, a recognized fruit authority of this city, announces that the peach crop of this section of Indiana positively is a dead one, after extensive examinations of buds made in his orchard and others. Practically every bud had the little black speck in it, which proclaimed it as fatally stricken.

Judge Yeager says the seventeen below-zero weather of several weeks ago did it. He thinks cherries are badly damaged and grapes and berries are hurt, but says no damage has been done thus far to the apple crop.

Why The Difference

A week or two ago a poor man picked up some coal from a railroad track, where it had fallen and took it home to keep his family from freezing. Of course he was arrested and sent to prison for the theft, and the family had to do the best it could without his help.

Perhaps that was all right as law should be obeyed and its infringement punished. But what of coal barons and oil magnates who so often take advantage of the necessities caused by cold weather to arbitrarily raise the price of their products?

If the poor man was guilty of petty larceny the others are morally guilty of grand larceny. But while the poor man went to jail the other men escape the meshes of the law and enjoy the reputation of being shrewd men and also, sometimes, of being generous philanthopists. —[Blue Grass Clipper.

The Poultry Yard

Do not expose the fowls to strong March winds.

Never set a thin, lousy hen. She won't stay her time out.

Especially at this time of the year, the fireless brooder is to be recommended.

On cold evenings the hens must be sent to roost with full crops.

For early hatches it is best to give not more than eleven eggs to a hen, or these on the outer edge may become exposed and chilled.

Any egg eaters in the flock? Make the nests as dark as possible; that will help. If that doesn't discourage the culprit, sharpen up the axe.

The brooder is more responsible for poor results than is the incubator. The brooder has not as yet reached the stage of perfection that the incubator has.

Early spring winds are pretty trying to the hens. They have been shut up so long that they are tender and feel the blasts. Shelter them well till the days are warmer.

A good way to prevent hens from overturning their drinking vessels, is to punch a hole in the side—near the top of a tin pail or old tomato can—and hang it up on a nail driven into the woodwork of the chicken house about six inches from the ground. Be sure there are no sharp edges to the can, or that the head of the nail does not protrude more than half an inch.

Most of the methods of "breaking up" hens from setting are cruel, and tire and distress the innocent hens who are not to blame for their instinct. The kindest way is the following: When it is necessary to stop the inclination place the hen in a nice clean coop, alone with fresh grass, and all the fresh meat cut fine that she will eat. The meat immediately increases the egg nourishment, and while the hen is having a really good time, she is fast preparing herself to commence laying eggs. It will take but two or three days before she forgets all about setting, having other affairs to attend to. —[From March Farm Journal.

Reception To Welcome Pastor

The members of the Christian church welcomed their new pastor, Rev. T. S. Tinsley and wife, in true Kentucky style at the reception in the basement of the church Friday evening. The parlors were decorated with flags and the patriotic colors, and the dainty refreshments of sandwiches, salads, coffee and chocolate were served. An air of genuine Christian fellowship and good feeling pervaded the occasion, and the incoming pastor was profoundly touched by the genuine warm-hearted reception he received. Everything augurs well for a most successful and useful pastorate for Rev. Tinsley. —[Milford Bee Grass Clipper.

The Flemingsburg Times-Democrat says: It isn't often that a railroad wreck of six persons for one ticket, but such was the case Saturday when they brought in Mrs. Wolfe and five children, none of them old enough to be charged even half fare. The lives at Robinson, Harrison county, and came to visit the family of her brother, Jas. Bell, in this precinct, but after going to the home of her cousin, Jas. P. Bell, on the Poplar Plains pike, and remaining there till Monday morning, she returned to her home, the mountain roads being almost impassable.

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Feb. 28.—Mr. Daniel B. Shawhan died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dave S. Veach, Tuesday. Mr. Shawhan was 68 years old. He is survived by his wife, and two children, Mrs. Dave Veach, of this city, and Mr. Bradley Shawhan of Washington; one sister, Mrs. Todd Wheley, of this city, and two brothers, Joseph and James Shawhan, of Cynthiana. The funeral will take place Thursday at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Veach. The services will be conducted by Rev. W. E. Ellis. Burial will be in Battle Grove cemetery. The pall-bearers will be Gano Ammerman, T. Rees, W. L. Northcutt, Todd Whaley, W. H. Northcutt, and Harry Veach.—[Lexington Herald.

Message From Old Mexico

Cananea, Sonora, Mexico, March 2nd, 1912.

The Carlisle Mercury, Carlisle, Ky.

Gentlemen:

Please change my address from Cananea, Mex., to 600 Texas St., El Paso, Texas, as I leave here next Tuesday, Mar., 5th for El Paso, where I will make my future home.

The Mexicans have been fighting around Cananea for the last month, and now they have threatened to attack Cananea, would not be surprised to see a little "fun", but the U. S. looks good to me.

We are certainly having some fine weather here now; trees in bloom and it looks as if Spring was here sure enough.

Hoping this finds all well, and sending my best wishes to Miss Katie, Miss Nell and the balance of the Mercury force.

I remain,

Yours truly,

C. WOODFORD CRAIG.

"The Old Woman"

"The old woman," is the remark often heard on our streets and in our stores. A nice phrase to be using about the dear old soul who kept her vigil over you in your infancy, kissed away your tears in childhood and remaining your trusted friend in maturity. Is this all the love you have for the silver-haired mother who bathed your scorch-ing brow all through the long sleepless nights of affliction, when your brain was wild with burning fever? Is there no other term you can find for her whose love has followed you through every trial, tribulation and misfortune of your life? Has mother, through all those years of labor, watching and waiting, been wasting her love on a worthless bunch of clay, who, in the rosy days of manhood has no other term fitting than "the old woman" by which to address or speak of his mother? [Exchange.

"A Little Child Shall Lead Them"

During a campaign for local prohibition a thousand people assembled and watched the proceedings go by. That cuts no figure—few votes in that crowd; mostly women and kids." said one. Then as the laughed and pested about the marching "kids" one man stopped suddenly, his eyes intently fixed on a little group of three chubby marchers together, one a sturdy little fellow of seven years, solid as a rock, yet of five, while the other two carried a banner high above head on which were the words, "Vote Dry for Me."

"Well, said the man, "if there isn't my George, and he's leading little Mary, and there's Johnny carrying a banner. That beats me!" He stood watching the trading, the children until they came opposite to where he stood, then turning to his companions said:

"Good-bye, boys count me out—from now on I'll march with my kids" and he stepped into the dry procession, took tired little Mary into his big, strong arms and marched on with the dry "kids" home.

"Vine and Oak" Theory Paste

I know they tell us that women are vines that ought to cling and the men are the great sturdy oaks, but when I look around a town which permits saloons, like Paris, and I see so many of the great oaks in the saloons and their sturdy vines to the wind, I think the old theory has about gone to pieces.

Father Murphy was that he is 11 years of age, has never tasted intoxicating liquors and never entered a saloon. Mrs. Murphy is the more frequently he will take a drink in some place where it is red, or champagne when fizz is on. He will introduce and work for measures looking to the sealing of the encrusheries, and at the same time ride on a New Jersey mule-back. Visit To Millersburg and the M. F. C.

By Rev. Luther R. Bridgers

I had met Dr. Fisher some years ago and known of his school, but until now have I had the privilege of becoming more intimately acquainted with him and his work. For the past few days, while assisting Brother W. A. Swift, the Methodist pastor at Millersburg, in revival work, I have been beautifully entertained in the college by Dr. and Mrs. Fisher.

Dr. Fisher is a high-class Christian gentleman, of even character and remarkably wise in meeting the demands of college life. It has been my privilege to visit many boarding schools, both male and female, but never have I been more favorably impressed with any school than with Millersburg Female College.

The problems and responsibilities of this age are calling for Christian education. The duty of equipping the child is presting upon the heart of true parents—but where to find a good, clean, safe, high-class school is the question of thoughtful mothers and fathers. If I had a girl to send to school, I believe I had rather she would be in Millersburg Female College than any other school I know.

The school building is a new imposing structure, compact and conveniently arranged and equipped with modern improvements. They have a good water supply and the conditions are sanitary. The moral influence of the school is strong and sensible. There seems to be no friction anywhere. They have a large student body of fine young women. They seem happy and the college seems like a large home.

I enjoyed meeting the people of Millersburg and especially the warm welcome and beautiful entertainment given me by Dr and Mrs. Fisher. May God continue to bless them and their work.

Brother W. A. Swift, our pastor at Millersburg, is a fine man and lives close to God. His people love him.—[Central Methodist Advocate.

Bourbon Court

The mule market was rather brisk, owing to the big crop of the spring season when work mules will be in demand, and a number of good sales were made. The demand was good and of the 100 head which were on the market a great many changed hands at prices ranging from $150 to $180 per head.

Caywood & McCutchen, who a few days ago purchased the business of Mr. Walter Clark, were on the market with some fine mules and report the following sales: Nine head to Asa Jewell, of Lexington, for $1,630; 2 to Mr. Monson at $255; 2 to Oscar Henry at $305; 2 head to Woodford Buckner, $305; 2 to Jeff Weathers, $305. They purchased 6 mules at prices ranging from $150 to $175 per head. Very few horses were offered but the supply greatly exceeded the demand.

At the pens of M. J. Murphy & Co., only one bunch of thirty-five head of 850 pound calves were offered but they were left unsold.

There is a movement on foot to form a company to establish a modern, five story Hotel in Paris, it is understood that it will be built on the property of Mr. Rasmodeus, at the corner of Main and Seventh Street.

My Doctor Said

"Try Cardui," writes Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I was in a very low state of health, and was not able to be up and tend to my duties. I did try Cardui, and soon began to feel better. I got able to be up and help do my housework. I continued to take the medicine, and now I am able to do my housework and to care for my children, and I feel as though I could never praise Cardui enough for the benefits I have received."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Cardui is successful, because it is made especially for women, and acts specifically on the womanly organism. Cardui does one thing, and does it well. That explains the great success which it has had, during the past 50 years in helping thousands of weak and ailing women back to health and happiness.

If you are a woman, feel tired, dull, and are nervous, cross and irritable, it's because you need a tonic. Why not try Cardui? Cardui builds, strengthens, restores, and acts in every way as a special, tonic remedy for women. Test it for yourself. Your druggist sells Cardui. Ask him.
