Hunting Laws

Every hunter in Kentucky must have a State Hunter's license, except those who hunt on their own land or leased land.

Hunters must secure written permission to hunt on any land except their own.

You cannot buy or sell game from States which prohibit same.

You may kill squirrels from June 15th to February 1st.

You may kill wild ducks from August 12th to April 1st.

You may kill wild geese from August 15th to April 1st.

You may kill woodcock from June 25th to February 1st.

You may kill quail from November 15th to January 1st.

You may kill doves from August 1st to February 1st.

The sale of wild turkeys is prohibited. Quail or partridge must not be taken by net, snares, or bolt, or trap at any time.

No person or company shall ship wild turkey, pheasant, partridge, quail or goose, unless lawfully killed and in possession of a hunter.

Rabbits and squirrels must not be killed between September 15th and November 15th, but rabbits can be taken with dogs at any time.

Turkeys Higher

The local niflesbots had good opportunities Friday to test their ability. About fifty turkeys, which were roosting in the trees near the courthouse and on telephone polls near the postoffice, were killed. Late Thursday afternoon Mr. James Collins was driving a large drove of turkeys through the streets of our city to the local market. Just as the bunch reached the courthouse several children thoughtlessly ran through the drove and the turkeys became frightened and flew to the tops of the houses, trees and nearby telephone polls. The hands of the local telephone company and several citizens assisted in catching several turkeys, but about fifty or sixty were left roosting in the trees near the public square. Early Friday morning it was decided to kill the turkeys.

First Big Game Story Of Season

The first big game story of the season comes from Robertson County.

An eagle, measuring seven feet and four inches from tip to tip and weighing eleven pounds, was killed by Luther Wright. The giant bird was attempting to get away with a fat Thanksgiving grabber, when Mr. Wright happened on the scene with his shot gun.

All trains on the Maysville and Lexington branch of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad were delayed several hours Friday on account of the falling in of the tunnel at Pleasant Valley. The damage was caused by a baggage car and the crew was unable to clear up the rock and debris in time for the morning trains to pass.

Land, Stock, Crops

Fat hogs are bringing $7.00 per hundred in Bourbon county.

850 pound heifers are selling in Bourbon county at 5 cents per pound.

Corn is selling in the Blue Grass counties from $2.00 to $2.50 per barrel.

Tobacco is bringing high prices in this county, ranging from 9 to 17 cents.

Several thousand bushels of Blue Grass seed sold at Lexington last week for 65 cents per bushel.

Those who have sold their tobacco are busy stripping it in order to be ready to deliver it early in December.

Texas raises more cattle than any other five states and is the second live stock market in the United States.

Thos. McClintock, of Millersburg, made the following sales of mules: To Thompson & Gentry, 8 mules, $1,500; to W. D. McIntyre, 5, $1,495; to Caywood & McCord, 4, $840. Mr. McClintock bought in Bath county, 49 mules at from $125 to $200; from James Coor, in Harrison county, three, $420; and from Dick Wills, one $160.—[Kentucky Citizen.

Better Look Out!

The first arrests for violations of the new game laws to occur in Bourbon county were made by Game Warden James Gibson last week when warrants were issued for Clay Laughlin and Ed Lee, two white men of North Middletown preachers. The warrants were the result of alleged violations of the game laws and three charges were preferred. It is alleged the men were hunting on the farm of Mr. Henry S. Caywood, near North Middletown, and are charged with hunting without a license and out of season and unlawfully having in their possession a rabbit killed with a gun.

Mr. Caywood, who was recently appointed by State Agent Ben Dixon, game warden for Bourbon, J. Quincy Ward, is determined to enforce the law to the letter and is making a good start in that direction. The trial of Laughlin and Lee will take place in North Middletown Wednesday.—[Bourbon News.

Woman Suffrage in Ten States

Women are entitled to vote for all officers, from President down, in the States of California, Colorado, Idaho, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. At the election held on Tuesday of last week four more States, Arizona, Kansas, Nebraska and Oregon, adopted woman suffrage. Winning by a decisive majority.

"Nell Rose" is the latest new color. After "Alice Blue" and "Helen Pink", "Nell Rose" the daughters of President Roosevelt and President Taft, the new color has been named for the eldest daughter of President-elect Wilson.

Twenty fifth Anniversary

Special services were held at the Moorefield Christian church, Sunday morning, Nov. 19th, it being the twenty fifth anniversary of the dedication. Meeting called to order by C. S. Templeman, who appointed Bro. Barnett, Chairman, and Hardy Myers, Clerk. The first hymn, selected by Bro. Templeman, was "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." In the first one song at the dedication. Then came the Scripture reading and prayer, by Bro. Barnett; then a history of the Church from beginning to dedication, by Bro. Templeman, who was the chief promoter and leader of same. Singing was in the Spring of 1897 after a parade in a wagon, organized at Templeman's home. He and five others, in a special convention on the grounds, started the movement, six agreeing to give $100.00 each, the other one gave the lot. From that time on weekly meetings were held in the school house. Committees were appointed and the work begun. Bro. Templeman appointed a special committee to solicit the money, which he did nobly and without a murmur, contributing around the tune of $300 himself making his report weekly to the church contributions. It was quite a task, to put on Bro. Templeman, but not another one to all the least was so well qualified and so willing to do the work without one cent for the services of his own horse and conveyance. He worked day in and day out, rain or shine, never tiring, and never murmuring. In addition to the contributions from laymen of the same faith, there were many, not good men, from the Presbyterian, Methodists. $1700 was raised and the house dedicated—not one dollar lacking. The pavement set with in front of the building was a lasting monument in memory of Bro. Templeman, he being special charge of same. It is noteworthy, and heading same to spot from Little Jackson.

The organization of the church was effected on Saturday, Nov. 12, with sixty-three members, nearly all of whom subscribed their own names. The dedication took place Sunday afternoon, Nov. 19, 1922, Rev. Hardy Myers officiating.

After Bro. Templeman's "History of the Church," Bro. Burner announced "Ah Aren, "Will There Be Any Stars In My Crown," whereupon he stars that will adorn Bro. Templeman's crown. Then came reading of old and original poem which is remarkable in many respects. The original number in organization was sixty three, fourteen of whom have passed over the river, leaving 49 per cent. yet living and all accounted for. There were three Elders elected, all of whom are alive and one still serving as such in the congregation. Four Deacons were elected, three of whom are still living, the other, Bro. W. S. Atkinson, having passed over Jordon. One clerk and treasurer and two trustees were elected, all of whom are living.

When the roll was called twelve or fourteen answered present, after which other old familiar songs were sung and Sister Yancey, widow of Bro. Yancey, was present and gave a very effective talk. Then came the Communion, Bro. Templeman presiding as he did twenty-five years ago, rendering the same talk above the old hymn, "Do Bible which was read at the stand, and that Sister Mollie Howe has presented the Communion service still in use and that Henry Caldwell and Wallace Howe were leaders in procuring means to buy the bell. After partaking of the supper the old hymn, "Shall We Meet Beyond the River," was sung.

Tell Dealers, Too

Tell dealers, too, when you buy their goods, and let them know of their quality. Let them know of their nation-wide advertising, how they protect, and how they stand behind their goods.

THE TABOO ON MODERATE DRINKING

The use of alcohol is receiving some hard knocks these days. A prominent railway system not content with the general rule heretofore in force on railways requiring employees to abstain while on duty, now forbids employes to indulge at all in drinking any of employment hours, or in any other conduct which will impair their health or make them less alert and less capable while on duty. The owner of one of the nation's pets—a prominent baseball team—announces that moderation in drinking is not sufficient; the players on his team must leave alcohol entirely alone and abandon cigarettes. The justification for such rules may be found not only in the difficulty of being moderate in indulgence, but also in the cumulative and after-effects of dissipation. The world is moving; the old fetich of "personal liberty" at whatever cost of danger to the public at large seems to be losing its power. The Journal of the American Medical Association thinks that the time may come when every man to whom the life and safety of others are entrusted may be expected, if need be, required to be temperate as ball-players and railway employees.

CUT OFF SHAKE'S HEAD

Clean out the saloon and that helps to clean out all bad things. It also helps to get rid of so much rotten politics. What is the use to be hunting a snake on the tail? Cut the head off and he is done. The saloon is evil, as we know, and it has been so for long time. It ruins home and character and strength and life and everything else as no other one thing in the world. The enlightened people of the land are agreed on this matter. Why a city will continue to elect men who will foster such a high handed demon as the saloon is more than we can pretend to understand. We know that we are right about the evil of the liquor traffic. We have not the least shadow of doubt about that. God hasten the day when not only Lexington but all of Kentucky shall be free from this red handed murder and the curse of rum.—[Central Methodist Advocate.

"THE NEW JESUS POISON."—"Alcoholic drinks which are now being introduced into China are called by a Chinese newspaper the 'new Jesus poison,' or the 'German poison,' to distinguish them from the English poison opium."—[Central Christian Advocate, Kansas City, Mo.

Horrible! Oh, no, just natural! What more appropriate term could the hundred millions of the other side of the globe apply to the beverage curse which America has been pouring forth to the ends of the earth. With the present of ten million Christian voters every presidential year? And yet neither Taft and his G. O. P. associates, nor Wilson with the backing of his Bryan-Tammany coalition, nor the Bull Moose with his 21,000-word "Confession of Faith," can find an instant's time or a syllable's length in which to even recognize this protested spreading pestilence!

The Methodist Episcopal General Conference did not mince words when, in adopting a resolution denouncing Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson for accepting the honorary chairmanship of a brewers' congress in Chicago last October, it declared that President Taft, Secretary Wilson and Secretary of State Knox "have forfeited all claims on the future franchise of the Christian and sober manhood of the nation," because they had ignored appeals that no government official attend the congress. Secretary Wilson's explanation that he attended the congress because he was interpolated in the growth of hops and barley was described as "an insult and frivolous." Public officials must learn that, called to office by the good people of the land, they are not expected to truckle to the base and vicious elements that selling men.—[National Advocate.

Week In The Foreign Field

A unique Missionary Institute will be held at the Christian church beginning on the 27th of November. E. R. Moon, who has been one of the leaders in opening up the Congo Valley in Africa, and C. M. Brooks, of Carlisle, a prominent business man, who carries much of his time in missionary work, will open the institute and remain during the week. Later there will be joined by Mr. Corey, of Cincinnati, who is one of the foremost missionary leaders in the world. There will probably be other speakers present during the week and it is expected to be an epoch making occasion in the local church.—[Shelby Record.

J. M. Allen, the talented editor of the Cynthiana Democrat, is the "original" Wilson man in Harrison county. He was spending many dollars worth of friends' ink on him before the college boys in that neck-of-the-woods knew there was such a man as the Professor. He should be made to take the Cynthiana postoffice whether he wants it or not.—[Falmouth Outlook.

Will Move to Arkansas

Mr. John F. Barbee, the well known farmer and stock dealer, who recently sold his farm on the Maysville pike, near Millersburg, to Dr. M. H. Dailey, of this city, will shortly move to Arkansas.

Mr. Barbee recently closed a deal for the purchase of 450 acres of fine agricultural land lying in Drew county, near the city limits of Monticello, Ark. He also purchased a large sales stable in that city which he will use in connection with his stock farm.

The stock now on the Barbee place, in this county, will be shipped to Arkansas, where Mr. Barbee intends to continue in the raising and selling of fine horses and ponies.—[Bourbon News.

Sunflower Seed For Hens

For poultry the Russian sunflower is the most profitable variety. Sow seed early in June. The sunflower is a profitable crop to grow for furnishing a good quality of rich oil feed to take the place of cottonseed or flaxseed meal. Sunflower seed is used in all the poultry mixtures now sold in the markets.

The sunflower is a hardy plant, a vigorous and rapid grower, and a good plant to grow not only for its seeds, but also for its bright, beautiful yellow blossoms. The plant, when in full bloom, makes a good food for honey bees. Have the ground deeply plowed and thoroughly mellowed. The ground should be rich to grow large heads full of seeds. Mark the rows off three feet apart and three inches deep. Drop two seeds to the running foot. When plants are up, thin out and stand 15 to 20 inches apart. Good culture, free of grass and weeds, must be given through the season.—[Ex.

Indians and Indians

Another Indian holocaust recently published, was more than that published in the decade 1900-1910. The need not cause any alarm, however, as it only aggregates some dozen bucks, squaws and papooses all told. Most of these Indians reside up in the mountains and they are peaceable farmers and not warlike savages.

They are a race different, and far different, from those encountered by Daniel Boone, when he was blazing the way for civilization. In fact they are much less to be dreaded and shunned than that more prolific variety of "Indians" with which residents of Frankfort and other Kentucky cities are very familiar.—[Frankfort Journal.

Many Quail Killed in Kentucky.

Two hundred thousand quail were slaughtered in Kentucky last year and shipped out of the State, according to Charles E. Brewster, council for the federal game department, who has been busy working up cases against lay violators and who addressed the Game and Fish Commission at Frankfort. He has absolute proof, consisting of express receipts and other evidence to be submitted to the Federal Grand Jurors, to account for 100,000 and he said as many more were shipped out. The hunters received an average of 25 cents apiece for the birds. Thirty-five cases are prepared for prosecution before Federal Grand Juries and the Game Commission expects to put a stop to this traffic.

Educational Sermons

Superintendent of Public Instruction in Kentucky has made an appeal to the preachers of the State, of all denominations, to preach a sermon on Nov. 26th, dealing with the needs of better education in the state. Mr. Hansbrough says he hopes the ministers will not regard it as a desecration of the sacred altar to preach on the great needs of rejuvenating Kentucky from her unenviable illiteracy. The Southern Educational Association will meet in Louisville Nov. 29th to 30th and Superintendent Hansbrough thinks the observance of Nov. 26th will be propitious for the great meeting.

The fifty-one life insurance companies doing business in Kentucky last year received $9,526,445 in premiums and paid out $3,628,003.79 in losses.

Local Mention

The local Tent, Knights of the Maccabees entertained with a banquet Saturday evening for M. F. Elkin, State Commander of the order, the occasion being the anniversary of his birth.

A course banquet, consisting of all the delectable viands of the season was served by the Dallas Restaurant.

Dr. G. B. Spencer acted as toast master, and Leslie Hughes and William Mastin responded to toasts.

Fifty or sixty guests attended.

Farmers' Union To Meet Soon

All members of the Nicholas Farmers' Union are urged to attend the meeting to be held at the Court house, on Saturday November 30th.

R. L. Barnett and W. M. Martin will speak. The public is invited.

Petitions for Election

The advocates of local option in Georgetown and Scott county are circulating a petition in the various precincts of the county, calling for an election in the near future under the county unit law.

The National Daughters of the Confederacy are holding a five days' session in Washington City this week. From the time of the arrival of the delegates a round of social entertainments began. The big event of the convention was the laying of the corner stone of the molument to the Confederate soldiers buried in Arlington cemetery. Col. H. A. Herbert, Secretary of the Navy in Pres. Cleveland's Cabinet, laid the corner stone and officiated as master of ceremonies and William Jennings Bryan delivered the oration of the day.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

[From a series of elaborate chemical tests.]

Comparative digestibility of food made with different baking powders.

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of two kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the gastric fluid, each for the same length of time.

The percentage of the food digested is shown as follows:

Bread made with Royal Cream of Tartar Powders

99 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder

67 Per Cent. Digested

Royal Baking Powder raised food is shown to be of greatly superior digestibility and healthfulness.
