Hogs Versus Tobacco

"Cut out tobacco and raise hogs" is now the main idea of farmers in Western Kentucky, which for years has led the world in the crop of the weed. Big meat dealers declare that they have been compelled to buy thousands of dollars worth of swine in Omaha and Chicago, although they may be profitably grown here. Heartsfaction over the delayed sale of only a part of the enormous crop will affect matters materially. This applies only to the dark tobacco district, as the burley growers of the State got fair prices for their crop.

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by Chas. E. Butler & Co.

The Wilson administration will be "dry." Intoxicating liquors will have no place in the White House during the next four years, unless the President's views undergo a sharp change. Secretary of State Bryan, as is well known, has been a Prohibition advocate for many years. On one occasion Mr. Bryan would have made it a national issue, and it was due to his efforts that the prohibition legislation in Nebraska was put into effect. Speaker Clark is a teetotaler and has been for many years. A large portion of the Democratic majority in the Senate and House is from the South where prohibition is general.

Good Story

"An Englishman, a Welshman and a Scotchman once paid a visit to friends on their return they brought back with them souvenirs of their trip. The Englishman brought a tobacco pouch with God preserve our friend on it, the Welshman brought a snuff box with a proverb from Psalms on it, and the Scotchman brought a knife and fork each with 'Lochs a-mond' on it.—The Bruce Out Lake Beacon, by gilbert White.

Best Known Cough Remedy

For forty-three years Dr. King's New Discovery has been known throughout the world as the most reliable cough remedy. Over three million bottles were used last year. Isn't this proof? It will get rid of your cough, or we will refund your money. J. J. Owens, of Allendale, S. C., writes the way hundreds of others have done: "After twenty years, I find that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and colds that I have ever used." For coughs or colds and all throat and lung troubles, it has no equal. 50c. and $1.00 at All Druggists.

Delicious Chocolate Concoctions

Fannie Merritt Farmer, cookery editor of the Woman's Home Companion, says in the April number of that periodical that time and experience have demonstrated that the products of the cocoa bean are articles of food as wholesome as they are agreeable. She says that a sufficient proof of their great value may be found in the fact that they always play a part in the Army and Navy rations. She presents a dozen or more recipes, some of which follows:

"Chocolate Caramels Put two and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, and when melted add two cupfuls of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of molasses and one-half cupful of milk. Bring to the boiling point, add four squares of unsweetened chocolate and stir until chocolate is melted. Let boil until mixture will form a firm ball in cold water. Add vanilla."

"Cardui Cured Me"

For nearly ten years, at different times, Mrs. Sallie Jones, of Treadway, Tenn., suffered with womanhood. She says: "At last, I took down and thought I would try. I could not sleep. I couldn't eat. I had pains in my side. The doctors gave me up. I read that Cardui had helped so many, and I began to take it. It was for me. Cardui saved my life! Now, I can do anything."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

If you are weak, tired, worn-out, or suffer from any of the pains peculiar to weak women, such as headache, backache, dragging-down feelings, pains in one side, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, nervousness, you should try Cardui, the Woman's tonic. It is made of purely harmless, vegetable ingredients. Cardui is the best remedy for you to use, as it can do you nothing but good. It contains no dangerous drugs. It has no bad after-effects. Ask your druggist. He sells and recommends Cardui.

W.C.T.U COLUMN

(Edited by Women's Christian Temperance Union)

CLOSED BY WEBB LAW

Atchison, Kan.—Eight wholesale liquor companies of Winthrop, Mo., across the Missouri River from here, were notified by deputies of the railroad and express companies today that they would accept no more shipments of liquor consigned to Kansas points. This action was taken as a result of the enforcement of the Webb liquor law in Kansas. This practically will put the Winthrop companies out of business, as they had been selling most of their output in Kansas.

$4,000 FOR SLAVE GIRL

San Francisco, Cal.—After treading a labyrinth of dark passages, battering down doors and finding themselves blocked by an impassable steel barrier, Capt. Frank Ainsworth and a squad of U. S. immigration inspectors found four Chinese slave girls in an improvised prison formerly used for a gambling house. As much as $4,000 apiece is being offered for slave girls.

Two extracts from addresses by Cardinal Manning:

"The drink traffic is a public, permanent and ubiquitous agency of degradation."

"I wish well to all trades, but with a reserve. I hope the liquor may bake and sell more bread. I hope the clothier may sell more yards of cloth and make more coats. I hope every farmer may sell more wheat. But I cannot say in my heart and conscience that the brewer may brew more beer, or the distiller distill more spirits, or the publicans sell more of both. For the prosperity I wish to this one trade is that it should cease."

WHO PAYS THE TRAFFIC'S TAXES?

You say the liquor traffic "paid" Uncle Sam last year $212,042,329.92 and that ought to be given some credit for that? Well, hardly. In the first place it took out of your pocket and mine (and just because you didn't drink yourself don't imagine you're exempt) and the pockets of our ninety-five million neighbors not less than $2,000,000,000. That means a little more than one dollar apiece. Then we went to the government in payment for protection. But who really did pay it? The brewers and distillers?

Not one cent of it.

A woman bends over the wash-tub. Her husband is down town. And when, last Tuesday, the flood came, sweeping in its path hundreds of lives, and millions of dollars worth of property, it was that same ability to think and act quickly, that same capacity for organization, which built up the giant industry of which he is the head, that made him the dominant personality in this crisis.

His immense buildings were thrown open to the homeless, and as far as was possible, he personally welcomed each refugee that came or was brought to this haven of shelter. It was his money that purchased food and medicine and clothing, as far as it could be purchased. Special trains left New York, financed by John H. Patterson. With him, as with many others, there was no counting the cost—only the appeal of suffering humanity, an appeal that gripped the heart.

And that man they have violated the law of his Country; has formed a monopoly in restraint of trade; has ruthlessly eliminated competition, and for this violation of the law he must pay the penalty. It seems a bit hard, this sentence. He is no longer a young man, but the Law must have the respect of the rich as well as of the poor. And yet—"He was a man, take him for all in all."

HOME, SWEET HOME

I've bought goods at Glasgow, Belfast and Cork,

London and Liverpool, and then in New York,

I've purchased in Paris, yes, been in Rome

But say to you truly, there's no place like home.

Have been to Chicago, I'm sorry to say, I got what I ordered, but first, had to pay.

When the boxes were opened I stood there amazed

And said to myself goods are better at home.

The stove that I sent for had only three legs,

What's the use of a stove if it hasn't its pegs?

When I baked in the oven it was cracked in the cone,

Then I wished to old Mike I had bought it at home.

I'm now all filled up with this buying away,

I'll buy where I sell my good butter and hay,

If the Lord will forgive me no more will I roam,

Hereafter I'll spend all my dollars at home. —Tyndall Press.

COMMENT

A striking feature of the recent flood horrors in Ohio and Indiana is the promptness of the response made to the appeal for help from the flood-swept district.

Money and we may be as a people too lazy often to give thought to things above the mere accumulation of wealth; hurried, heedless, harassed by business cares; coldly cruel, when we play the game we call Business—yet now and then a great calamity like that which swept Ohio and Indiana of lives in Dayton sweeps every soul of us to a realization of Universal Brotherhood: "gives us pause" in our mad careering after wealth, and shows us to the world as a nation, great-hearted, sympathetic, immensely generous.

"As some tall cliff that lifts its awful form;
Swells from the vale, and midway leaves the storm
Though numb'd his breast the rolling clouds are spread,
Eternal sunshine settles on his head."

Aptly may Goldsmith's lines describe the nobility of one, John H. Patterson, of Dayton, as he appears to thousands of his homeless townsmen, and as we believe he will appear to the eyes of the nation, when the full significance of his benevolence is realized.

Surely there may be no one, who will withhold from this venerable man, now under sentence to prison, the tribute of admiration and respect which is his due.

In the building of the National Cash Register Company, John H. Patterson built, as it were, the city of Dayton. He lived the splendid little city that his business genius had made; was beloved by thousands who made this town. And when, last Tuesday, the flood came, sweeping in its path hundreds of lives, and millions of dollars worth of property, it was that same ability to think and act quickly, that same capacity for organization, which built up the giant industry of which he is the head, that made him the dominant personality in this crisis.

His immense buildings were thrown open to the homeless, and as far as was possible, he personally welcomed each refugee that came or was brought to this haven of shelter. It was his money that purchased food and medicine and clothing, as far as it could be purchased. Special trains left New York, financed by John H. Patterson. With him, as with many others, there was no counting the cost—only the appeal of suffering humanity, an appeal that gripped the heart.

And that man they have violated the law of his Country; has formed a monopoly in restraint of trade; has ruthlessly eliminated competition, and for this violation of the law he must pay the penalty. It seems a bit hard, this sentence. He is no longer a young man, but the Law must have the respect of the rich as well as of the poor. And yet—"He was a man, take him for all in all."

Enthusiasm Marks Agricultural Rally Held Saturday

Prominent Educators Attend Meeting Held At Court House

550 MEMBERS ENTER CLUBS

Interesting Addresses Made On Educational Subjects

A record-breaking crowd attended the Agricultural School Rally held here Saturday under the direction of the County Superintendent Lida E. Gardner, and much interest was shown in the organization of the various clubs.

Corn, Tobacco, Irish Potato and Sweet Potato clubs were organized among the boys. Domestic Science, Tomato and Poultry clubs among the girls.

100 members constituted the Boys' Corn Club; about 200 were enrolled in the Domestic Science Club, and 50 each in the other clubs.

A new feature was the organization of a corn club among the girls. Thirty-one girls have agreed to raise five acres of corn during the growing season. The corn raised by this Adults' Club will be shown at the Boys' Corn Fair next November.

Committees were appointed; seed distributed, and rules and instructions made to govern the work.

Prominent educators from various parts of the state attended the meeting. Music was furnished during the day by the Bald Hill Band, which met the trains to greet the visitors as they came in.

The meeting was held in the Circuit Court room, and the following is a list of the addresses delivered.

10:30 Address, Bald Hill Band
Hon. Chas. To Orme, Supt. Public Instruction
Invocation President M. F. C. Music Bald Hill Band
11:00 Address, "The Value of Teaching Domestic Science in Our Schools" Miss Sweeney
11:30 Address, "Educational Advancements" R. S. Eubank, Editor S. S. Journal, Lexington

Lunch served by the Ladies of the Presbyterian Church in the Court House

1:15 Music Bald Hill Band
1:30 Address Dr. Henry Barker, Pres. K. S. U., Lexington
2:00 Address Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, Pres. Ky. Civic Rights League
2:30 Address Mrs. H. B. Woolcott, Shelbyville.

Club children were organized by transferring pupils in other rooms of the court house and marched into the audience during the day.

Much disappointment was felt by those who had expected to hear the address to be delivered by Hon. J. W. Newman, Superintendent Gardner received a telegram from Mr. Newman, who is now in New Orleans, saying that on account of the high water in Ohio and the South, and consequent delays to train service, he would be unable to reach Carlisle in time for the meeting.

Among prominent educators in attendance here were: Presidents Henry S. Barker, of Kentucky State University, R. S. Eubank, editor of the Southern School Journal, Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, Dr. C. C. Fisher, of the Millersburg Female College, and Mrs. H. B. Wolcott, of Shelbyville.

Has Narrow Escape

Miss Nancy Talbert, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Talbert, of this county, had a narrow escape from death at the Jackstown pike railway crossing Thursday afternoon. Miss Talbert was alone in the buggy, and did not notice the approach of the train.

Suddenly called to her just in time, and she leaped from the buggy to the ground between the track, the rapidly approaching train narrowly missing the rear wheels of the vehicle.

Tobacco Auctioneer Here

Oliver Clay, formerly of this county, visited relatives here Friday and Saturday. Mr. Clay was auctioneer on the Georgetown, Ohio, loose leaf tobacco market the past season. This is his second season as an auctioneer on the tobacco market.

SAVAGE BEAR HAS NO SOUL FOR MUSIC

Frau is a mean-tempered Alaskan brown bear in the New York Zoological Gardens who refuses to be tamed by gentle music. Frau's owner, who declined to give her name, is a professional opera singer and Caruso fan. She sided by his cage in the Bronx and sang arias in French, German and English, but Frau only growled and showed that his keeper appeared with a big bouquet.

Strange Suicide Of Emil Fredrick At Lexington

One of the strangest suicides ever known in Lexington came to light Friday morning when the police found the body of Emil Fredrick, aged 62, in the saloon of S. S. Hoover, at 114 Cheapside. Fredrick had shot himself through the head with a 38-calibre revolver.

Beside the body was found a letter to the editor of the Lexington Leader, enclosing what Fredrick termed his "Autobiographical Vindication from Eternity," in which he recounts in a rambling fashion the events of his life, from the time of his birth in the town of Soulsbach, Alsace-Loraine up to the hour of his death. He tells of his intention to commit suicide, and ends the strange document by "directing that his body be bequeathed to any scientist who may desire to make an examination of his brain.

Fredrick was a florist, and lived in Mt. Sterling for several years. He was unfortunate in business matters, and his wife left him some years ago, and it is thought that worry over this caused him to take his own life.

KNOWN IN CARLISLE

Many people in Carlisle remember him, as it was his custom for years to make trips here each spring, selling flowers, shrubs and potted plants.

Knights of Pythias Will Meet Here Friday

All is in readiness for the meeting of the various lodges of the Knights of Pythias, of the Twentieth District, which is to be held here Friday.

The convention is to be an Educational Meeting, and instructions in the ritual, and exemplification of the new work will be special features. The institution of new lodges, and the general welfare of the Order will also be under discussion.

The various lodges of the District are asked to come to the meeting with a number of candidates for the First Rank, and with a first class team, with the idea that a contest may be had in putting on the work.

The meeting will be held in the rooms of the local lodge.

The following lodges are expected to attend:

Nicholas No. 76, Carlisle; Owingsville No. 87, Owingsville; Maple No. 96, Flemingsburg; Lily No 167, Carlisle; Sharpsburg No. 168, Sharpsburg; Andy No. 196, Sprout; East Union No. 204, East Union; Ewing No. 204, Ewing; Bald Hill No. 215, Sharpsburg; Hill Top No. 214, Hill Top; Pleasant Valley No. 219, Pleasant and Valley; Tilton No. 220, Tilton.

Grand Master Of Masons Visits Local Lodge

Mr. Joseph Ewalt, Grand Master of the Masonic Lodge, of Kentucky, visited Daugherty Lodge, Number 65, Thursday evening and witnessed the conferring of the Master's degree. Several visitors from neighboring lodges were present. A light lunch followed after the work.

Congratulations In Order

A party of local automobile enthusiasts, who contemplated a visit to the plat of the Stoddard-Dayton Automobile Company, last week, are congratulating themselves upon changing their minds at the last moment, owing to the threatening weather. Their intended trip would have landed them in Dayton on Tuesday, the day of the flood.

Among those who had intended to make the trip were James Ledford, C. C. Ratliff, William Ledford, J. C. Turgman, I. B. Ross and W. J. Reed.

Light Plant Shuts Down

During the rain storm of Wednesday night, the electric light plant was forced to shut down, on account of a tree on East Main street having become charged with electric current to such an extent as to be a menace to pedestrians. The moving picture shows were put out of commission, and merchants resorted to oval oil lamps in the stores.

Adjudged Incompetent

John Smoot was tried last week in the Nicholas County Circuit Court, and adjudged incompetent to manage his business. Judge N. B. McNew appointed Newton Smoot, his son, as Committee to look after his business affairs.

The meeting of the Kentucky Educational Association at Louisville on April 30, May 1, 2 and 3 will afford an opportunity for the teachers of this section to visit and inspect the Louisville schools and to see the best there is in the way of equipment, sanitation, heating, etc. All schools will be open to visitation on Monday and Tuesday before the meeting begins. Two or three of the most important schools will be open all through the meeting. There is much to be learned outside the text book, and much to be taught which is not found in the course of study.

A crowd of sight-seers went from here to Maysville Sunday, to view the flood scenes along the Ohio River. The flood at Maysville was greater than that of 1884. Residences and business houses along the river front were submerged up to the second story. The first floor of the Central Hotel was under water, and motor boats and row-boats were able to navigate the heart of the business district. Train service on the C. & O. was annulled and passengers over the L. & N. Railroad the town by means of an improvised bridge of flat cars. The crest of the flood reached Maysville at midnight Sunday. Some of the heaviest losers of the high water are: American Tobacco Company, damage to stored tobacco, $200,000; Hall Flour Works, $10,000; Wells & Dryden, tobacco dealers; $5,000.
