A Week Of Flood

The floods throughout the Ohio Valley have been greater the past week than at any time since 1884. At all towns along the Ohio, from Huntington to Cairo, the water has registered as high or higher than the great flood of 1884.

Late Tuesday the crest was reached at Maysville, and the river has begun to fall slowly. At Cincinnati, Wednesday, the river was falling after reaching a stage of 48 5 feet. A 45 foot stage has been reached at Louisville and the city is a veritable peninsula.

At Ashland, the situation, owing to a shortage of food supplies, was for a time, alarming. Appeals for help met with prompt response from state officials in Central Kentucky, and the situation at all the river towns is now well in hand.

The work of rehabilitation at Dayton and other flood swept Ohio cities has begun. Vast sums of money will be needed, and it is proposed to ask the Federal Government for a loan of $20,000,000 to $40,000,000. The loss in Montgomery County, Ohio, alone, it is said, will reach $15,000,000.

County School News

The Agricultural School Rally has come and gone, and, notwithstanding the terrible adverse of weather which still prevails, and this with the high waters, still a large crowd was in town, and the courthouse was full of parents, teachers, trustees of club children.

The Bald Hill Band arrived early Saturday morning and went with the Reception Committee to be station to meet the speakers. Too much cannot be said in praise of this splendid band. Many were the compliments which were heard on their music. We want to thank them for the prominent part they played in Saturday's entertainment. This band is not a year old yet, and still they play as though they had had years of experience. Much credit is due their excellent instructor, Mr. John Hendricks.

The House was called to order by the County Superintendent, the invocation was made by Dr. C. Fisher, Pres. M.F.C.

The Superintendent then called on Prof. R. Dean Squires for a few words of welcome which he gave in his own pleasing manner making each and every one feel welcome and at home.

Dr. Fisher was next called on for a talk. He explained himself as being glad to be here in annual meeting. He said that he watches with a great deal of interest the educational progress of Nicholas county. He added that according to the wealth of Nicholas county compared with other counties we are ahead of many of the other counties. He spoke of education in a broader sense.

An address on Domestic Science was made by Miss Jones, Superintendent of Domestic Science at Kentucky University. She held the audience as if it were spellbound for nearly an hour. The deep interest was manifested in the round table discussion which followed her most excellent address. She certainly understands her subject.

Hon. H. S. Eubank, of Lexington, was next introduced. His subject, "Educational Advancements," was handled in a most excellent manner. There is perhaps no other man in the state who understands all phases of educational questions better than Mr. Eubank. He is editor of the Southern School Journal which keeps him in touch with the schools of the state. He was very complimentary to the schools of Nicholas county, and said that we have a state-wide reputation for our splendid one-room schools.

In the afternoon Judge Henry S. Barker, President of State University, was introduced. He delivered a most excellent address to parents, the farmer, and the club boys. He is a most excellent speaker, having served for years as Judge of the Juvenile Court of Louisville, then as Judge of the Court of Appeals, which has given him a wide range of knowledge of men and experience with both old and young. We wish that every parent in Nicholas county, and Carlisle especially, could have heard what he had to say regarding cigarette smoking. Judge Barker is not one of those "gone to seed" men on any subject, but has a broad scope of knowledge and dares to speak his convictions.

The next speaker introduced was Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, President of the Civic Rights League in Kentucky. Mrs. Breckinridge is a great favorite in Carlisle and the audience was greatly interested in her excellent address. She dwelt, for a short time, on the alarming conditions of tuberculosis in Kentucky, then turned her attention to Civic Rights, or Suffrage for women. She received applause after applause all through her address, and it came as much from the gentlemen of the audience as from the ladies. Mrs. Breckinridge has done a great work for education in Kentucky.

Mrs. H. B. Wetcott was again introduced. She delivered a most excellent address on "Home Interest." She urged better home conditions, that the home be made more attractive and interesting for the children "that they might be retained on the farm."

Mr. S. S. Veach made some splendid announcements of premiums which he offers to the Nicholas county clubs for this year. We shall announce them later, when the cash premiums are announced.

60 of the Corn Club boys got their seed corn Saturday and 40 packages were made up for the boys who were unable to come.

The State Superintendent has called a meeting of the county superintendents for next week, the conference beginning Tuesday and closing Friday. We will therefore be in Frankfort Friday night, but will be in the office Saturday.

Plenty of flower and garden seed to be given out next Saturday. LIDA E. GARNER, Supt.

POLITICS and POLITICIANS

By CARLTON F. NICHOLAS

A column on political people, of local interest, written especially for the Mercury

If a candidate should fail to advertise, and should lose a few votes, he might very readily put his finger upon the cause of his failure to win. Lack of publicity. Keep your names in the public eye if the people are to reach hundreds of voters weekly. The reading and thinking public depend greatly on the papers. It will do more than all the speeches.

—o—

It will be just a few weeks until the electors will be called to select a school trustee for the Carlisle District.

—o—

As yet no one has announced as a candidate for the nomination for Jailer, which leaves all good citizens of Robertson county free to become interested, but no one has come out as a candidate.

—o—

Advertise. By keeping your name before the public with an announcement in the paper you will be canvassing the entire county weekly. It will be a gentle reminder to your friends of your ambition to fill public office, and will be pleasant to your ears when you are asleep. Advertise.

—o—

It is rumored that there will be a movement started in Nicholas County to organize Woman Suffrage clubs.

—o—

The city officials will be elected this year. For a number of years the municipal government has been governed by a non-partisan council. The financial condition of the city is much better than that of many other towns in Kentucky. Few city governments have been as well managed as has that of the city of Carlisle.

—o—

Mr. Thomas H. Botts, of Carlisle, one of the best known citizens of Nicholas County, has announced, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Assessor. Mr. Botts is a successful farmer, and a self made man. He has many warm friends in the county who would be pleased to see him nominated for the office he aspires to fill. He is well fitted for the position. He has always labored for the success of the party.

—o—

It is beginning to look as though our popular county clerk, John F. Sugg, will be renominated without opposition. He is a well deserved compliment to Mr. Sugg that he has made. He is well liked throughout the county and has made an excellent officer. He is one of the youngest county clerks in Kentucky, and has to his credit those who have filled offices for several years.

—o—

The Sheriff's race is attracting much interest. Mr. Parker, who has served as assessor, and deputy sheriff, and who has made good every place he has filled and who is popular throughout the county, has purchased himself a saddle horse preparatory to a thorough campaign of the county.

—o—

H. N. Rankin, who has figured prominently in the political circles of Nicholas County, will oppose Mr. Parker as candidate for Sheriff. Mr. Rankin has served the county as Assessor and was at one time a candidate for the Democratic nomination for deputy sheriff. He is an all around hustler.

—o—

Mr. B. J. Fogle, Assessor, has had his name announced as candidate for deputy sheriff with H. N. Rankin as Sheriff, is filling his first term as assessor. He has made an excellent official and has attended to the work himself. He has many friends in the county who wish his success in his candidacy.

—o—

Mr. Roy Smith, a prominent young Democrat residing near Carlisle, has announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Assessor. Mr. Souseley is well equipped for the office he seeks. He has for a number of years been a teacher in the public schools of the county and has won a reputation as a careful, painstaking and conscientious young man. This is his first venture in politics and his many friends wish him success.

—o—

Mr. William McRohan, of English Hotel precinct, has announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Assessor. Mr. McRohan has never before offered for office. Mr. McRohan is a Democrat by family and is the son of Mr. John McRohan, one of the best known throughout the county. He is a public spirited citizen and has always been a leader in the educational and public questions for the betterment of our county. He is well qualified to fill the position he seeks.

—o—

Mr. Alfred Murray, who has served one term as Land Inspector of the county, has announced for the nomination for Magistrate in Magisterial District No. 4. He is one of the hustling Carlisle farmers, Nicholas County. He has always been credited with the Democratic party and has the assurance of strong support.

—o—

We wonder what political positions the unterrified Democracy of Nicholas County will be awarded with. For a number of years the Democratic leaders of Nicholas County have been piling up large majorities, while other parties have been reviving the political pie. Nicholas County is one of the largest Democratic counties of Kentucky, and never fails to pile up a good majority for a Democratic candidate, but when we look at the various offices which are filled with Democrats, we are unable to see a single Democrat from Nicholas County even holding down a minor clerkship.

It looks to us as if there is some one in this county who is entitled to some of the political laurels.

We are for Nicholas County, and we believe that we have in our county men as capable as in any county in Kentucky, and we should be rewarded.

SOME BUSINESS ... NO POLITICS

Say, Brother Farmer, are you going to have your tobacco bed for the coming season? Did you think of it? Were you better than they ever were? Hadn't you better arrange to have a nice big patch of it ready this fall and summer? Also, for goodness sake, raise plenty of hog and hog stock. Don't be let's have any more Idaho, Nebraska or Nebraska hay shipped into Nicholas County to feed Nicholas County stock. Have you planted for a good potato crop, plenty of corn, (we want to talk to you about wheat and rye), and a good crop of oats? Cattle are high, too, and, by the way, do you know of a real good, all-purpose horse, one that looks good and is good? Such horses are mighty scarce, I tell you. I want to tell you the solemn truth once! Things look better for the farmer than they ever did within our knowledge. Everything is HIGH, except THE HIGH-LIFE, and a feverish demand for everything produced on the farm. Get busy, Reuben, and improve the shining moments as they fly. Catch the golden opportunity as it passes and relieve it unless. Fortune is knocking the daylights out of your front door, begging to be let in, and burdened to the breaking point with opportunities for big money on the farm. LET HER IN, OLD Man, Let Her In! Have something to sell every man you wants to buy. Have hogs to sell, have cattle to sell, have corn to sell, potatoes to sell, everything to sell, and then—be careful what you buy. The Kentucky farmer, the only real farmer on the globe, for he is the only farmer that has anything to farm with, all the way 'round is facing the greatest opportunity that ever came to any class of men. You can't mention anything that isn't in howling demand. Why, a fellow is advertising in the newspapers for live skunks—he wants them for some purpose— and, bejingoes, Nicholas County can supply him. We can point out Baker's duplicate right here on the streets of Carlisle any old day.

We are getting some mighty good farms for the coming season, and somebody will be surprised to see what we will be able to offer. Get a good one while in two farms, the biggest part consisting of 175 acres, 100 acres of it good tobacco land, a big tobacco barn, 32 by 51 feet, and we are going to sell this farm for less than FIFTY dollars an acre. It will surprise you, sure as you live.

However, we are not ready to talk farms to you yet—but until we get our list more complete, of course, we can talk up a few farms that you can buy at once, take possession of next day, you know, and enjoy the fruits of the May-sville pike, 1 miles from Carlisle. Nicholas County farms, farms, and is a good strong farm. You can buy a farm for FIFTY dollars an acre, and it is suits you it will be money in your pocket to come after it before the owner concludes not to sell some people seem to be of the idea that because we have made this store the best of its kind anywhere.

The wagon was almost completely submerged, and every article of mail water-soaked. The horse managed to get his fore-feet on a fence, and keep his head above water, until a boat could come to him and he was unhitched, and so able to swim out.

Anxiety Of Many Relatives Here Is Relieved By Letters And Telegrams From Carlisle People In Flood District

Cheering messages have been received by many people in this place living in the flood swept sections of Ohio. Only people who know the anxiety of those for whom much anxiety was felt, has some idea for, though there are yet many, known to have been in the danger zone, from whom no word has been received.

A letter to Miss Kate Tune, whose sister, Mrs. Chas. Rogers, and mother, Mrs. Margaret Tune, are now in Dayton, says that they are all safe and well, and that their house was untouched by the flood. Mr. Rogers was in the business district of the town when the rush of water came, and was forced to run for his life, the swirling his escape to high ground, he which he reached just in time. As soon as he reached a place of safety he took operation to purchase a supply of food. Within a few hours, he says, every writes, the entire stock of the grocery was sold out. It is impossible, she says, to buy food, and they are subsisting upon what is wanted near the house.

Mrs. Mary Myers, of the county, has received a letter from her sister, Mrs. D. L. Flowers, of Dayton. Their house is built on high ground, under the ownership of the wife. A letter received Saturday from Joseph Martin, of Hamilton, Ohio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Martin, of this city, brings the news that he (Martin, being at Hamilton, is safe) is in Dayton where he had been forced to take refuge from the rising waters. Especial attention will be given to men's apparel, and high grade, custom tailored clothes for men. The present policy of small profits on goods sold for cash, will be continued.

Ronald C. Oldham will have charge of the store, and will move to Carlisle early this summer. The chain now operated by the Oldhams with Richmond, Mt. Sterling and elsewhere has been very highly successful, and the new store, under their management, is expected to prove a splendid addition to the business life of Carlisle.

A representative of the MERCURY was at Parks Ferry Sunday looking over the flooded district at that point time and Kentucky River.

While the water was an inch or more short of the Sunday flood at the Ferry, it seemed to cover more territory at the Valley, where it was up to the window sills of the school house, and "all the houses in the bottoms around were standing three or four feet in mid and water.

At the Ferry most all of the people had profited from past experience and moved to higher ground.

The stock in the farm of W. F. Clark was all saved and very little damage will result with the exception of a little "mussing" up.

The river at some points was higher than ever before and much damage is reported. Sherburne, Milltown, Upper Licks, Abner's Mills and many other points came in for their share of damage.

As yet it is impossible to give the amount of loss, but it will run up into the thousands.

No loss of life reported from any of the above points.

By a strange co-incidence Miss Margaret Haggard Powling has lost her mother, whom she has not seen since she was a baby, Miss Margaret is the adopted daughter of Mrs Lizzie Powling. She is now in school at Madison, and upon writing her name on the board, a few days ago, was asked by a stranger, from Washington, if she knew the Haggards from Ky., and, by the way, do who was placed in the orphan's home at the age of three, but not known. Margaret says she will continue to make her home with Mrs. Powling, who has been the best of mothers to her all these years.

There will be an entertainment at Bald Hill Church, Saturday night, April 5th, at 7 o'clock. It is both humorous and pathetic, so, entertaining to all who attend. Everybody invited. 15 cents admission.
