The duties of that noble and pure profession, John M. Elliott, Judge of New York, have induced him to ask me to announce myself as a candidate for the office of Appellate Judge, and I do so with the greatest pleasure in the assurance of the full confidence of the people of this district.

My honor was devoted to him in life, and is full of reverence for his memory now. I will not only adhere to, but, perhaps in early manhood, I have learned to appreciate more highly than ever before the advantages of an unspotted, legislator and Judge. Respectfully,
