Rural School News

All of the teachers in Carlisle county met last week. The institute was a success. The teachers seemed to be very much pleased with the work. The institute was held in the court house, and it was the largest institute which has come for the common schools.

Most of the teachers are in session Saturday, and there are only about ten more to report in that work, except one, whose school I couldn't learn.

We are delighted with the prospects of the splendid attendance of trustees from Nicholas to Louisville to K. E. A. April 23-27. The trustees are beginning to realize what this great educational gathering means, and they are anxious that their teachers attend, and we are glad that the teachers of Nicholas county do so too, and enjoy it. It is especially important that a large body of trustees attend this year as it is before the last meeting of K. E. A. before the next meeting of the Legislature and great changes will be proposed in the training of the rural schools and the trustees should know about and have a voice.

The misunderstanding on the part of trustees, teachers and people in general may cause some hard feeling and will not be for the best interest especially of the rural school.

It is to arrange trustees and teachers for the K. E. A. and for a more efficient result every year of school operation that I have gone to all the state committees, to several conventions, to speak on the subject.

I attended the meetings in several counties in the western part of this state.

I want a meeting of all of the trustees in this county, Saturday, April 24th at Bardstown. This is the most central place for trustees. Never before in Nicholas county have all and every teacher will be present at the institute. Never before have all trustees been present at the institute. Never before will be present at the institute. Will all and every teacher and trustee be present? Will all and every teacher and trustee be present? Will all and every teacher and trustee be present?
