EFFRON'S

NEW BOOK

By Stock and Poultry Expert.

A new book entitled "Care and Treatment of Stock and Poultry" has just been published by Dr. L. De Gear, Institute Veterinary Surgeon, who graduated from the Toronto, Ontario, Veterinary College 27 years ago, and has since devoted his entire life to Veterinary Science and Poultry Husbandry. This Book contains 120 pages of up-to-the-minute data on the care, symptoms and treatment of stock and poultry. It is divided into departments—horses, cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry being taken up. It is very complete with charts and illustrations, and is a book that should be in the home of every live stock and poultry raiser in the country. The price is only 10 cents. Get it from your dealer or send a dime to Dr. L. D. LeGear, 1700 Ninth Broadway, St. Louis, Mo., stating that you are a subscriber of this paper, and he will send you a copy direct.—Adv.

GO NO FARTHER

The Evidence Is At Your Door.

Carlisle proof is what you want and the statement of this highly respected resident will banish all doubt:

John Kendy, School Ave., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I get at Turneman & Son's Drug Store, off and on for years. I gladly think from the great benefit they have been to me, I couldn't be living today had it not been for Doan's Kidney Pills. My back at times has been in a terrible shape and has ached and pained until I could hardly stand it. The kidney secretions passed too often, usually worse at night and leaky my rest. Other medicines I tried never did me any good. Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to relieve my complaint in a short time."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kendy had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

"Chauvinism."

"Chauvinism" derives its name from Nicolas Chauvin, a soldier in the army of Napoleon, who was ridiculed by his comrades for his boastfulness and overweening patriotism. The term, therefore, is applied by analogy to anyone exhibiting unreasoning partiality, or an excessive admiration for national attributes.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Sure nothing like plain Argo-Phosphate to get on firm, solid, stay there flesh and muscle and increase strength, vim, vigor and nerve force.

Physicians claim there is nothing that will increase weight, strength and enhance the organic phosphate commonly known by druggists as argo-phosphate. It is inexpensive and is sold by all leading druggists everywhere under a guarantee to give satisfaction or money refunded. Weakness and thinness are usually due to starved nervous conditions.

Our bodies need more phosphates than are contained in the foods we eat.

If you wish a more rounded figure and plump well-developed arms, neck and bust in place of hollows you should simply take plain argo-phosphate as a tonic and restore run-down nervous conditions by phosphatizing the system. It transforms the appearance and an increase in weight is often times quickly produced.

The increase in weight also aids in improving the general health. Sleeplessness nervousness, lack of energy and ambition quickly disappear.

Pale cheeks are changed to rosy ones and dull eyes become bright.

Miss Lena Brown, of Atlanta, Ga., who only weighed 96 pounds reports that she gained 10 pounds in two weeks time and says argo-phosphate has made a different person of her and she has never felt better in her life.

Special Notice—Owing to the fact that so many physicians and druggists are recommending argo-phosphate for relieving all nervous, worn-out debilitated conditions and the unusually large sale for argo-phosphate there will be found in the market numerous substitutes for the genuine article. All imitations are inferior preparations and owing to its unusual efficiency and low price should not be used by any one unless they desire to put on flesh and increase in weight. Dispensed by

STARLIGHT

By MADGE WESTON.

She was the most perplexing girl, Billy thought, that he had ever met, yet withal the most charming. Blessed had seen him out in the foreign village of a port that he called a city and thought nothing of it. Nothing for sale, Blessing did not know much about horses, but Billy knew that plenty of money, and it occurred to him that it might be interesting to see occasionally around the park.

The struggling horse in the hilly, which the green driver had him, perceived to Billy upon first opinion, a comfortable air of ease-from hospital. It was a good shabby horse, Billy found, but fully nineteen will proved that old-time hospitality.

"The hotel is just a poor place," said Billy gaily, "and I don't ever to be a pleasure for me to spend inside it in our city."

Mr. Blessing, it seemed, was known through many generations. Mr. Blessing's representative, would be glad to show the gentleman the sights. The old lady's time is not so valuable as Mr. Blessing's, and that he looked forward to an opportunity to be of service to the gentleman. Was Billy thought "the greatest of the kind" he ever met? Well, he was little her charm done him his attitude of the gentleman.

She was very adept, this Blessing, and Billy was amazed to see how quickly she appeal gay or light-hearted, or sad, or thoughtful, and he was wondered if this could be the same person who had been so stiff and unresponsive by his side through the morning.

For Billy's subject had not been the weather or the scenery. In the evening of his arrival he had felt the pleasure of a long talk with a house was not in a fair condition to be seen.

The animal was a beautiful one, indeed, Billy was a good horseman, and some sort of horse distrupet. He decided it would be a good investment to indulged in that long wished-for vacation. Not that he was tired of his daily business, so he said, to accept Blessing's invitation to take a drive a period and chosen.

Life at the Silk House was very pleasant, Billy was in the new-and-gift was called, counted Billy usually to-day, sometimes there abundant and sometimes there was a little disappointment. Sometimes the rare and measuring tape was in evidence, and Billy seemed to himself the fortune was in some doubt, depending on the time of the time in his honest life.

Mr. Blessing, Billy knew, thought of only as Cynthia's mother, and Billy wondered if the mother was going to be rid of Cynthia. Starlight was the name of the girl he had met and engaged in his stable.

Cynthia was willing to buy a car, Mrs. Hawthorne said, recently. It would be more convenient than a horse and about. And Cynthia, heading over the embankment of Starlight, which she was showing, fended suddenly and pulled out to Billy that the price asked for him was not at all exorbitant. At last Cynthia was fortunately enough to purchase Starlight as for as Starlight was concerned. Billy paid unhesitatingly the price he was asked and Starlight was his. Cynthia had to wait for the delivery of the car, and Starlight became Cynthia's property. With such a horse Cynthia felt the joy of the hands he would be her, and Cynthia felt that the price paid for him was not at all exorbitant. At last Cynthia was fortunately enough to purchase Starlight as for as Starlight was concerned. Billy paid unhesitatingly the price he was asked and Starlight was his
