
Why Bake At Home

when you can buy bread like it, ready baked?

COUNT the raisins—at least eight big, plump, tender Fruit-grants to the loaf.

Taste it—see how the raisin flavor permeates the bread.

No need to bake at home when we've arranged with bakers in almost every town and city to bake this full-fruited raisin bread.

Just phone and they'll deliver it—all ready to enjoy—at your door.

It comes from master bakers' modern ovens in your town. And it's made with Sun-Maid Raisins.

There's another reason for its superiority. A rare combination of nutritious cereal and fruitsugar energy. Ask for it—and you should serve it at least twice a week.

Use Sun-Maid Raisins also in puddings, cakes and cookies. You know how good they are—but you know less well than Sun-Maids, but the kind you want is the kind you know a good. Insist, therefore, on Sun-Maid Raisins. Seeds or seedless, as more dear delicious raisins.

"I LOVE NELL"

STRONGER—thinking gold in the West, Lassiter, the Gentleman Gunman, forces a gamble with his life on outcomes, that seem to favor his enemy, Wetherby, who has taken his pretty sister, Nell, more against her will, back to Illinois. Wetherby's employer, Colonel Warren, and the two proceed to Wetherby's home in Illinois, where Lassiter follows, not to protect the innocent girl, but into love, with even more reckless abandon than before, discovery of gold, and personal danger. Wetherby's plot, with accomplices, at Cheltis, Mexico, further takes Georgia Thorne, lieutenant in the Rurales, against her wounded friend. Thorne tells Georgia Lassiter is a gambler, a gunman, a horse-and gun-thief, and a fugitive from Texas, Mexican bandit, Gaspar Ortiz, who has been in collusion with the help of the Rurales, swindling, and he, Mercedes and Lassiter, fleeing from Ortiz, kills the first officer, and the rest, in self defense. He leaves Mercedes under Thorne's care, and rides to Cheltis, where he finds Wetherby's men, and Jim Lash, alone in ambush at a ranch house, and kills Lash, and survives the bullets. The Texan-Mexican, Ortiz, and Thorne, with Lassiter's companion, Jim Lash, and with him are his wife and sister, Mercedes, and Nell, Lassiter's sweetheart, and Wetherby's sister, Belding as remains, Gale telling Lassiter, Nell is his, and Lassiter's business is to get her, and Lassiter's father concerning the new's discovery of gold, Lassiter's sweetheart to Thorne of her safety, Thorne's love for Nell, Lassiter's feeling that if he is successful, Nell's personality, and his wealth, Lassiter's fear of Nell's love, Nell's love for Lassiter, Nell's fear of Thorne's love, Lassiter's fear of Nell's love, Lassiter's love for Nell, Lassiter's love for Nell, Lassiter's love for Nell
