THE PRESS CONVENTION.

The editors of Western Kentucky will arrive in Louisville on Monday night June 7. On Tuesday morning, together with the Louisville editors, they will start by rail, stopping at Lexington for dinner and Maysville for supper, gathering recruits by the way. At Maysville, the party will take a boat for Ashland, arriving there within twenty-four hours from Louisville. Besides the programme at Ashland, the Association will be entertained at Catlettsburg, and the trip to White Sulphur Springs will be so arranged that the editors can reach Louisville on their return by Monday, June 14. The report that a boat had been chartered on the Ohio river, to start from Henderson, was a mistake. A large attendance is expected at Ashland this year, and all who expect to attend should send their names before May 25, to John Means, at Ashland, informing him of their intention.

Messrs B. F. Gifford and Henry C. Throckmorton, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, but both good friends of the Mercury, called at our office last Saturday to pay their subscriptions. One never allows himself to owe anything, and the other never contracts for anything without paying promptly when due.

SUDDEN DEATH.

James Kincart Killed While Looking out of a Car Window.

On last Saturday afternoon James Kincart met his death in a very unusual and distressing manner. He was returning from Battle Run, in Fleming County, on the 5 o'clock train, and when the train approached the small wooden bridge near Mrs. Munger's the brakes were whistled down to avoid killing a colt which was running along the side of the road. Mr. Kincart was sitting on the south side of the car, and put his head out the window to watch the colt, when the train dashed through the bridge and one of the beams struck him on the side of the head, about the middle of the parietal bone, just on the temporal ridge, lacerating the bone and penetrating the brain. He bled profusely and died when the train arrived at our depot.

Mr. Kincart was an industrious, sober and honest man, and had for some time been running a mill in Fleming, a third of which he owned. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, an Odd Fellow, a Mason and a member of the Knights of Honor, from which latter society his widow will get $2,000. He was also a member of the Nicholas County Democratic Executive Committee.

Mr. Kincart was born on October 15, 1837, and was therefore over forty-two years of age. He was the son of John Kincart, whose father was among the earliest settlers of the town, owning where the Court-house now stands, on the lot of which his remains now rest. James Kincart was married on May 15, 1860, and leaves behind to mourn his sad death his feeble wife and four bright little children. All who knew James Kincart knew him as a faithful friend and an honest man. Peace to his ashes.
