More than 90 per cent of the foregoing acreage was sown in the fall of 1925. Late wheat and rye acreages were equally successful in west, south, east and north Kentucky. The rate of seeding in counties having large acreages was from 10 to 12 pounds per acre.

FOREST TREES READY

Spring Planting Free

In order to encourage reforestation of the idle land in the state and to improve the appearance of our public property, the National Forest Service is offering young trees from its forest nursery. About 21,000 trees are ready for spring planting and within another year it is expected that the annual output will be about a million trees.

Trees for reforestation are offered at one cent each and the number available is 19,000. These trees are from six to twenty inches in height which is the best size for quick and economical planting. Trees for other state and county property and for planting along the state highways will be supplied free of charge to individuals or organizations who will use them. About 2,000 trees are available for free distribution.

Planting may be done from the time the frost leaves the ground until after the buds begin to swell.

Persons desiring to secure planting stock should write the Director, Frankfort, Kentucky for application blanks and instructions.

TWO LAST WORDS!

A woman doesn't always get the last word—sometimes she is talking to another woman.

MORE ALFALFA BEING GROWN IN KENTUCKY

Nicholas County Farmers Sowed About 1,500 Acres Last Year

Sixty-nine county agents report a total of 18,000 acres of new alfalfa for 1925. Farmers in Campbell, Owen and Warren counties each sowed 2,000 acres, while 1,350 acres were sowed in Bracken county, 1,300 acres in Nicholas county, 1,000 acres in Mercer county and 1,200 acres in Grant county. Four other counties sowed more than 500 acres each, 20 counties sowed acreages of a total of 215 farmers among 400 applicants for the land.

Thus another year's farm experience has again demonstrated that Kentucky's clay soils are deeply established in all parts of Kentucky, and it is contended that the big profits are obtained from from any lottery or chuck-a-luck game, is the way Ralph Kelsey, crops up in the Kentucky College of Agriculture, some years ago, is the supreme situation in the state.

More than 90 per cent of the foregoing acreage was sown in the fall of 1925. Late wheat and rye acreages were equally successful in west, south, east and north Kentucky. The rate of seeding in counties having large acreages was from 10 to 12 pounds per acre.

HISTORY TOLD BY TREES

The people of long ago did not trouble to write much about their wealthy in their writings, but the botanists do not need the help of records. The books they study are the trunks of trees. When a tree is cut down its age can be found by counting the number of rings between the heart and the bark. Each of these rings represents one year of growth, and scientists believe that we can decide whether a specified season was late or early, dry or wet, by studying the thickness and consistency of the fibre of the corresponding circle.

KENTUCKY COTTON $100,000

Notwithstanding unfavorable weather conditions, the Christian county cotton crop, a new product for that region, is the largest grown since the experiment was started three years ago, and Raymond Reeves, owner of the Hopkinsville gin, said farmers would receive more than $100,000 for the season. The crop is paying an average of $45 an acre. The gin there is the only one within fifty miles and it is working to the full capacity of eighteen bales a day and its facilities are enlarged next year. It ginned only six bales the first year. Last year the total was 687 bales and it will turn out more than 1,000 bales this year.

LIZZIE CROP INCREASES

A total of 2,102,588 cars, trucks, tractors and airplanes were produced by the Ford Motor Company in all its divisions during the past year, figures made public by Ford officials show. Exclusive of airplanes, which is a new division of the company, this total represents an increase of 20,623 automobile units over 1924.

NEGRO SONG WRITER

George F. Clements, colored, of Lexington, a former resident of Paducah, was recently awarded a contract by the New York Publishing Company as a royalty basis for his popular song, "Babbling Brooks," which is proving a sensational song hit in the East.

BILLY'S INCOME

Billy Sunday's income as shown by his returns, is $250,000 a year. He says he earns every cent of it and besides he gets nearly from contributions in the cities where he holds revivals. So he averages five cities a year, that would make $40,000 for each city.

GRAPE JUICE "KING" DEAD

Charles E. Welch, 72, years old, of Westfield, N. Y., dropped dead in his motor home at Chambersburg, Pa., last week. Mr. Welch was universally known as a manufacturer of grape juice and candidate for Prohibition party in 1916 on the prohibition ticket.

IT BEFITS THE DIGNITY

The crude and primitive in clothing is passing, lack of fashion is gay, feminine and alluring. Dresses are short and sleeveless, hats are small. Shoes sometimes suggest it is time to grow down at the ankles, but they have taken on the women and pass the limit of modesty only when they are worn on Cocoa Venus—it has a mould of perfection that defies criticism.—Boston Globe.

STOP THAT BACKACHE!

Many Carlisle Folks Here Found The Way

In a dull, nerve-racking backache—Nothing so wearing on the nerves and sleep than this dull ache! Are you tired, weak and nervous, feel it impossible to be happy, or enjoy life and pleasures of life? Then the good news that you may have been waiting for may be yours. Read what a Carlisle resident says:

J. W. Mason, Well-st. St., says: "I severe from a dull ache in the small in my back so the first symptom I noticed. Stooping or a few days down and the pains and pain the kidneys. I felt tired and lame. I got Doan's Pills at Cooper's Drug Store and in a few days I was free from the pain. I can't say too much about Doan's Pills—a fine medicine for kidney ailments. Four neighbors recommend Doan's Pills which this Carlisle resident says.
