Life is rarely fresh and bubbly;
Two Drops stand like stone—
Kindness is another's trouble,
Courage is our own.

FEWER LAWS AND MORE ENFORCEMENT.

As this is written the Legislature has been in session some three weeks and not a single new law has been made. The session of which fact the people are thankful at Frankfort, in spite of the opinion of The Mercury, the people have had in Kentucky for the past two years, a surplus of laws, enough, if enforced, to make Kentucky a model state. The trouble is not in the making of laws, but in the enforcement of the laws we have. We believe a person who is in the habit of violating one law is as apt to violate any other law. We believe a person who is in the habit of violating any law is apt to violate any other law. We believe a person who is in the habit of violating one law is apt to violate any other law.
