THE FUTURE CARLISLE.

Some Truthful and Appropriate Remarks by Tobe.

Carlisle, our pretty little town, as she sits nestled in the bosom of the time-honored hills of old Nicholas, with her many stores, workshops, &c., is fast becoming a business center of so vast a trade, that, ere many years shall roll away, her enterprise will be far-famed and the tills of her citizens will fairly groan under the load of the honestly earned wealth which she possesses. But, before this elysian period in her history can take place, there are some obstacles which must be removed, and which will be enumerated presently.

The first question suggesting itself to us, is, whence comes the trade we now have? Any merchant of our little city can readily answer that question: It comes from along that great public thoroughfare, the Carlisle and Sharpsburg turnpike and its tributaries, which opens to us the eastern part of our county, and very little else, excepting, probably, a small scope of country along the Maysville and Lexington pike. Now, the trade which we lose is that of the northern part of our county, which goes to Elizaville, &c., over good pikes; that of the western part, which goes to Millersburg over somewhat better roads than to Carlisle, and with less expense for toll, and that of the southern part of our county, whose inhabitants are forced to trade with Paris and other Bourbon County towns, the poor roads to Carlisle cutting them off from us. Well, what is to be done? Shall we sit indolently and see our enterprising neighboring towns swallow up three-fourths of our county trade when it would all be gladly rolled into Carlisle if her inhabitants only would extend a helping hand!

Now, the obstacles to be removed, as seen from the foregoing, are our miserable roads leading from three parts of our county to our town.

It is readily seen that the only remedy is to open first-class roads from Carlisle into these localities, and out comes the wealth from all quarters and our town becomes the center. Should these roads be opened, our trade would be increased threefold; more commodious business houses would be required; more men would be needed to assist in these houses, more shops, &c., would be opened; more dwellings built to supply the demand and everything would grow and grow till at length the pivotal point halfway between Maysville and Lexington would boom and boom, and be the scene of prosperity in every respect.

be up and doing," and the reward will amply repay all trouble, expense and inconvenience. TOBE.

A CELEBRATED CASE.

Progress of the Green-Hargis Case in Louisville.

[Courier-Journal.]

The Common Pleas Court room was again crowded last Monday week to hear Maj. Richards conclude his speech. In his address he has gone over every possible point in the case, and his effort was spoken of by both sides as powerful. Mr. Green did not put in an appearance in the court room; but Judge Hargis was there. His face seems every day to become more resolute and unflinching. He listened with the closest attention to his attorney's argument, and whenever he made a strong point the spectators could detect it on his face. The lawyers for the plaintiff, of course, paid the keenest attention to what the attorney was saying.

Major Richards concluded his speech as follows: "But since that time the good men of that district, regardless of politics, have flocked to his support and elected him first as Criminal Judge in 1878, and in 1879 elevated him to one of the highest judicial positions in the Commonwealth. Throughout all his public life there has never been a breath of suspicion against any of his official acts. But, nevertheless, he has all the while been followed by one dark specter that has ever sought to mar his usefulness. But the day of his deliverance is at hand. Already through the drifting clouds we can see the light ahead and he can wait in patience for the effulgence of the full noonday. Then, under the light of your verdict, he can go back to his neighbors, who are here ready to swear and die by his integrity. He can go back to his constituents, who have twice reiterated their condemnation of these charges; he can go back to a long life of usefulness in the high judicial position which he is so capable of adorning; under the light of your verdict he can go back to the bosom of his family with the assurance that he will never again be followed with these charges. And may the God of truth guide you in your investigations."

The testimony began on Tuesday morning of last week with the evidence of Judge Hargis. There is every prospect of the bitterest sort of fight, and one or other of the parties is bound to come out with trailed colors.

Tuesday, the 10th, was occupied with the testimony of Judge Hargis in his own behalf. The interest in the case was unabated. Judge Stites is very quick and positive in his decisions on questions of law. The jury is now quite settled and lamblike; resistance is useless, and it has ceased to struggle. John M. Brown left on Monday to attend a business college at Lexington. John is a very worthy young man, much missed by the young ladies, as well as the young men. We hope the boys of Lexington won't spoil him, but if they do, "well—".

Oscar Slaughter moved his frail form from these parts last Monday, and for the present he will reside in Louisville. Oscar has built up a good trade for the Palace and was universally popular. He says he never lived in a place he liked better or regretted more in leaving. He was a heavy advertiser and always credited printers ink as the secret of success.

DR. M. DITTO having returned from Pekin, Illinois, reports that the case of Wm. Perry, was continued. Dr. Dills, in speaking of Judge Laws, Judge of the court in that district, says he is a graduate of Bethany College, and the Judge, inquiring of various Kentuckians whom he knew at college, inquired if he knew what had become of Benjamin Ricketts. "Why," the Doctor remarked, "he is pastor of the Christian Church of my town." The Judge looked very much astonished, and said, "You don't mean to say that Ben. is preaching? To show you how things in this life shift around, I will give you a short history of myself. While attending college at Bethany, I then anticipated being a minister of the gospel. I felt that I was a good and pious young man. Ben had a wonderful tact at strategy and could out-general any of the class in smuggling his favorite articles through the lines, and by his superior mental powers, would occasionally make fun for the boys. At that time Ben. thought of being a lawyer, and I thought he had all the qualities necessary to make one. After leaving Bethany I went west for my health, expecting to enter the ministry when [illegible]

When some of the large timbers of our washed-away railroad bridge struck the large bridge over Hinkston at Ruddle's Mills, the floor and bottom timbers of that good old bridge were badly wrecked, and is now unpassable.

Citizens of Cynthiana who saw our bridge pass that point say that bridge was passing by in detail, and was good for the Ohio unless it happened to float behind the log boom at Boston Station.

A thief relieved Rev. Mr. Bow's meat house of four bacon hams on Friday night last, but with that Christian charity possessed by few thieves, left the minister one for his family until the brethren could come to the rescue.

Millersburg has a black woman whose maiden name was Black. She married a black man named White, who died, and she next married a brown black man, whose name is Brown. Brown has been acting very badly of late, and consequently the poor woman is fast getting gray.

News was received here Saturday that Col. Wm. Baldwin was dead, but a telegram of inquiry sent by John Parnell to his son-in-law, Gus. Respess, was soon answered that he was bright and as promising as a $20 gold piece. Mr. Baldwin had been down with an attack of pneumonia.
