Striking New Serial

Caged

—By—

Courtney Ryley Cooper

Joe Barry came to New York from a farm in the Missouri to set Broadway on fire with his accordion playing, but he became instead a servant in a squalid lodging house by day and by night an entertainer in Louie Bertolini's third-rate restaurant. He reached capacity toward the first show of friendship that came his way and the chance of freedom it held—that it led into the hideouts of gangsters and racketeers, through the complexities of the New York legal machine, to a glamorous existence under the big top, to Sue Dayton, even to the very shadow of Dannemora Prison, he had no way of knowing.

Physician And Clinic Are Sued Over Illness

Circuit Judge H. S. Roe has filed in the Logan Circuit court a $150,000 damages against the Lewisville Clinic, owned by the Lewisville and Williamsburg physicians and a physician from Bowling Green, it is said that he was permitted to go without medical treatment for a long period by physicians who attended him, and mistreatment aggravated his illness.

Judge Roe alleged to have been ill in 1923 of a disease which he recently learned is called amoeba, rare in this country but common in tropical Africa. During that time he charged he underwent numerous different diagnoses, and some treatments administered were dangerous. For several months he stated, in a sanitarium operated by the Mayo Brothers at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore and in a Nashville sanitarium, he was under a physician who was in charge of treatment, but failed to provide proper treatment and allowing him to injure himself.

Deficit Of U. S. Near $2,000,000,000 Mark

Only about $50,000 separated the Government from a $2,000,000,000 deficit on April 11, when total expenditures exceeded the receipts by $1,999,947,000.

On that day the deficit had mounted since last July from all sources $1,623,884,000 and had spent $3,623,831,168. The expenditures were $1,000,000,000 less than a year ago in the same period a year ago and receipts were approximately the same.

The deficit promised to jump well above the $2,000,000,000 mark in view of interest payments on the public debt soon to be met. On that day about $125,000,000 was to be paid to holders of fourth Liberty loan bonds.

STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL

(Woodford Sun)

Recently I was writing a letter and said: "The first of the month is a busy time for us." Then I read the letter over I saw that the sentence read: "The first of the month is a busy time for us." How true! Even the typewriter knew it.

This machine, made of steel, has written so many pleas to "come across" that even its steely heart was touched. But how, how on earth, can it touch the hearts of people who are kind and good, but who have such a habit of forgetting that when the little bills bounce off from them like bird shot from armor plate?

The farmer has to split his crops into packs, or his tobacco into little single pounds, and to sell every unit to a different person, and then with bills, and bills, and bills, coming more pastage and more postage, he would crucify every sorrow" before he collected them all.

Some of us, of all of the Woodford Sun's subscribers, and of all the Sun's customers in general, are very generous pay, but there are enough really good people who are willing without when we cannot get along to keep me dancing on such a hot griddle that I don't know which is the hotter, the griddle or the fire. Generally from one to the other, groaning and trying to keep from burning.

Some honest, upright, fine people who I know are a large bill and haven't got the money—fidget around until they get it, will, with a little bill of a dollar or two, say to themselves, "I'll go in and pay that." And the sun shines, and the rain falls, the weeks roll by, and I grind, grind and out more bills, and the postage stamp account rolls up, and I'm not what you call "rich."

A small merchant out west wrote to a wholesale house, which was dunning him, after this fashion:

"I am tired of you continually asking me for money. I haven't got enough money to pay everyone. And this is what I do. Once a week I put my bills in my hat and shake it up. Then I draw one and that one I pay. If you write me just one more letter, I won't put your bill in my raffle."

How in the world can I get some of the Sun's good friends to put our bill in their raffle?

The working population of Chicago based on 1930 figures, consists of 1,146,714 males and 380,395 females.

GINSENG DOWN

Ginseng is one of the recent farm crops to go on the price toboggan. It is quoted at $2 to $5 a pound, according to a recent average of $5 to $10, and a record high price of $11. Decreased demand in China is said to be influencing prices. The College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, which is receiving many letters regarding ginseng growing, has urged inexperienced farmers to take up that industry just at this time. Cultivation of ginseng has been tried by ginseng growers in the past however, and those already engaged in the business may still find it profitable.

HEN MOTHERS KITTENS

Become Attached To Biddy When She Lays In Their Bed

A chicken hen belonging to Homer Hillock, of the Headquarters section, has adopted two kittens, according to a story told The Mercury Saturday by a relative of Mr. Hillock.

The mother of the kittens chose a hen in the chicken house in which to raise her chicks. The hen has been frightened by the hen as a nest, and so a hoosing problem arose, which was peacefully settled by both tabby and her infants and biddy using the box.

Soon the little kittens became attached to the hen when she ventured get into the box to lay. Now the kittens, about a week old, follow the hen around the barnyard and when they get cold nestle under her wings in the manner of little chicks. The attachment of the strange family has become mutual. However, the kittens look up their mother at feeding time.

AGED DEAF WOMAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Mrs. Martha Mayhhigr, 89, Native Of Nicholas, Struck By Locomotive At Cynthiana

Mrs. Martha Frayman Mayhrier, 89 years old, wife of Frank Mayhrier, was killed last Thursday morning on the tracks of the Louisville and Nashville railroad at the southern limits of Cynthiana by the "Southland" passenger train. Mrs. Mayhrier, who lived near the tracks, was struck while picking up coal that had been dropped by a northbound freight train. She had carried several lumps of coal to her home and had returned for more when she was struck.

The engineer on the train blamed Mrs. Mayhrier did not hear the approaching train. The train was too close to the aged woman when the engineer observed her to be stopped.

Mrs. Mayhrier was a native of Nicholas county. It was generally believed she was hard of hearing, but it was learned Friday that she had recently had her hearing tested and it was suggested that if Carlisle is interested in such a proposition a factory with a capital stock of two fifteen thousand dollars be attempted. Such a factory could employ 40 to 50 people and would also mean the bringing into Carlisle of a factory for the manufacturing of articles, as well as much-needed employment for our people.

If local people are interested in securing a factory here, we think it would return and go into the matter further.

MERCURY MAN RIDES 60 MILES PER HOUR

And In Second Gear. If You Don't Believe It, Ride In One Of Ford's New V-8

A representative of The Mercury had the pleasure of riding in a new Ford V-8, on display Wednesday at Harper's Garage, and it there were such a thing as money left in these parts and it could be begged, borrowed or just gotten by this reporter, he would be one of those among the Fords as soon as delivery could be made.

Reports of Ford's new 8-cylinder model have been glowing tributes to the advertiser's art, but after you have ridden in one, this reporter believes nearly anyone would say that the advertisements have not exaggerated. It is speedy; the fact it is so speedy in second gear that this writer—following the lead of other reviewers, William Chappell Ritchie, Alice Dotson, E. A. Stevenson and others—the demonstrator says will make 18 miles an hour in second gear and would make 75 miles an hour or better in high. The Mercury correspondent has such a hunch that it will do that.

This is only the opinion of a newspaper man, but it looks like the Wizard of Dearborn has done it again. The only fault he can find with Ford's latest bid for automotive favor is that the dormed thing runs too fast.

WOULD USE 50 PEOPLE

At the regular meeting of the Lions Club held Tuesday evening a number of local business men not members of the club, Tuesday night, Mr. Judd, a factory broker who places manufacturing establishments in small towns, was the principal speaker and explained how that is accomplished.

Mr. Judd recently installed a rayon factory at Nicholasville, which now employs 75 people and will eventually employ 150. Preferred stock is sold locally, when the kind of factory desired is found, and the stock is subscribed to by local people, if enough support has been selected. The manufacturer of the factory made no expenditure to officials as to why he made the untrue statement.
