Murder Lawrenceburg Man On Lonely River Road

J. Bert Beatty, aged 47, Republican postmaster at Lawrenceburg for the last ten years, was murdered Sunday afternoon on a lonely side road in the Salt river bottoms of Anderson county.

Clay Brown, aged 55, first cousin of the murdered man, surrendered to police three hours after the body was found. He admitted having been with Beatty until 2:30, but denied seeing him after that time. The body was found at 5 o'clock in the afternoon by Will Brockenbrough, a farmer who was passing along the road to his home.

Beatty's body was found sprawled in the road, with jugular vein severed and stabs in the abdomen. There was also a bruise over his right eye. Blood stains were found in the road near his car, parked a short distance away and signs of a violent struggle were to be seen in the road.

Brown, on whose clothing it is alleged blood stains were found, was held on a murder charge. He denied the crime.

Beatty is a cousin of Chesley and Morrow Beatty, of Louisville.

Two Men Held For Shooting Glasgow Man In Louisville

Melvin H. Means, 44, and Robert Fuller, 48, were arrested Sunday in connection with the arson wounding of Ralph Kinnaird, 33, cashier of the Citizens National Bank of Glasgow, Ky., and a former Glasgow resident of Kentucky hotel late Saturday night.

A bell boy testified he saw Means draw a pistol and fire at Kinnaird. Mr. Kinnaird, who was robbed, said he never saw the men until he was attracted by an alarm bell in which they were engaged in the hotel coffee shop, while he was there.

Kinnaird follows him outside, he says he saw "I'm going to shoot you," and fired.

Both Means and Fuller, who denied implication in the shooting, were held without bond.

Florida citrus fruits were shipped last season to every state in the union except California and Arizona.

IN MEMORY

Of Samuel Throckmorton, who departed this life August 9, 1932

Oh, the path seems so lonely
Without him here to see
But he has gone to Heaven
And from suffering he is free
It is pleasant one from his place
A voice we love is stilled,
A place is vacant never to fill
That never can be filled.
By some he may be forgotten,
But in my memory he shall always dwell
And I long to meet my brother
And his face once more to see
We loved him, oh, yes, we loved him.
But the angels loved him more,
And they have sweetly called him
To the bright and shining shore
He was a dear, good brother
And asked us with tender care
To pray to our dear Savior
To meet him over there.
His old arm chair is vacant
And he sleeps beneath the sod.
But I must pray to God in silence
And put my trust in God.
When this mortal life shall fail
And my steps on earth shall cease
I shall possess, with brother, dear,
A life of joy and peace.
Though far away, I miss him.
More than tongue can tell.
But I know that he lives
Where the angels sound
And if we are faithful, I know some day
We will meet our beloved brother
At the pearly gates

—Written by his sister, Mrs. James Fulton.

OBITUARY

In the passing of our good friend and fellow member, W. M. Roberts, we are again reminded of the frailties of the human body, and the uncertainty of life, and the certainty of death. Just a few short days ago our brother and friend was meeting with us and following his daily walk of life, but how quickly he was called into that better life, to reap the reward that awaits the faithful. The pleasant associations which we have had with him in the flesh are now but a memory, his accustomed place is vacant in our midst, and today we mourn the loss of a faithful member of our class.

Be it resolved that the A. B. C. Class of the Christian Christian Church has lost one of its most loyal and faithful members, one who ever held the interest of his church at heart, whose attendance at Sunday school was a rite to be observed such Lord's Day, and whose faith was strengthened with the passing of the years.

Resolved that we extend to the family of our departed brother our sincere sympathy in this their hour of sadness. We mourn with you the loss of a dear husband and father, and that we may all meet with him in the world beyond is our earnest prayer

Resolved that this memorial be sent to the family of Brother Roberts, and a copy of same be spread at large upon the Secretary's book of the class.

G. O. P. TO MEET ON SEPTEMBER 7TH

State Convention To Be Held At Louisville Next Month To Select Nominee For Senator

The Republican state central committee, meeting at Louisville last Wednesday, set September 7 as the date for a state convention in Louisville to select a nominee for the United States Senate and district county conventions held September 3 to choose delegates to the state convention.

Former Governor Flem D. Sampson was selected temporary chairman of the state convention. State Representative Joseph Eberhardt, of Louisville, was named temporary secretary and chairman of the special campaign finance committee.

Among those mentioned prominently in political circles as possible Democratic candidates are Judge Richard C. Stoll, Lexington; Judge Rodney Brown, on whose ticket in 1930 he was Lieutenant Governor, publisher of the Lexington Leader.

Motorists Being "Gyped" By Worthless Service

Kentucky motorists, filling station operators, restaurant proprietors and others interested in tourists traffic are being made victims of a gyp night scademen of worthless "service" concerns, according to Clyde V. Thompson, Secretary-Manager of the Blue Grass Automobile Club, who has issued a warning against the organizations.

Several months ago one of these worthless concerns, closed its doors, a vast amount of money, left with unlucky motorists, who are now holding worthless service contracts, which promise certain services and an insurance policy.

Not a single one of these concerns have a national office, and it is a matter of speculation as to ability to render service beyond the borders of the towns in which it operates. Many of these service stations.

Out of the difficulties in dealing with these "gyp" organizations is that the motorist, upon discovering the operator who has been swindled, does not learn that this is the case until they apply for service or render service bills to the so-called "service" headquarters and their letters remain unanswered.

Mr. Wonman said that all persons approached by these strangers should not allow them to leave the Bureau of Commerce or their local banker, but the best plan to follow would be to save no money to strangers not vouched for by local people. If time is taken to make such an inquiry they will find that the "salesman" has left town before. It is possible to get an answer from a responsible source.

Sulphur And Soap Will Stop Chigger Bites

"And the chiggers will get you if you don't watch out."

Have you surrendered to the chiggers? Wait. Take a bath with sulphur, get, for outdoors and dampness trips are too much fun and too good for your health to give up and be. Yet, there is a way to keep your body unattractive to these vampires of the field.

It's all very simple. Dr. A. H. McCormack, State Board of Health entomologist, says. Here is his advice:

Before going on a trip sprinkle the inside of your clothes with sulphur. Then, as soon as you get home, take a nice, long bath, rubbing the soap very dry on your skin.

The sulphur is repellent to chiggers and ought to keep them off. But if you overdoubt the power of the chiggers and the chiggers find it, then the soaps have been dried and soaked after exposure will prevent itching. The soap kills the chiggers.

Contrary to popular belief, the chiggers do not burrow into the skin. A chigger sticks to the skin and two of its six legs into the skin, holding itself in position while it sucks blood. It remains there until it is fed, then drops off.

In order to see if chiggers burrow into the skin, Dr. McCormack, conducted mites and another of the United States Public Health Service issued a bulletin on chiggers made experiments on himself.

The writer expected the left calf and ankle to chiggers attack. It wrote, "and after the mites had settled, numbered ten individuals by warring on the flesh near the chiggers with ink. Daily observations were made on these chiggers, using high and low power lenses, for the next eight days.

"It was observed on the first day that the mites attached only by their mouthparts and in no way burrowed into the skin. Observations on the second day showed no change, in fact after once attaching the mites by their mouthparts the larvae become quiescent and did not change their position until they dropped off."

Frequent attacks often produce a nervous effect, resulting in a feeling of lethargy or hyper-sensitiveness.

In case you have reason to suspect clothes with sulphur before going on an outing, or camping trip, or were unable to take a sooty bath soon enough after exposure, the skin thus left is pallative. Not a thing under the sun now will prevent itching and you just have to take your medicine; a pallative merely the first temporary relief, lessening the irritation. A saturated solution of salicylic acid in alcohol, with a drop of olive oil added, is said to be effective. Butter or lard, with the ability of salicylic acid, or pure kerosene on frequently used.

DEPRESSION NOTE

"You say financial troubles brought you here?" asked the hospital visitor "Why, that's hardly possible"

"It's a fact, though," replied the patient. "I was crossing to the other side of the street to avoid one of my creditors and saw another creditor on the other side. While I was trying to escape a car hit me.

Another Warning Issued As Result Of Typhoid

A report has been received from Dr. A. T. McCormack, state health officer, issuing a general warning to the entire state regarding the exceedingly high prevalence of typhoid fever at this time of year. For the months of June and July, 1932, there is approximately four times as many cases of typhoid in the state as there were for the corresponding months in 1929.

Dr. Sinnoc, director of the Nicholas county health department, released again warnings to the public about typhoid, advising everyone who has not been inoculated in the past three years to go to their family physician at once and be inoculated. If there is any question of a water supply, boil it fifteen minutes before using for domestic purposes and come to the health department or call at the office and ask for water analysis.

Reynolds Widow, Chum Indicted For Murder

Libby Holmun Reynolds, Broadway "torch" singer, and Albert Walker, Winston-Salem, N. C., "gigolo" were indicted last Thursday for the murder of Libby's husband, Richard Reynolds, heir to an estimated $15,000,000 Reynolds tobacco fortune.

Walker, a chum of young Reynolds, was arrested at early dawn at his home in Winston-Salem, and authorities at Cincinnati and New York were asked to take the prisoners into custody.

Reynolds, who was only 20 years old, died with a bullet in his brain after a party at his estate near Winston-Salem on July 8. He made no comments in his death. At a coroner's inquest his widow and Walker testified young Reynolds killed himself in a fit of despondency.

The prison population of the United States has nearly doubled in the last 25 years.

Johnny grinned when the teacher read the story of a man who swam a river three times before breakfast.

No, not replied Johnny, but I wonder why he didn't make it four times and get back to where his clothes were.

Sow Lespedeza For Soil Improvement

A campaign conducted through the cooperation of community leaders, business men and other interests with the county agent, resulted in 2,000 Edmonson county farmers sowing 7,000 pounds of kerean lespedeza seed this year and a definite program of soil and pasture improvement therby has been begun.

The discontinuance of the asphalt and lumber industries have been largely the principal source of income in the county. Lack of funds to secure lime made most farmers dependent on legumes for soil improvement, lespedeza being the only one which will thrive without lime.

During the winter County Agent J. H. Williams endeavored to interest every community in kerean lespedeza. Elmer Constant, a Brownsville banker, financed the purchase of seed, and C. O. Hubbleton and Tom Barnett, Brownsville merchants, weighed out the seed to farmers.

Community leaders assisting in encouraging farmers to sow lespedeza included George McCombs, L. B. Dossey, J. L. Vincent, Fluvene Wallgren, C. P. Edwards and J. L. Sturgeon.

The lespedeza has done well, and practically every farmer is pleased with the results according to Mr. Williams, who believes the acreage will be doubled next year and real progress made in improving the productiveness of the soil of Edmonson county.

Where does this inviting shade lane lead to?" asked the motorist.

Within moving trains has contented seat on the barbed-wire fence, the farmer launched a bit of tobacco juice with deadly accuracy, a grasshopper ten feet away, then scrutinized his stalkfed chin thoughtfully.

"Well, stranger," he drawled, "it's just about half way to Dixie folks around these parts into a right smart of trouble.

ENORMOUS CROWD IS EXPECTED IF THE WEATHER IS FAIR

Preparation Made To Care For Great Crowd At Blue Licks Tomorrow

VINSON WILL SPEAK

Granted fair weather, an unusually large crowd will gather at the Blue Lick Battlefield Park tomorrow to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the "last battle of the Revolution."

Visitors who have attended either celebrations will find a marked change in the park area, a road having been built into the park from the south entrance, an attractive dance, a museum erected out of native stone and a large concrete bridge placed in a natural amphitheater at the foot of the hill below the museum. Under the direction of Mrs. James Dorsey, chairman of the Park Commission and architects, the park has been landscaping under the supervision of Mr. Wonderlich landscape artists was undertaken, but not finished, as funds were exhausted. In the center of the park it was proposed to move the monument from its present site to the top of the ridge facing the plaza in front of the museum. This work has been abandoned and the earth about the base of the monument has been scared and grassed, so that it presents a much better appearance than it did formerly.

W. J. Curtis, curator of the park has done much work in the making of rustic paths through the area, and the opening of a roadway through the park so that an entrance may be made from the north, passing up by the monument.

Visitors Friday will be particularly interested in the museum, which is a beautiful grained building and attended as a unit of further building to be done later. It is the famous T. W. Hunter collection of prehistoric animal bones, dug up near the site of the old Blue Lick spring several years ago. The collection noted museums have made substantial efforts in the past. This collection is probably unique in the United States, in that it is displayed within less than a mile of the site where it was excavated. Archaeologists state that numerous collections of prehistoric animal remains are on exhibition, but in practically all instances these were dug up hundreds and thousands of miles from the point where they are exhibited. The visitor to Blue Lick Battlefield Friday may see this collection and then walk to the site where they were found near the old spring.

Then, too, the W. J. Curtis collection of Indian artifacts is one of the most famous, if not the most famous collection of its kind in Kentucky. Mr. Curtis has refused generous offers from museums in the state and elsewhere, stating that he intends that they shall become the property of the Commonwealth at his death. These alone are worth a trip to the park to see.

Arrangements have been made for the entertainment of a great crowd Friday. Hon. A. M. J. Cochran will preside at the exercises, which will start at 10:30, adjourning at 12 for lunch. The afternoon program will begin at 1:30 with the formal afternoon program with the presentation of the medal of George Washington and an address by the Honorable Fred M. Vinson, member of Congress.

A complete program of the exercises will be found on page eight.

The Maysville and Lexington pike are urged to hang a flag Friday morning, in observance of the 150th anniversary of the battle of the Blue Licks.

Partial Eclipse Of Sun Visible Here This Month

An eclipse of the sun, total over a portion of the New England states and partial throughout the rest of the country, will occur on the afternoon of August 31, affording millions of people the opportunity to witness this most striking celestial phenomenon.

The extent of the eclipse will vary from total in portions of the east to only 10 to 30 per cent on the Pacific coast. From the west coast to the southeastern states from 50 to 75 per cent of the sun's face will be obscured as the moon passes across it. The earth is the moon's shadow, and the moon's shadow is large enough to make a total eclipse over the sun possible. Mercury and Venus have no moons at all; Mars has two, but they are too small to exert any tidal influence; so would only a single moon of the size of the earth, also be able to cast a shadow of sufficient size to produce a total eclipse. Jupiter and Saturn have each moons which are large enough to produce total eclipses, but they are too far from the earth to cast a shadow of sufficient size to produce a total eclipse.

The moon's shadow will be only about 170 miles in diameter when it reaches the earth, and it will be moving at the rate of 2,000 miles an hour. The shadow will be preceded by a "penumbra" or half shadow, which will be 1,800 miles in diameter. The total eclipse will last for only 2 minutes and 40 seconds.

FOOTBALL OF POLITICS

(Kentucky Post)

In all the volumes of comment on the prohibition phase of President Hoover's acceptance speech, nothing is more pertinent than that contained in the statement by Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, in which he says:

"The attendance of congressional authority over state action in regard to the liquor traffic control would prove to be the source of new and serious problems and would make the liquor question the perpetual football of politics. The proper way to secure an entirely impractical suggestion and to so agree that it never is tried and discussed.

"We need to carry this difficult problem toward solution, is by unconstitutional repeal of the 18th amendment. The present Constitution and public opinion will do the rest.

"Let me, for a remembered, the saloon has not 'gone' anywhere except underground. Give us repeal and we can quickly end its existence whether open or concealed. Incidentally there is the sum of about $1,500,000,000 waiting to be picked up and added to the public revenues in repeal of taxation."

MEMORIAL MUSEUM AT BLUE LICK STATE PARK

BROWN IS EIGHTH IN FINAL TOTAL

Beats Fisher Hamilton By 29. Vinson Heads Ticket. Barkley Winner More Than 2 To 1

John Young Brown, speaker of the Kentucky house of representatives, last night won a Democratic nomination for congressman-at-large, but failed to overtake the leaders in the list of nominees, complete unofficial returns revealed today.

His margin over Finley Hamilton, of Louisville, was only 29 votes, however. The official canvass of the votes by the secretary of state may change their rankings in the list of nominees. Fred Vinson, Ashland, led the Democratic ticket, polling 90,680 votes.

U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley polled 123,025 votes for the Democratic senatorial nomination as compared to 54,434 for former Senator George B. Martin.

Following is the complete unofficial vote in the Democratic congressional race:

Fred Vinson, Ashland, 90,680; A. J. May, Prestonsburg, 96,364; Virgil Chapman, Paris, 95,954; W. Virgil Cleary, Mayfield, 84,134; Glover H. Cary, Owensboro, 80,838; Brent Spence, Fort Thomas, 75,016; J. R. Carden, Munfordville, 64,960; John Young Brown, Lexington, 64,931; Finley Hamilton, London, 64,471.

The Republican congressional unofficial returns are as follows:

Maurice Thatcher, Louisville, 47,027; George E. Ellison, Ashland, 29,748; William Lewis, Frankfort, 26,682; Hilmar Smith, Hindman, 32,198; B. T. Rountree, Bowling Green, 27,657; George E. Ellison, Ashland, 29,657; D. E. McClure, Elizabethtown, 28,596; Hugh Abston, Wheelwright, 26,803; Frank Russell, Louisville, 24,779.

But in the fall term of circuit court has been filed by Thomas Bumper, contesting the election of Arthur Pumphrey, school trustee, from the Hickory Creek precinct are in controversy.

Air Mail Brings Friends Together

(Holtville, California Tribune)

Its a good way to get into touch with old friends, is the air mail flight business. At any rate, W. H. Kirby, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has found it so.

When the plane came over for the sending of mail for the first airmail flight from Imperial valley on June 15th, Mr. Kirby found that he had two of the special delivery letters on which had not been handed out, and rather than see a good cause fail for a mere matter of two letters he penned a brief note to each of them in the mail.

Both men, coincidentally were sheriffs. One was D. M. Curry, sheriff of Nicholas County, Kentucky, and the other was W. A. Cockburn, sheriff of Alfalfa County, Oklahoma, but each sheriff enjoy letters from old friends.

Mr. Kirby has now received a letter from both sheriffs, acknowledging the mail letter they received and expressing felicitations.

Observe Date Of Sioux At Historic Bryan Station

A picnic dinner and patriotic program was held Tuesday afternoon at Bryan Station springs in observance of the 150th anniversary of the siege of the station.

A feature of the meeting was a special address delivered by Mrs. William H. Coffman, Lexington, a lineal descendant of one of the Bryan sisters, who married Col. Robert Johnson.

Other descendants of Bryan Station settlers attended the ceremonies. The program was arranged by descendants before the battle of the Blue Licks.

APPRECIATION TO BE SHOWN BY SERVICE

Says Fred M. Vinson In Card Thanking Voters Of Kentucky For Support Accorded Him

In a card issued at Ashland Saturday, Hon. Fred M. Vinson expressed his gratitude to the voters of Kentucky who gave him the lead of the Democratic congressional ticket in the recent primary.

On the unofficial count Mr. Vinson's total vote was shown to be 99,680.

His statement follows:

"That I am, indeed, gratified, to have received the largest number of votes in the recent state-wide primary for Congress goes without saying.

"Never before in Kentucky's history have candidates confronted with such a condition. A state-wide campaign in ten days was never deemed possible. About all that anyone could do was to rely upon his friends to do the job. I am genuinely appreciative of their loyal efforts.

"I am pleased with the result in the state, but particularly happy to know that in the nineteen counties comprising the 9th district, the endorsement and votes were practically unanimous.

"My appreciation can best be shown by the efforts which I will put forth, if re-elected, to serve Kentucky."

AS THE MERCURY SAW THE CENTENNIAL IN '82

The celebration of the centennial of the Battle of the Blue Licks in 1882 drew the largest crowd that had ever assembled in Nicholas or Robertson counties up to that time probably since the battle. The Kentucky orators, statesmen, the governor, cross roads politicians, the press and the meeting received wide publicity.

The editor of The Mercury was impressed by the gathering of noted men and was overwhelmed by the size of the crowd, estimated at some fifteen thousand by many. This is the account The Mercury of the following week gave of the celebration:

August 19, 1882:

"The celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the battle of the Blue Licks, held on the battle-field on Saturday, the 18th inst., was one of the most joyous events, as regards numbers and the general success which marked the occasion, ever held in Kentucky. The day was absolutely perfect. The air was clear, and the atmosphere void of all oppression. At an early hour the visitors began to arrive, accompanied by the Springs Hotels began to be supplied by the arrival of visitors coming by carriage, buggy, horseback and on foot, until, when the ceremonies began, experienced judges estimated the number at between ten and twenty thousand. We will not hazard a guess. Suffice it to say that they were there by across, an earnest, cheerful, intelligent, and most orderly assemblage of the intelligence and the muscle of Kentucky, assembled to do honor to the brave men who had an hundred years before made such a gathering possible. The day was not marred by the slightest disorder. At ten o'clock the procession formed and the Arlington Hotel, as follows: The Governor and his staff; the Kentucky Commissioners; the Press; descendants of the heroes of the battle; distinguished visitors and guests; Carlile Commandery of Knights Templar; company of pioneers; five companies of State Guards; two McCracken Guards, Lexington Guards, Blackburn Guards, Buckeye Guards, Louisville Guards; citizens on foot, citizens in carriages, citizens on horseback, and citizens afoot. At the firing of a salute from cannon on the battle-field, the procession moved to the eminence north of the Springs, half a mile distant, where the military formed in a hollow square around the spot, and from the speaker's stand, which stood a few minutes after eleven o'clock with the distinguished orator, Judge Bishop H. H. Kavanaugh, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who though an octogenarian, is still enjoying a vigorous old age. Next followed an address of welcome from Hon. W. P. Ross, of Carlile, chairman of the Blue Lick Monumental Association, which was responded to by Dr. Lyman Beecher Todd, of Lexington. Next followed an address on behalf of the Kentucky Historical Society by Prof. Joseph Desha Pickett, and one from Mr. Thos. C. Jones of Newport, representing the Ladies'
