Shrout, sold at public auction at the court house door Saturday afternoon the 47 lots belonging to the Shrout estate, containing 223 acres, located on Cassidy Creek. The farm was first offered in 10 tracts and then as a whole, the bids of $25 per acre for the farm as whole being the best bid. The purchasers were R. M. Shrout, O. T. Shrout and J. C. Shrout.

The intensive drive for votes in this Annual contest has started in earnest in the county during the past few days and this week practically every candidate is out in the county presenting his or her claims to the voters. Among the district candidates who have visited Lexington during the past week were Frank Lebus, Circuit Judge; Ben Worley, Tobacco Commissioner of Kentucky; Ed Hatchett, State Senator; W. J. Curtis, of Robertson, for Representative; Judge J. Lewis Rankin and Mr. Oldfield, for Commonwealth's Attorney.

WHO MAKES A GARDEN

Who reaps four walls around a little plot,
Some still, secluded spot,
And digs and sows therein, has done a thing
Beyond his reckoning.
In one small bended space
Beauty and deep, unfeigned content
Make their abiding place
And measureless peace is sent.
There time takes note of tender happenings:
The shimmer of a butterfly's blue wings,
Above the clustered pinks;
A spider's will to work a miracle
Between two hollyhocks;
A hidden cricket's humble people scans
A brown bird by a pool, and all that goes
Unseen, slowly transcribed, an old authentic word
In radiant lettering;
A shaking script of tendril, vine, and leaf
New green, pale gold, clear lavender, and pearl,
Peak by delicate petal, leaf by leaf.

METHODIST CHURCH

E. K. Arnold pastor.

Morning worship at 10:30. Union services Sunday night at the Methodist church, the pastor preaching. His subject will be, "The Second Coming of Christ." This important and timely question will be discussed from a scriptural standpoint. Biblical signs and prophecies, present day conditions and problems and questions that are in the mind of many will be considered. This sermon is not a theoretical and practical treatment of this subject but deals with interesting facts. It should help you to understand some real present day questions.

Church school at 9:30. Epworth League meets promptly at 6:45. Special music for the evening. Come and help in all services by your presence. You are invited. Strangers welcome.

BAPTIST CHURCH

W. M. Hammond, pastor.

The evening hour for worship is seven thirty, and it is a Union Service to be held with the Methodist church. Brother Arnold will preach the hour and we are requested to be present.

Your pastor has been asked to preach at the Headquarters Methodist church seven thirty Sunday evening.

Our morning text is Matthew 7:1 "In a cleft of the rock." The evening text is II Timothy 2. 10, "I endure all things for the Elect's sake." Who are the Elect? Are you one? If not what do you may know; for it is revealed in God's word.

PRATHER HALL

The Lord Jesus started on the way to His crucifixion, with a sorrow of His life, for we are told, that "after the supper they sang a song and went out." It was the beginning of the long, lonely trail that led up to Calvary, and the garden, and the tomb and His resurrection. Full and crowded is this trail—with the sorrow of the sleeping disciples and the weary, the traitor Judas, the angry mob, the cowardice of the fleeing disciples, the unjust trial and terrible scourging, the mockery, the crown of thorns and heavy cross, the terrible agony, the cruel nails, the jeering of the mocking crowd, scribes and Pharisees, the crucifixion, gambling for His garments, the enemies, intense darkness, and the rocking earth, resulting in the temple veil torn and His resurrection. Full and crowded is this trail—with the sorrow of the sleeping disciples and the traitor Judas, the angry mob, the cowardice of the fleeing disciples, the unjust trial and terrible scourging, the mockery, the crown of thorns and heavy cross, the terrible agony, the cruel nails
