HARRISON PROLIFIC MOTHER

(Cynthiana Democrat)

The following item is submitted by W. W. VanDeren and was gleaned from Perrin's History:

"As the population continued to increase, Harrison County, in 1793, was erected from Bourbon and Scott counties. Harrison comprised a large tract of country extending to the Ohio River and from its original territory several counties, wholly or in part, were created: Campbell, 1794; Pendleton and Boone, 1798; Owen, 1819; Grant, 1820; Kenton, 1840, and Robertson, 1867. Thus was erected from Bourbon and Scott Harrison county may be termed a prolific mother."

Poultry Raising Outlook Favorable

The outlook for the winter is favorable for poultry raisers who have good flocks and provide proper feeding and general care, thinks Dr. J. Holmes Martin, head of the poultry work at the College of Agriculture and Experiment Station, University of Kentucky.

Eggs are selling well enough to pay farmers to feed their flocks. Home produced feeds should be used where possible, however, in order to reduce costs. Make liberal use of skimmilk or buttermilk, if it is to be had. A gallon per day per 25 to 30 birds helps to balance the ration and to produce more eggs. If this much milk is not to be had, then feed a dry mash containing at least 10 per cent of meat scrap or tankage; or feed 20 per cent meat scrap where there is no milk.

If feed must be purchased, then it may be profitable to feed only well matured pullets that will lay well before the first of the year. Old hens should be culled, and nothing kept except late layers, which are the September, October and November molters. These will take two or three months of vacation and be back in production after the first of the year.

Other timely suggestions are:

1. Avoid overcrowding. A house 20 by 20 feet provides sleeping space for 100 hens and 10 to 12 male birds.

Keep the litter in the house dry as dampness tends to spread colds and diseases.

Plenty of clean water, slightly warmed in winter, pays.

Allow ample feeding space. Each hen requires 6 to 8 inches of space at the hopper.

To Trap Or Poison House Mice Easy

Like so many city dwellers who go to lake's and resorts for the summer, mice and rats depart for open places in gardens and fields in warm weather and return to houses, barns and other buildings when it becomes cold.

For the next month or so house mice will be a great annoyance and cause considerable damage to stored food and clothing. Traps or poisoned baits will remove the pests in short order if applied in a common sense way, according to O. C. Ostrander, poultry specialist of the U. S. Biological Survey, who is connected in this state with the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Pieces of fresh fried bacon tied to the triggers of the common mouse traps or a smear of a mixture of rolled oats and peanut butter on the triggers will attract mice to the traps. The main idea is to use plenty of traps. A dozen or more properly set along walls should remove the mice from a house in one or two nights, says Ostrander.

Where poisoned bait can be safely used, stir an eighth of an ounce of powdered strychnine thoroughly through a quart of dry rolled oats. Place pinches of the rolled oats bait at intervals along walls or put in small flat containers where mice will easily find it.

To Vote On Tobacco Tax For Next Year

Tobacco growers are to be asked to vote on a continuance of the tax for next year, under the provisions of the Kerr-Smith act, it is announced from the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

All persons who own or rent land on which tobacco was grown in 1934 whether as owner, renter, sharecropper or share-tenant or share-tenant, are eligible to vote.

The county agent in each county will determine the places and times for the poll. The vote is to be completed not later than Dec. 13.

Where two or more types of tobacco are being grown in a county, votes will be taken on each type.

Landowners or renters will simply indicate their vote by a "Yes" or "No" on the ballots. Share-tenants or share-croppers will be required to state the acreage of tobacco harvested in 1934.

Efforts will be made to have at least 90 per cent of the growers vote in the referendum.

The tax this year, as provided for in the Kerr-Smith act, is 25 per cent of the sale price (if all tobacco is allotted to producers by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Farm Census Designed For Benefit Of Farmers

Sometime during January, 1935, a United States census enumerator will call at every farm and ranch in the country in connection with the Census of Agriculture and farmers and ranchers can be of great assistance in furthering the project which is designed primarily for their benefit, by writing to the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C., and procuring a sample copy of the schedule.

The definition of a farm for census purposes is all the land which is directly farmed by one person, either by his own labor alone or with the assistance of members of his household, or hired employees. The land operated by a tenant or farmer is wise considered a farm. A farm may consist of a single tract of land, or of a number of separate tracts, of these several tracts may be held under different tenures, as when one tract is owned by the farmer and another tract is rented by him. When a landowner has one or more tenants, renters, croppers, or managers, the land operated by each cropper is reported as a separate farm, and the land operated by the owner or manager by means of wage hands is likewise reported as a separate farm. No report is required of a farm of less than 3 acres, unless its products in 1934 were valued at $250 or more.

Lesson for December 9

THE CHRISTIAN AS TEACHER

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 7:24-29; John 13:34-35.

GOLDEN TEXT—Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.—II Timothy 2:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Our Teacher.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Great Teacher.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Learning From the Master Teacher.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Teaching Church.

It seems that the lesson committee decided upon a title and then sought texts to fit it. It is very difficult, if not impossible, to make the texts fit the title. Regardless of the strained effort required to make this statement, two vitally practical Scripture passages are before us from which to set forth vital truths. The following lesson plan is suggested:

I. Jesus the Master Teacher (Matt. 7:24-29).

1. His method of teaching (vv. 24-27). In his application of the so-called Sermon on the Mount Jesus used a great striking simile, namely, the two foundations.

a. The house built on a rock (vv. 24, 25). The house endured the storms and flood because of its secure foundation. The wise builder will see to it that a safe foundation is provided before he proceeds to erect his house.

b. The house built on the sand (vv. 26-27). The house collapsed with the impact of the storms and flood because of its insecure foundation. The foolish builder is the man who proceeds to build his house without consideration of the importance of the foundation.

Jesus was a great teacher of permanent human life and character. And his work is based on the teachings of Christ. Every man is building a house. The fact of building is true of every man, regardless of the marked difference in size in the men who build or the material used. The house and but the foundation upon which they build. The foundation determines everything so far as man's destiny is concerned. A foundation is the most important thing in any life. The matter of importance is not so much what we are building upon as the foundation which will withstand the storms of life. Jesus Christ alone builds upon the words of Jesus Christ is actually secure.

2. The impression made (vv. 28-29). The people were astonished. The conduct of Christ's teaching as well as the manner of teaching was in contrast with that of the scribes. The teaching of the scribes consisted in the repetition of the words of others, while Christ's teaching was in his own words. The Christian teacher should give forth a positive and certain message because he speaks with the immediate eternal words of Christ the living God.

II. Applying Our Lesson Where Needed to Be Taught (Acts 18:24-28).

Apollos is a striking example of many Christian Indians. Many are gifted, energetic, and highly trained, and yet are ignorant of the real Christian message and Pentecostal grace.

1. Who he was (v. 24). He was an Alexandrian Jew, highly educated, carefully instructed in the Old Testament Scriptures, energetic and eloquent. He was a believer in Jesus Christ, yet was familiar with his life and teaching.

2. What he taught (vv. 25). He was only a disciple of John the Baptist. He was therefore ignorant of the meaning of Christ's death, resurrection, ascension, and the gift of the Spirit as ushered in at Pentecost. There are striking parallels to this today in the Christian church. We have many good men eloquent and highly cultured who know only the baptism of John." They insist upon the importance of being a pleasant life, social justice, and even call upon men to repent of their sins, but they seem to know nothing of the meaning of the death of Christ, the necessity of the new birth by the Spirit, and the Pentecostal gift. They are preaching for social justice and a higher standard of ethics, seemingly not knowing that these are by-products of the gospel and are meaningless and impossible without the proclamation of the gospel of Christ which centers in the person and work of the Redeemer.

3. Who instructed Apollos (v. 26). Priscilla and Aquila, humble Christian tent-makers, were instrumental in showing the great preacher the error, grace and leading him into the truth.

4. Results of his ministry (vv. 27-28). He was provided with credentials and had a fruitful ministry. His mightily convicted the Jews showing that Jesus was the Messiah.

Public Stars Will Help Launch Christmas Seal Sale

THE opening feature of the nation-wide Christmas Seal campaign will be a coast-to-coast broadcast arranged by the National Tuberculosis Association for Sunday, December 2, 10 to 10:30 P. M. (E.S.T.) Both of America's radio favorites, Lanny Ross (top, left) and Jessica Dragonette (top, right) have volunteered their talents as their contribution to the campaign. Dr. Francis B. Trudeau (top, center), son of the late Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, father of the sanatorium movement," will present the message for the 2,500 affiliated tuberculosis associations throughout the country. The other stars on the program are (l. to r.) Rosario Bourdon, noted conductor; Jacques Malkin, director, and his Renaissance Ensemble, players of ancient instruments, now being heard for the first time in America; Milton Rettenberg and Frank Basile, pianists. Inset shows the Christmas Seal.

$250,000 In State Funds Turned Over For Relief

An order authorizing payment of $250,000 in state funds to the Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration for December was received by George H. Goodman, state administrator, from Gov. Ruby Laffoon Friday.

The state order increased to $1,427,000 the amount available for December relief. The federal allotment was $1,217,000 for the month, including $979,000 for general relief, $100,000 for drought cattle program, $40,000 for transient relief, $57,000 for emergency relief in education and $21,150 for student aid.

Administrator Goodman Friday noted to Harry L. Hopkins, the federal administrator, a report of general conditions in Kentucky affecting the relief situation.

The relief problem, the report said, is similar to that of last winter. The picture is somewhat brightened, however, by generally good crops and good prices. Approximately 80 of Kentucky's 120 counties, the Goodman report said, are in "serious financial straits," and are unable to supply materials and pay for supervision for work relief projects. Approximately one-fourth of the counties, it continued, have shown improvement in conditions of employment, but the remainder are in worse condition than they were a year ago.

In the mountain counties from 40 to 60 per cent of the population is receiving relief.

The Kentucky Rural Rehabilitation Corporation, a supplementary relief organization, met Friday and formulated plans for the rehabilitation of some 20,000 Kentucky farm families.

THE OLD HUNTER

Often I hear him galloping,
Though it's twenty-one years today
Since Bob, my faithful old hunter,
Crossed the Bills that are far away.
His bridle hangs in a nice,
And on hand shall it stay
For
Only a frayed old horse-bridle,
But to me it's sacred, divine.
Whip, too, though, I never used it,
And carried it only for show
My eyes grow dim when I hold it,
And I dream of the long ago
Hark! I can hear him galloping,
Through his twenty-one years today
Since Bob, my faithful old hunter,
Crossed the Hills that are far away
—W. Williams in Bailey's Magazine.

Hens and pullets require an abundance of good feed, fresh, warm water and comfortable housing. If they are to lay well during the period of good egg prices in late fall and winter. Feed is higher this year than last, but eggs are up several cents a dozen.

Laundry soaps should be selected for each particular need. The neutral soap for silk, wool and rayon, a neutral or slightly alkaline one for linen and cotton, and strongly alkaline soaps for extremely soiled clothes and towels.

Pickled pigs' feet recipe: Remove toes from well-scrapped feet. Soak feet in water overnight, then cover with water and cook until soft; let about five hours. Add salt to the water during the cooking. When done, remove feet from little water split. Pack in an earthern jar and cover with hot vinegar. Spices may be added to the vinegar, if desired.

Hundreds of Kentucky farmers are planning to take inventories the first of the year and then to keep accounts. This will give them a record of receipts and expenses, crop acreages and yields, and other information necessary under present conditions. See a county agent about obtaining record books.

High feed prices have stimulated attention to better housing of livestock. Animals left in rain, snow and cold weather require more feed than do stock kept indoors. All kinds of livestock are more profitable if provided shelter.

If the white composition handles of table knives are discolored they can be renewed by rubbing them with a piece of moistened newspaper dipped in fine sand and polishing with chamois.

A piece of cheesecloth dipped in kerosene and hung in the air for a couple of days makes a dusticloth equal to the costly ones with the fancy names.

Order Of Pioneers Seeks 555-Foot Scaffold

Col. William Boone Dunlap, president of the American Order of Pioneers, Washington, D. C., has notified local officials of the national society that he has requested Senator Albert W. Barkley to make arrangements for the steel scaffolding now erected around the Washington monument in the national capital, so that it can be transported to Kentucky to pioneers.

The 555-foot scaffolding is 355 feet high, the height of the Washington monument, and is being used in the process of administering a "bath" to the monument. The job is to be completed December 15, the date set, and the scaffolding removed on January 1.

Col. Dunlap suggests that the capital be re-erected at Athens, Ky., on the site of Daniel Boone's Station to use of the four shrines in the Pioneer National Monument, created by act of the last congress, and affords sufficient level ground for its erection. It is probable that from the top of the tower, if situated at Athens, the entire group of shrines, extending from Boonesboro to Blue Licks, could be viewed, Colonel Dunlap said.

It is the purpose of the American Order of Pioneers, if successful in getting the steel tower for the Kentucky shrine, to endeavor to have a set of chimes and an elevator installed.

Thanksgiving Program At School

Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock in the high school auditorium a Thanksgiving operetta "Our Thanksgiving Story Book," was given by the pupils of the third and fourth grades of the Carlisle graded school under the direction of Mrs. Sterling Blake. Mrs. Curry and Miss Bingham.

The operetta consisted of three episodes. In the first episode a group of modern children as a Thanksgiving party were complaining of having nothing new to do. The mother of the young host and hostess came to the rescue with a song-story in which she took the children to the "Land of Make Believe."

The second episode was the story the mother told the Pilgrim children who were lost in the woods. Gave up all hope of finding their way home and lay down to sleep. A tribe of Indians chose the same woodland for a ceremony to their war god. The chief sent his warriors into the forest to find an offering to their war god. The two Pilgrim children were discovered and the Indians prepared to use them as the sacrifice. However, the Pilgrim fathers and mothers arrived just in time to save the children.

In the third episode the children as the party dressed the story they had heard and decided that they had much to be thankful for after all. Then one Pilgrim and Indian came out of the story book and joined the children in singing the finale, "Out of the Story Book."

In response to an appeal made this week and last week to the students of the Carlisle Public School to participate in the drive for the Johnson Memorial Hospital, the pupils, Wednesday, the last day of school before the Thanksgiving holiday brought 223 packages besides several dollars in money.

Just before the beginning of the Thanksgiving program, the young people who brought donations marched out of the building with their donations and lined up on the west side of the school building where pictures were made of the group holding aloft their gifts. After this they passed in line to a donated truck which was piled high with the foodstuffs brought by the young people.

The true spirit of Thanksgiving is that of charity. The young people are proud that they could do their part.
