Ford Is Nearing Old Time Form

Ford Dealers Are Smiling Again As Car Sales Mount Like Model T Days

(Copyright, 1934, Cincinnati Times-Star)

DETROIT, June 7.—1934 is likely to become known in automobile history as the year of the Ford comeback.

There are signs on every hand that Henry Ford and the motor car that has succeeded the ancient Tin Lizzie are climbing back toward the top of the motor heap. Ford dealers are talking Ford cars—and buying them, too.

A couple of years ago one could hear it said around Detroit that Ford was trailing most of the pack. His car was supposed to have been outmoded by competitive makes. It was reported that the loyalty of the Ford dealers was being tested severely by the slowness with which Ford was able to shift his models.

But two years, plus an improved business outlook, have wrought a change. Henry Ford, himself, to newspapermen and to the intimates that surround him, appears to have regained his old-time confidence and enthusiasm. The whole Ford organization shows an eagerness for the business fray.

SMILES RETURN

For the month of May the Ford factories will have averaged better than 25,000 cars a week. The assembly lines move with smooth precision, and, while there has been a tapering off in sales reported by other manufacturers since the first of the month, shipments to Ford dealers show no signs of slowing down. Ford dealers again are smiling in their old way at the ease with which cars move in and out of their showrooms.

Detroit has come to feel, in fact, that so long as Ford can maintain his momentum there is no immediate danger of a downward slump in the automobile industry. That is why even in the midst of reports of declining sales from other leading manufacturers, there is little open pessimism in Detroit.

It has been mentioned in this column previously that Ford Motor Company has modified many of its long-standing methods in the last four years. Essentially, however, the Ford idea does not change—a durable product at a low price.

Ford is considered to have strengthened his position by sticking close to previous price lists since the beginning of the year. In fact, one of the Ford talking points in recent weeks has been its price stabilization. When Ford is able to get down to the point of undersellng competitors, he is planning to stay in the field. He was for as many years such fertile ground for the law.

MASTER MECHANIC

Henry Ford always has been the master mechanic and inventor, rather than the master salesman. In earlier days he built a car of durable quality and built it so well so cheap that it quickly commanded widespread sales resistance. He depended on word-of-mouth advertising for a large extent.

The Ford program now is to depend less and less on oral recommendations and the Ford reputation. Newspaper and magazine ads are getting more Ford advertising. The billboards are carrying the reminder message. The radio has not been scoured either as it has for many years.

This change in sales attitude is a concession to Edsel and the younger minds of the organization. It is a recognition of the fact that the Ford product has ceased to be unique in its field. It is conceded that the future Henry Ford will build the car and devote the bulk of his machine the company is to sell, just as he has done in the past. But Edsel and others in others will be left the formulation of sales policies to convince the current customer.

Ford is listening at last, to suggestions. He is ready to listen and to let the country know that Ford will must be reckoned with as a manufacturer.

The most sweeping gesture in the direction of Ford publicity will be the company's building at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago this summer. Ford was missing from the exhibition last summer. This year, the company has spared nothing in the Ford building one of the focal points of the fair. A lot of Henry Ford's ideas have gone into it.

Ford can not restore the day when his name, through the magic of funny stories, was on every lip. But his organization is ready to prove, for 1934, that the car, through other methods, can return in numbers to country highway and city street.

House Passes Boone Memorial Measure

The House Friday passed a bill to authorize the Secretary of Interior to cooperate with the Boone Memorial Commission of Kentucky in development of the Pioneer Memorial National Monument and urged it to the Senate for action on amendment.

As amended by Representative Coleman, the bill authorized the Secretary of Interior to accept lands for the monument including Boonesboro, in Madison county, Boone Station in Fayette county, Bryan Station in Bourbon county, Blue Licks grounds in Robertson county.

Private American investments in foreign countries amount to nearly $17,000,000,000.

Payment To Wheat Farmers Increased

The second payment to farmers who signed wheat adjustment contracts has been increased 1 cent a bushel, the College of Agriculture was notified from Washington Friday.

For wheat farmers as a whole, the increase stated the department, will add $2,500,000 benefit payments for co-operating in the governmental plan to readjust production.

Three Drown As Boat Overturns

The bodies of Mrs. Russell Kennedy, 57, her daughter, Tillie, 18 and Hazel Morgan, 28 all of Barnes Springs, Ohio, who drowned Monday night, were recovered from the Ohio river Tuesday.

A 12-foot yawl overturned in a sudden squall about midnight on the Ohio shore and throw the occupants into the river as they were returning to their home from Vanceburg.

Mrs. J. H. Morgan, Mr. David Dawson, 3 years old, and Pete Kessinger, 24, owner of the boat were rescued. Kessinger on the Ohio side expressed belief the boat overturned when Kessinger shut off the motor too quickly, while the boat was traveling at a high speed, causing the craft to overturn. The boat, they said, was overloaded.

The bodies of Mrs. Morgan and Miss Kennedy were recovered, both of each others arms. Although the Morgan girl was said to be a good swimmer, officials said she was dragged to her death by Miss Kennedy, whom she sought to rescue.

WORK WONDERS BY PLASTIC SURGERY

Ears, Noses and Limbs Now Altered at Will.

Philadelphia.—"Give you ever seen a face you like better than your own? You can have it if you wish."

A Philadelphia plastic surgeon who is a professional creature wishes his name concealed, has explained what can be done to "move your face."

"We may swap a Roman nose for a Greek one; or a pair of thinness legs for those of Mae-one Dietrich. You even can have a permanent blush.

"Among the patients who come for alterations," the surgeon said, "are society matrons, would-sales girls, would-be stage and screen stars, and up and-at-'em business executives. They realize that their face is, or should be, their fortune.

"Some of the commonest requirements is to reduce or remodel ears. Ears project even to the point of being in the way; fat ears can be made slim, tight ears plump.

"Another frequent request is for new hair on a Kitty dome. In that case we simply take the tufts still growing elsewhere and transplant them to spots where they will show to better advantage.

"Modern bathing costumes and evening gowns have created a big demand for dimples. They are easy. Also, a few expertly placed stitches can greatly improve the shape of the mouth and chin.

"Noses recently want trim ankles and thighs. Skillful work will make these trim. Buttocks also can be removed.

"Most of all this work it is most important that a man be selected who will be an architect of the human body, patching up the careless work of nature."

Town in New York Has Monument to Bernhardt

Geneva, N. Y.—Its existence virtually unknown to the outside world, an English project dedicated to Sarah Bernhardt, French tragedian, erected by a Genevan admirer, stands in a field frequented spot south of the city, near Hopkins Corners. It is believed to be the only monument ever erected in this country to her memory.

The monument, composed of concrete blocks of stone and a second tone stands 14 feet high. It was built by Charles B. Sears, Geneva lawyer and descendant of Colonial settlers, who followed her career in this country and foreign capitals.

A plaque, of Vermont marble, bears the following inscription:

"To Madame Sarah Bernhardt, the incomparable actress in the world, whose lyric fire and divine voice gave more intense and supreme life to the poets, in profound admiration is built this tribute memorial, by the Knights of Cyprus, Geneva, Ontario, dedicated the Door to Eternal Spring."

The monument is situated on Sears's estate. Sears is an officer of the Knights of Cyprus.

Star Photography Aided by Aluminum Reflectors

Pasadena, Calif.—Operating on new worlds, astronomers at Lick observatory have found that the use of aluminum instead of silver in the mirror of an astronomical telescope increased the instrument's power, possibly 50 to 60 per cent.

After photographing a star in the North polar region with a telescope whose mirror was coated with silver, the astronomers sent the mirror to the California Institute of Technology where the silver was removed and polished aluminum applied. The star was rephotographed, and a long extension of the star's spectrum, barely visible in the former photograph, could be seen plainly.

The effect will be to widen former astronomical "horizons," scientists are agreed.

NICHOLAS ROAD FUND WILL RECEIVE $19,592 FROM TAX MEASURE

County Would Pay $20,094 Less Into State Treasury, Figures Show

COUNTY PAYS $34,173.18

Through the courtesy of Mr. Walter O. Maier, Frankfort correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who has been publishing figures showing the effect of the sales tax in various counties of the state, The Mercury has secured figures for Nicholas county.

On the basis of the sworn retail sales in Nicholas county, made in graduated sales tax returns in 1931, the gross sales in this county amounted to $803,918.55. On this amount a 3% tax would raise $24,—09.56. However, if the sales tax is figured on the basis of 1931 business, it will raise in the county $19,592.—. This is probably the most authentic and far-reaching campaign ever attempted in Nicholas county. A campaign will be held at each of the ten churches, casting with a three-week meeting at the Christian church.

Rev. J. J. Whitehouse, pastor of the Carlisle Christian church, will be the evangelist for the meetings. Rev. Harry Gaines, of Cincinnati, minister of the Mt. Zion and Ellisville churches, will lead the singing and direct the personal work.

The following committee, composed of members of the various churches, has been appointed: Mrs. Dora Wells, Blue Licks; Thomas Dampier, Stony Creek; Leo Neal, Ellisville; Mrs. Letcher and Mrs. Wilcoxen, Pleasant Valley; Mrs. J. W. Buchanan, Myers; Mrs. Daniel, Jackstown; Mrs. Stephenson, East Union; Guy Neal, Mt. Zion; T. B. Mathews, E. F. Fitzpatrick, Carlisle.

The following schedule has been arranged for the meetings: East Union, July 2-6; Myers, July 9-13; Jackstown, July 16-20; Pleasant Valley, July 23-26; Blue Lick, July 30-Aug. 3; Mt. Zion, Aug. 6-12; Stony Creek, Aug. 13-19; Ellisville, Aug. 20-26. Other dates will be announced later.

GROSS SALES TAX PASSED BY SENATE EFFECTIVE ON JULY 1

Administration Measure Approved 20-17 And Is Signed By Gov. Laffoon

ALL BUSINESS IS TAXED

Without a single vote for passage, the Senate Friday afternoon passed the three per cent gross receipts tax bill, approved last week by the House, thereby writing "finis" to Governor Laffoon's fight of more than two years to make the sales tax the foundation of Kentucky's revenue system.

The vote was 20 to 17 for the bill. Twenty votes were required to pass it. The House passed the bill 51 to 47, the minimum required for passage there.

The bill became a law at 9:23 Friday afternoon when Governor Laffoon signed the bill at the evening session. The bill became a law as soon as the Governor signed it, by virtue of an emergency clause. Members of the state tax commission, will be appointed and the new law will be put into effect. The commission will prepare rules and regulations for operation of the act and issue permits to merchants and others affected by it. The law will expire automatically at midnight, June 30, 1936.

The bill requires merchants selling at retail, theaters, dance halls, bowling alleys, pool rooms, amusement parks, circuses, carnivals, utilities companies and every other business to keep a tax of three per cent upon gross sales.

All persons are prohibited from payment of the taxes themselves and must collect the levy from the purchaser.

Kentucky's newly enacted 3 per cent sales tax law, will go into effect until July 1, Gov. Ruby LaFoon, member of the state tax commission and the attorney general decided at a conference Saturday.

The period of grace was decided on, the governor announced, in order to allow the tax commission sufficient time to prepare rules and regulations for the tax enforcement and print forms for issuance to those affected by the act. The tax commission already has embarked upon its task and during the past few weeks is expected to be swamped with applications for licenses to operate under the law.

First reports under the law will be due, the governor said, August 15.

Kerr Tobacco Control Bill Passed By Congress

Congress Monday approved the federal government's second experiment in compulsory crop control, this time dealing with tobacco. Including 3% surtaxes similar to the Bankhead cotton control measure of last weeks session, the Kerr bill, penalizing growers who exceed farm administrators or stockpiled allotted quotas, was sent to the White House.

The measure provides that persons marketing more tobacco—except Maryland, Virginia and cigar leaf—than allowed them under the farm administration voluntary contracts to cut production shall pay a tax amounting to one-third of the sale price of the tobacco. With the Secretary of Agriculture authorized to waive the law to one-fourth if he sees fit.

Presbyterians In Lead In League

Leaders Will Defend Lead From Last Place Baptists This Afternoon.

Guard Defeats Legion

With three victories and no losses, the Presbyterians are leading in the diamond ball league, but they are not expected to remain in the position when they meet the Baptists. The Baptists have lost two games, two starts, but expected to start a prolonged winning streak this afternoon.

The National Guard and American Legion, which have added teams to the loop, played their initial games Monday afternoon and except in two innings, before the Legion, had become "organized," the game was better than the score of 8-6 would indicate.

On last Thursday afternoon, the Presbyterians defeated the Methodists by a score of 19 to 8.

On Tuesday afternoon, the game postponed from Monday, the National Guard defeated the American Legion 9 to 0. Only two hits were made by the Legion off the pitching of Nixon for the National Guard.

On Thursday afternoon, June 21, the Presbyterians will play the Baptists and on next Monday afternoon, June 25, the Christians will play the American Legion.

Games are played at 5 o'clock each afternoon and the public is invited. No admission is charged.

Following is the standing of the teams including Monday's games:

Former Dentist At Sharpsburg Killed

Dr. H. L. Myers Found Shot To Death On His Farm Near Eldorado, Illinois

Dr. Homer L. Myers, 55 years old, native of Sharpsburg and well-to-do dentist of Eldorado, Ill., was found Monday shot to death on a farm in owned near Equality, Ill. after an all-day and night search by police and a posse.

A woman who gave her name to police as Evelyn Anderson, of Wood-boro, Texas, was arrested and held in jail in connection with the slaying and her traveling companion, Harold St. Clair, alias Lee Armstrong, is being sought by authorities.

Dr Myers was lured from his home Saturday morning by the man and woman on the pretense that they wished to purchase his farm. He left his home with them and when he failed to return a search was started, resulting in the finding of his body in a clump of weeds.

FOOD FOR THE SAILORS

When Uncle Sam, in his housewife capacity, goes shopping to provide provisions for the Navy this Christmas are somewhat staggering. Imagine a grocery list like this: 300 tons of flour; 2,000,000 pounds of milk; 32 carloads of fresh eggs; 2,000,000 pounds of beef; 1,800,000 pounds of sugar; 200,000 pounds of canned tomatoes; 200,000 pounds of vegetable shortening; 150,000 pounds of apricots; 100,000 pounds of pickles; 700,—000 pounds of fresh vegetables, and enough of turkeys. This was just the first order placed for the fleet when it arrived in Alameda waters.
