GUNMEN SEIZE TOWN

Seven gunmen literally captured Crescent, Okla., a town of 1,200 population, last Wednesday, held scores of alarmed citizens at bay with shotguns while they attempted to make away with a three-ton bank safe containing $4,200, and then abandoned their efforts and fled with seven of eight residents whom they kidnaped as shields. All of the kidnap victims, including a pajama-clad telephone operator and another woman, were released a few miles from Crescent. Unable to hoist the safe into their truck, the gunmen left it unopened on the sidewalk.

W. J. Fields Announces Candidacy For Congress

To the Democrats of the 6th and 9th Congressional District of Kentucky:

I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Primary Election on Saturday, August 4, 1934, and will appreciate your support.

1. If elected, I will support President Roosevelt in his continued effort to place the country on a sound financial, economic and social basis.

2. The expense of government must be curtailed if the burden of taxation is to be lightened. As the first step in that direction, the best salaries of Representatives in Congress and U. S. Senators should be reduced from $10,000 to $7,500 annually. The last mentioned amount was the salary paid during the period of the world's highest prosperity. I shall therefore fight to the last ditch to bring about such reductions.

3. I favor an Old Age Pension law and will do all in my power to secure the enactment of same.

4. I will give the Ex-Service men the same character of unlisting enjoyed by those who have served in the Navy. As a Member of Congress, and will exert my efforts to restore with the least possible delay every just and equitable pension and compensation claim.

5. Taxation, the chief money crop of Kentucky, is bearing an unfair proportion of the burden of taxation. The tobacco tax should be reduced and a sales system created by law that will guarantee to the grower a fair price, and I shall use every honorable means at my command to accomplish these results.

6. If returned to Congress I shall refrain as I have always done from any effort or attempt to be a political boss and will not meddle in local politics, nor will I discriminate between Democratic candidates for party nominations who have been equally loyal to me.

PRATHER HILL

When the Lord Jesus comes for the sanctification of the church which is His body, the world will be ripe for so many events and teach. It will simply be the end of the period of Secret Administration of God's dealings. This will be much world after that. But the appearance of the Lord in the air to catch up to Himself His body, which is the church (1 Thess. 4:13-18—2 Thess. 2:1—Phil. 3:20-21), will be greatest surprise that it would not have known, for the day of the Lord as a thief in the night (Christ is a coming) (1 Thess. 5:13). Three events will be left on earth—the sons of Stubborness, the nation of Israel, and the remainder of unvisited nations of the earth. They will behold the Great Indignation, Israel (Jer. 30:7) will be saved and confirmed by the words of the Lord Jesus to Mat. 24:15-28.

SEVENTEEN ACTS VOIDED

Seventeen acts of the regular 1934 session of the Kentucky legislature were declared unconstitutional Friday by the court of appeals because they did not bear the signature of Lieut. Governor A. B. Chandler. The high court's action is a setback to the movement of Circuit Judge H. Church Ford who began in persistent reports that another special session of the legislature will be called to correct the defective measures.

Warden Is Injured When Attacked By Coon

Van Y. Green, Salt Lick, district game warden, was seriously injured at Owensville Thursday when he was attacked by a raccoon while exhibiting the animal on the streets. Green suffered severe lacerations on the hands and arms as a result of the attack. He was treated by physicians, who fear infection.

Green had just returned from the Preston section, where he obtained the raccoon, which weighed twenty-one pounds, and upon his arrival a crowd gathered around the automobile to see the animal. When he had released it from its cage, it suddenly showed fight and before Green could free himself, blood was streaming from wounds inflicted in his arms and hands. When the raccoon was released, it ran into the basement of the Owensville Banking Company, where it was recaptured by spectators of the attack.

Other citizens of Owensville said this was the first time in many years that they had seen a raccoon, as they are becoming almost extinct in this section, due to the destruction of the forest trees which afforded them dens.

SAVING IN COURT COSTS

Records available on court costs since January 1, 1934, show most encouraging gains of economy efforts in a majority of the circuit courts to eliminate unnecessary costs and to reduce court operations to much sounder bases than those that prevailed during the unrestricted days of profligate spending and poor management that prevailed between 1928 and 1932. Nat B. Bewell, State Inspector and Examiner, said in a report to the cost of jury service in Kentucky.

OLD CHURCH OPENS AGAIN

One of the oldest Baptist churches in the state was formally opened for worship beginning the last week in July and continued through the month in August. This church was at one time one of the largest in this section of the country. Great sermons were preached here. People have come for miles around and the building was unable to hold the crowds. Rev. R. H. Cooper, pastor of the Carlisle Baptist church is to do the preaching and friends of the church hope for large crowds to attend.

Dr. Walter Freeman says a paralysis which may last for months can be caused by crossing the legs.

NEW PLAN FOR LEAF GROWERS EFFECTIVE NOW UNTIL JULY 28

President Signs Kerr Bill To Levy Tax On Non-Signers Of Contracts

SIGN-UP ENDS JULY 28

President Roosevelt last Thursday signed the Kerr tobacco production control bill, passed by the recent Congress.

The act is designed to control tobacco production through taxation and to give protection to growers participating in the voluntary adjustment plan. J. B. Hutson, in charge of section chief, said administration regulations would be announced shortly.

Provisions of the act include levying an ad valorem tax of 33 1-3 per cent—unless Secretary Wallace fixes a lower rate, which may be less than 25 per cent—on all tobacco marketed by growers who signers not having allotments under the voluntary adjustment program.

Reopening the tobacco sign-up campaign to allow growers 30 days to apply for contracts.

Permitting small growers, in symposia with the act but not desiring to qualify for adjustment contracts, to receive allotments of production which may be sold without payment of the tax conditioned by the farmer the first week of the marketing season.

Penalties for violating a contract include denial of benefit payments and refusal to renew or extend the contracts.

The special campaign for additional signers to the burley production control program will be handled in Kentucky through the College of Agriculture just as was the regular contract campaign, said under. Dean Thomas P. Cooper, of the college, said Dean Cooper said he had been advised when the campaign would be launched.

The state office of the AAA at the Agriculture Experiment Station will be in charge of the campaign in Kentucky through the College of Agriculture just as was the regular contract campaign, said under. Dean Thomas P. Cooper, of the college, said Dean Cooper said he had been advised when the campaign would be launched.

Payment receiving such special allotments will not receive benefit payments, as will signers of the regular reduction contracts, but they will be permitted to sell their allotment of tobacco tax free.

The tobacco signup campaign was reopened Saturday under the state AAA office and July 28. The regular reduction contracts may be signed at that time, in which farmers will receive rental and benefit payments, or growers may make applications for tax-free allotments.

County agents in Nicholas have received contracts and other information and will be prepared to receive contracts of growers.

Decrease Seen In Relief Needs

Some decrease in Kentucky's relief needs during June, July and August is seen from reports from Emerson Wilson, director of the Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration.

Mr. Wilson's statement was based on reports for the month of June from branches of the state's 120 districts. Decreases, he judged, will be occasioned by seasonal employment on farms, building construction, the availability of garden vegetables, the demand for fuel and slight need for clothing during the warm weather.

The curve may be expected to level out, he estimated, in September, and start upward again as winter falls.

Exceptions to the general decline, he observed, were two counties, in which there had been mining issues—Leslie, where relief needs increased between June 1 and June 30, and Muhlenberg, where needs also increased.

Relief expenditures in Kentucky in June, Mr. Wilson reported, were $780,000. For July he said $200,000 is based for from the state's relief fund, just adopted, and $400,000 from the Federal Government on the $1-for-$4 plan offered by it.

Definite allotments of July relief moneys will have to be delayed, he said until July 5, when the last monthly reports are due. Allotments for July, he said, will be complete by Saturday.

FORESTER ARRESTED

John Forester, Harlan merchant, accused by Sheriff Hiram Brock of Frankfort of offering him $10,000 to defeat the sales tax in the Kentucky Senate, was arrested Saturday on a charge of offering to bribe a public officer. He was held to the grand jury under bond of $2,500. Forester was named by Senator Brock, in a court of inquiry, as the man who offered him a bribe. Forester has denied the charge.

Prisoner Shot To Death From Ambush In Mountains

R. B. Stamper, 40 years old, was shot to death from Ambush at noon Friday as he was being escorted by officers to an isolated mountain home to visit his aged mother. Stamper, held in jail at Winchester for subpoenaing in connection with a murder charge and arson indictments, had been granted a permit by Circuit Judge J. H. Howard, of Salyersville, ordering the Clark county jailer to take Stamper to the home of his aged mother for a visit.

At Jailer Omer Booth, of Clark county, and Deputy Sheriff Goebel Lawson, left the Stamper home located near the intersection of Breathitt, Powell and Wolfe counties, Stamper dropped to the ground dead. His assailant escaped.

16 Districts To Hold Elections

School Trustees To Be Elected In Special Election To Be Held Saturday, July 14

School trustees will be elected in sixteen districts in Nicholas county school districts of the county at the regular school election to be held on Saturday, July 14. In only four districts will there be opposition. In Carlisle there will be two seats at stake in the first week of the county school elections will be held in the four year terms.

The present trustees will serve until their terms expire, all of which will end later than 1936. No more school trustee elections will be held until 1936.

A factor which in all probability prevented many candidates from announcing in the new school law which prohibits a trustee from nominating any relative for the position of school teacher.

Friday night was the last date for the filing of declaration certificates with the County Superintendent. Election officials will be named. The elections will be held in the various districts and will be by secret ballot. Nominations for trustees will also be written on the ballot and elected.

Reorganization Act Is Attacked In Suit Friday

Circuit Judge H. Church Ford Friday night issued a restraining order against the Governor Ruby Laffoon and other state officials from putting into effect the reorganization act passed by the 1934 legislature. A hearing on the application for a permanent injunction was set for Saturday, July 7, in Frankfort.

Constitutionality of the act, which provides for the transfer of power in reorganizing the state government to executive departments, was one of the principal provisions of the act. Many of the commissions of the state insurance department and the department of fire prevention, were placed under the control of the executive department of insurance under Governor Laffoon.

BUDGET BILL PASSED

In a long and bitter session, the Senate Friday passed without amendment, the budget bill.

Expenditures of $25,505,819 are authorized for each of the two fiscal years, including expenditures out of the road fund. Exclusive of the road fund, expenditures of agencies supported by the general fund and fees total $23,883,919 for each fiscal year. In addition, the budget bill authorizes an expenditure of $15,000 by the newly created public service commission which will be financed by assessments paid by the utilities companies.

Future Farmers To Attend Fair

Local Agriculture Class Purchases Carload Of Baby Beeves. 100 Projects Started

The Future Farmers have purchased a carload of baby beeves to be sold at the annual Pat Cattle Show at Louisville in November. The calves, all Herefords, were purchased by the following boys: Allen Clay, Wendell Bell, Eugene Caswell, Earl Johnson, Estill Hughes, Marion Mann and Julian Atkinson. With a project of higher prices, it is believed the boys will make money on their venture.

Mr. Leonard will start training the members of the agriculture class of the 11, and the team selected will attend the Kentucky State Fair at Louisville in September. Beef, cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and hogs will be the livestock judged at the fair.

All projects of the Future Farmers are now under way.

At a meeting of the Nicholas Farm Bureau, Tuesday, Judge D. M. Curry reported that estimates had been completed on costs to the county for the coming year. The total of the projects started here last winter with CWA labor.

The cost to the county of completing the Carlisle and East Union road was estimated at $8,377 and the cost to the county of completing Headquarters and Sailwell pike was estimated at $3,483.90.

At labor on the Headquarters-Sailwell road the rock will be furnished through the local relief office. The estimates will be submitted to the state relief office at Louisville and if approved the work will probably start in a short time.

Upon motion of Magistrate J. C. Gillispie, the court unanimously voted to pay the completed portions of the Carlisle and East Union road and the Headquarters and Sailwell road. The court also unanimously voted to patch and repair the Barbourville pike and the Upper Jacks-town pike from the city limits of Carlisle to a point near the residence of John Cronan.

Judge Curry was authorized to accept the lowest bid for a road grader at a road place.

The court also authorized Judge Curry to sign a resolution of sympathy in behalf of Nicholas county on the county infirmary farm.

From there they go to the Ammon Youth Foundation Camp at Shelby, Mich. In addition to participating in the seven-day camp program there, they will attend lectures by American leaders of business who will appear before the group by Mr. Wm. H. Danforth, Chairman of the Board of Purina Mills.

The cost to the county of completing the Carlisle and East Union road was estimated at $8,377 and the cost to the county of completing Headquarters and Sailwell pike was estimated at $3,483.90.

At labor on the Headquarters-Sailwell road the rock will be furnished through the local relief office. The estimates will be submitted to the state relief office at Louisville and if approved the work will probably start in a short time.

Upon motion of Magistrate J. C. Gillispie, the court unanimously voted to pay the completed portions of the Carlisle and East Union road and the Headquarters and Sailwell road. The court also unanimously voted to patch and repair the Barbourville pike and the Upper Jacks-town pike from the city limits of Carlisle to a point near the residence of John Cronan.

Judge Curry was authorized to accept the lowest bid for a road grader at a road place.

The court also authorized Judge Curry to sign a resolution of sympathy in behalf of Nicholas county on the county infirmary farm.

Slayer Of Dr. Meyers Is Given Death Sentence

A Circuit Judge at Shawneetown, Ill., who indicated he personally did not favor capital punishment, Friday decreed death in the electric chair for Harold H. Clair, 20-year-old former Cole convict for the "motive-less" murder of Dr. Homer L. Meyers, 55, resident Edwards, Ill., dentist and formerly of Sharpsburg, Ky.

After giving Mr. Clair several opportunities to withdraw his plea of guilty and place his fate before a jury, Judge Blaine Huffman commented: "When my personal opinion conflicts with my duty, I must do my duty."

"I ask no mercy," said St. Clair. Judge Huffman then sentenced the young man to death in the chair. St. Clair entered a plea of guilty, authorities charged with a murder committed against his traveling companion, Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, who was aware of the murder and knowledge of the slaying.

The body of Dr. Meyers, two blows wound in the head, was found on his farm near Brackley, Ill., on June 24. Arrested in New Orleans several days later, St. Clair readily admitted slaying Dr. Meyers, the reason will die with me in the electric chair," he said.

Skeletons Of Confederate Soldiers Found By Workmen

While excavating for the construction of the Cairett highway near Mt. Sterling last week, workmen unearthed skeletons of several Confederate soldiers. The men had been buried in a trench, supposedly where they fell from wounds received in battle. Many of the bones were still intact. A number of buttons and insignia were in good condition, and one copper canteen was found which was in perfect condition.

Some of the elder citizens of Mt. Sterling recall the battle between the Confederate and Union soldiers along the western and southern borders of the city. It is said that a number of Union soldiers were buried just across the road from where the skeletons were found.

The graves were not more than three feet deep. All of the bones were put in a wooden box and reburied nearby.
