State Employs 17 Per Cent Less In January

The total number of employees on the state payroll, exclusive of the highway department, was 308 less in January, 1934, than in January, 1933 and the annual payroll was $961,675.66 less according to data compiled by State Inspector and Examiner Noel B. Hewitt.

This is a reduction in the state payroll to all employees of more than 17 per cent as contrasted with the reduction of the federal payroll, which it was pointed out has been 15 per cent.

There were 3,294 employees who received salary checks from the state in January 1934 exclusive of the highway department. In January 1933 there were 3,602 state employees.

The payroll disbursement in January 1932 totalled $461,184.94 which means a payroll for the preceding twelve months of approximately $5,534,039.28.

The payroll disbursement of the state in January 1934 amounted to $379,280.20, which means a payroll for twelve months of $4,552,562.40, a reduction in the annual payroll 60 compared with that of the year of 1931 of $981,476.88.

Monthly payroll of the state highway department in January 1933 totalled $19,219.66 when 1,693 persons were employed exclusive of the laborers engaged in maintenance and reconstruction. It was pointed out that road work is at its lowest ebb in January.

In October 1933, at which time road building is near its peak, the monthly payroll was $235,668.52, which was distributed to 2,108 employees, laborers in maintenance and reconstruction excluded. In October there were 5,883 laborers employed on maintenance and reconstruction, to whom was distributed a payroll for the month of $272,660.68, which for October made a total highway department payroll of $508,346.60 with 7,991 employees at work.

There is included in the total state payroll figure all persons who receive their compensation all or in part from state funds. It embraces all employees of the University of Kentucky and state teachers colleges, that portion of state music teachers who goes to contract farm agents and county health units.

Reno granted only 2,437 divorces in 1933.
