DECORATION DAY

(Frank Chester Chesser)

Above the silent city of the dead
Where lies the heroic dust of those
Our flag of freedom proudly waves—
The red, and white, and blue.

We hear again the muffled drums,
The bugle call so clear,
While softly rests a nation's dead
With those we love so dear.

No strife or bitter pain is there,
Their battle days are o'er,
And now eternal peace prevails
Where war is known no more.

To us who hold the torch of life
They speak from unknown graves
And plead for loyalty and right
Where freedom's flag still waves.

Not greed or selfish pride be ours
When duty gives the call,
But lifting high the flag of truth
And watching, lest it fall.

God grant that we never prove
Unworthy of our post,
But serve with truth and loyalty
The land we love the most!

POPULAR LOCAL COUPLE TO WED

Bob and Betty are sweethearts And all about their wedding We'll tell you in this poem.

They've already picked their hotel, And very wisely chose The Peabody, Memphis's leader, There everybody goes.

C. C. Cole "Co-Ieague Nunn-Bush" shoes
And summer suits of every kind For real quality merchandise Is what we have in mind.

At Carlisle Drug Betty'll buy lipstick And powder for her face, Then she'll visit other counties Than any other place.

For everything in bakery goods, Home Bakery is where to go; Their bread is much superior To other breads you know.

When Bob gets his dairy products From Kentucky river when she attempted to save her younger sister from drowning. The sister, Miss Mae Friend, 14, struggled to safety as her rescuer went down never to come up again. The sisters were members of a picnic party.

SIX DEAD IN WRECK

At least six persons were burned to death and ten or more were injured when an explosion of gasoline in a wrecked freight train and a passenger trap them near Mayfield last Friday night.
