SWEETCLOVER THAT IS REALLY "SWEET"

Strain Under Observation of U. S. Specialists.

Starting in the Rural Sketches department of the Courier-Journal, a study of "sweet" in another connotation of clover specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., are studying a little blooming sweetclover in the United States into existence in economy. It is a biennial, yellow sweetclover blue stock when they are fed sugar, properly cured clover hay.

Two plant engineers of the department, W. J. Morse and C. P. Bennett, seven years ago set forth a strain of sweetclover that differed from the Cuba sweetclover of Cuba. It was an annual. Since then 22 all Kentucky have been obtained from central Europe, Russia and Mongolia. None of them are bitter.

Repeated tests with the new sweetclover have convinced the farmers it is good and producer hence, as the Courier-Journal reports, reports Dr. F. A. Holdsworth, Director of Markets and Plant Industry.

Preliminary work at the Washington experiment station shows that the biennial strain is better adapted to the colonial varieties finished in the Ohio valley than the annual Cuba and Italian varieties will do.

Dr. Morse's new clover is a biennial. Farmers who are producer hence, as the Courier-Journal reports are trying to cover the new sweetclover in the Ohio Valley. They are trying it in Fayette, Fleming, Bourbon, Clark, Montgomery, Franklin, Boone, Grant, Pendleton, Bracken, Owen, Gallatin, Henry, Trimble, Carroll, Oldham, Shelby, Spencer, Anderson, Mercer, Boyle, Jessamine, Woodford, Fayette, Scott, Bourbon, Nicholas, Bath, Fleming, Lewis, Mason, Robertson, Harrison
