Eight New Sheep Prizes At Kentucky State Fair

Robert B. Jewell, manager of the Kentucky State Fair, which this year will be the spotlight for eight nights and seven days from the big Saturday night preview, September 6, through Saturday, September 13, has announced eight new classes for Kentucky ewe and wether sheep lambs, and, while a little late in inaugurating this addition to the Sheep Division, he has wholeheartedly support and assurance from practically every state breeder that in time it will be of national scope.

Added money and ribbons have been hung up for exhibitors of best pens of three Southdowns, Hampshire and crossbred ewes and wethers, best single ewe or wether in the Southdown, Hampshire and cross-bred division and for grand champion ewe and wether. Added up as three prizes for best pens of three in the three classes and best single lambs in the under named accounts for 4-H prizes and the grand champion ships rounds out the eight. All entries are for eligible ewe and wether lambs dropped in 1941. Mr. Jewell explained, asking that the premium catalog now in the hands of the printer will soon be put in the mails for benefit of exhibitors. Full detail's of the competition will be set forth in the book.

"This is strictly a fat lamb competition said Manager Jewell. "And it is by no means the most Kentucky breed classes in the Sheep Department. We are going to have all even bigger and better showings than ever before in the history of the exposition."

We hope the new ewe and wether lambs will enable us to show how important the Kentucky Spring lamb is in the national defense setup. Unless I miss my guess, it's going to be a big part of the combined features of the fortieth annual Fair. Mr. Jewell is now at his desk on this thing, but I am sending his letter to the printer. A stipulated rule in the competition is that the exhibitor of the winning pen makes it obligatory on the part of all exhibitors, at a grand champion sale at public auction on Friday or Saturday night, that the management is looking for a new high in the price of new high in the offering.

PLAYHOUSES

One of my younger friends today reminded me that I should write an essay about playhouses. Frankly, I had supposed that children still played much as they did long ago, but he assures me that his own children, very normal boys, have never heard of such a thing as a playhouse. I am sure that there are still many playhouses that would have passed full inspection in my childhood. Occasionally I find children playing in them, just as their ancestors did.

Of course, there are and have been special houses built for play, but I am not thinking of those, however much fun they may have been. Children of long ago had to use their imagination when they played, for they had few things that even remotely reminded any adult of things about a house. The best playhouse is made in the woods. When woods could be reached by most of us with little effort, that made building of playhouses an easy task. Just find a good tree with a level space beneath it, one that is out of the reach of cattle or other stock. Clean off the leaves with huckleberry bushes or brush and make a clear space, too, if you think, with a broom made of bush whips. From moss beds removed carefully edging sections for beds, adding some extra narrow pieces of bolsters. Similar edging can be used for making chairs and tables. You can dive acorn cups, too, and leaves make bowl ones too. Sometimes there are other things for vegetables and fruit. You can find a good deal in the woods. I have seen plenty of them that were large enough for a real meal.

Besides "playtime," raising a standard list of wild fruits and nuts in woods playhouses is making a good start toward a real meal. Hickory and pignon leaves make the best material for bats. Some of them are in plenty of our woods, and others in the upland woods that, when Hungarian Nev., the Hawaiian Islands and elsewhere, white, another group will soon patrol the new ammunition depot in Martin County, Ind.

Horses are used by the marines for patrol and guard duties at certain locations because of the topography of the land of the wide areas to be covered. As a rule only small troops of these so-called "horse marines" are so employed.

For a long time mounted marines patrolled the environs of Peiping, China, keeping watch over the Americans living in that vicinity. After serving as such for a quarter of a century the troops finally disembarked in 1935, when motorized equipment, the radio and a better system of communication came in vogue.

Nazis Make Advances In Soviet Russia

Conflicting Reports Come From Eastern Front; British Bomb Germany

The Titanic struggle which has been raging upon the 1800 mile eastern front between the armies of Russia and Germany continues along the same general line as a week ago. In front of Leningrad the Red army is in front of Moscow in the center the advance has been pushed somewhat deeper into the Soviet defense lines. But there have appeared as yet few, if any, statements from either army command claiming or admitting that to any considerable degree there has been a backing of the Russian armies. Apparently the Russian front remains intact. The Russian armies have yielded considerable ground but they have continued to put up a stout resistance everywhere. Further reports have claimed, and German complaints have admitted the fact that behind the German advance units, guerilla warfare has been carried on with great effectiveness. The Russian tactics here call for the organization of partially trained workers on the evacuation of a place, and the villian populace either to directly attack parties of the foe or to keep them under observation until better plans can be made, or even tanks may come up to attack.

The Germans have made moderate progress in the center of the front where they have claimed to have occupied Smolensk, some 230 miles on the direct railroad line east to Moscow. There the fighting during the week has been heaviest. The Germans here early claimed forward a great salient into the Russian Stalin line. This salient they have been trying to widen by attacks on the front north of Smolensk. Although denied by the Russians, the city is probably in German hands. But they do not seem to have been able to disorganize the Russian army defending the center. Elsewhere along the front the Russians have been holding here and there, yielding ground retreating locally but not yielding to offer organized resistance. The Russian armies are still continues to put up a fight in spite of the terrific blows the Nazi Germans early claimed to have inflicted upon it.

The German problem is one of disorganizing, destroying or capturing the Russian armies which have opposed them. Unless this can be accomplished at a somewhat faster rate than has been done in the past four weeks the Germans will soon have to be satisfied with far less than the victory which they have needed. The occupation of a vast extent of territory in itself will not have removed the Russian menace from their eastern front.

The Royal Air Force has filled the air over western Germany and occupied France and the low countries with all sorts of planes during the past week, the fifth in succession at attack. Britain has claimed that the bombing of Germany last winter has been avenged by an even greater destruction in the cities of Aachen and Muenster. The British communiques also have claimed success in attacks upon German supply ships which in the past year have carried supplies along the coast of the low countries. Berlin reports have claimed that their air power has been steadily increasing and that recently they had attained parity in the air with the Luftwaffe. If this be so, it should be possible for them to maintain in the months to come this superiority in the air because of the losses which the Germans have undoubtedly suffered in the Russian campaign.

Urge Citizens To Attend Town Council

Council To Consider Survey Needed To Get WPA Project Approval

At a meeting of the business men of Carlisle Monday night, it was unanimously agreed that the Business Men's club endorse the movement now under way for a sewage disposal project in the city and all citizens be asked to attend the meeting of the city council which will be held August 4.

The city council is expected to discuss at the August meeting the contract presented to the city for a preliminary survey of the sewer project, by which the WPA will lend a working plan for putting the project through.

The contract appears on the editorial page of this paper. Read the editorial, "Carlisle's Bottle Neck."

It was pointed out at the meeting of the Business Men's club that the survey would not be a Tuesday night's business, for which the sewers could be built, but that the engineer offers for $350 to submit estimates necessary to satisfy WPA officials before the project can be approved.

If the estimate of cost was going to be too great the city would not be obliged to continue the project. If, however, the city wished to continue the $350 would be applied to the cost of the necessary blue prints to build the project.

The statement released by the business men of Carlisle read, "The Business Men's club goes on record endorsing the movement for a sewage disposal project, and urges all citizens to attend the meeting at the city hall on August 4."

In urging citizens to attend the next council meeting, August 4, it was pointed out that expression of public opinion was necessary to carry the project forward. Mass attendance of the next council meeting would be ample proof the public sentiment.

Members of the club expressed the belief that the project should be built at all cost. With the city indebtedness practically wiped out and WPA assistance available, the city has the best chance in 20 years for obtaining a project at a cost within reason to the city.

The city council will meet the first Monday in August, which will be August 4, at the city hall on Chestnut street.

Farm Electric Tour Planned For August

Something new and unique for Nicholas County will be the Farm Electric Show. This event scheduled by the Fleming-Mason and Harrison County Co-ops with the cooperation of the local County Agent will be held on the farm of Ermine Ritchie on U. S. 68 between the Junction of 36 and 32.

Not much detail has been worked out yet but it is understood that this will be a very large show of most all electrical appliances that farmers are accustomed to use.

Furthermore this show is not for local folks alone but is expected to draw from a large area of this part of the state. The tentative dates are Thursday and Friday, August 28th and 29th.

Fire Causes Slight Damage At Vaughn Home

Fire, started by a coal-oil stove that blazed too high, was quickly extinguished Monday morning at the home of Mrs. Mary Vaughn on Walnut street.

Mrs. Vaughn who was sick in bed at the time of the blaze, was carried from the house. The blaze itself was put out before it could cause damage. Smoke from the stove, however, damaged the property slightly.
