FARMERS URGED TO RAISE MORE POULTRY

Farmers of Nicholas county can make a definite contribution toward increasing the nation's supply of meat by raising chickens for meat during the coming weeks, according to H. L. Herndon, chairman of the Nicholas county AAA committee.

Pointing out that civilian consumption of red meat during 1945 is expected to be no more than 120 pounds per person, compared with about 147 pounds last year, Mr. Herndon declared that one of the "quickest ways to increase the total meat supply is to increase the number of chickens raised and marketed for meat."

Civilian consumption of chicken in 1944, he said, was 24 pounds per person, but present prospects for this year are only about 20 pounds per person. One of the principal reasons for this is that military purchases now are taking proportionally all the broilers produced in the four major producing areas and all the cooked chicken. Military requirements for chicken are estimated at 670,000,000 pounds, he said.

"To encourage production of more chickens for meat, national egg prices on broiler chickens and roasters will be advanced on July 1. For producers in this county, this means an increase of one cent per pound in the ceiling price," he said.

"Farmers who get their chicks ordered now, can be ready to take advantage of the usual fall supply of broilers. Broiler prices usually appears to be an adequate supply of broiler houses, feed, and other equipment, and farmers who want to increase substantially their production of broilers should place their orders during the coming weeks."

Mr. Herndon also pointed out that Lt. Col. Merdorf, Commanding Officer, Fourth Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, Calif., has requested that Nicholas county receive a period of leave.

INTERESTING LETTER

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Watson from their son, Pvt. James Watson, with Birr. C. 231st Armed FA Bn., somewhere in Germany.

Dear Mom and Dad:

Just a few lines tonight to let you know that I am still alright, and think of you all back home.

Mom, do you remember me telling you in one of my letters about two wounded men? Well... I will try to tell you what happened that day. We were up on an attack. I was driving this officer, Lt. McCracken, we had our jeep and decided to observe from the top of a little hill.

We set up the radio and I saw one of the Infantry boys fall and call for help. I ran down to see if I could help him. I saw he had one leg shot off at the knee. I called for someone to drive my jeep down. This officer drove it down to where the boy was. As he jumped out of the jeep either the shock or he stepped on a mine, as I went sailing against a bank. I lost my left leg below the hip. He had one foot off.

It really scared me, but I managed to get a belt around his leg and get him on the jeep. Then I called for help and got another boy to help me get the other fellow on the jeep with him. From start of all I saw I heard on the floor board. Mom I am sending you a little souvenir of the battle. I hope and pray the war will soon be over, but until everyone can relax I guess I will have to stay. May we meet again when we are again home with our loved ones. Regards, Lt. Mac

MUSSOLINI KILLED; BODY IS MUTILATED

Bodies of Il Duce, Mistress, 16 Others Displayed In Home Town.

Benito Mussolini is dead. The 61-year-old former Italian dictator was captured and executed by Italian partisans along with his mistress, Clara Petacchi, and 16 other gangsters last Saturday in the suburbs of Como village near the shore of Lake Como in Northern Italy, where he had made efforts to gain passage across the Swiss frontier.

Following his capture and execution, the bodies of all the eighteen who faced the firing squad were hauled by truck to Milan square and placed on display before jeering crowds who pressed guards to get a view of the bodies and display a portion of their hate by spitting on the body of Mussolini, kicking the head and wrinkled caricature of the one-time iron-handed dictator of Italy, who in 23 flamboyant years helped to plunge the world into its bloodiest and most destructive wars.

Mussolini was the son of a poor blacksmith, now service in the first World War; defied the League of Nations; shouted the Italian war cry of "Blood and Iron" and boasted of the "Fascist" and most of his people liked it. His blackshirts took care of those who didn't, through an almost perfect system of espionage.

He defied the world, and conquered Ethiopia, proclaimed the new Roman Empire of which he had spoken for so many years, tendered the Ethiopian crown to Italy's King and spoke with scorn of Great Britian and 51 other nations which opposed the Ethiopian Socialists after the first World War.

He divorced himself from the compact with economic sanctions. War, and Fascism was born—his Fascism, in which he adjured his countrymen that "It is better to live a day as a lion than a hundred years as a sheep."

He backed Hitler's claims to the Sudetenland, Austrian and Czechoslovakia. Hitler then gobbled up all of Bohemia and Moravia and established a protectorate over Slovakia.

To save face at home, Mussolini took ever Albania for Italy in a surprise armed invasion, and in Dece and Dr. Pavlicer considered themselves a great power. Then over the Alps United in May, 1940, in military and political treaty.

DOCK - DOC - DOCTOR

The first listed above has numerous definitions such as long root or coarse weeds—bur-dock, yellow dock, or narrow dock: the place where a prisoner stays in court; an artificial basin or water-way for ships; and the stump of an animal's tail. The word is usually a little designating a pharmacist several behind a drug counter. The third applies, of course, to all medical and surgical physicians and also to degrees in colleges and universities, such as Doctor of Philosophy, Doctor of Doc, etc. There are also species of insects commonly known as "snake-doctors."

PLEASANT MOMENTS

In spite of all the disappointments, heartaches, misfortune, and sorrows everywhere, it is at least a pleasant moment at least once during a day or week to feel the pleasant comfort of retiring after a hard day's labor. Rather, doubtless, feel happier and fresh upon arising. While some have their most pleasant moments fishing, enjoying an outing, or entertaining guests. There is also another pleasant moment one may enjoy and that is after having attended church services at his favorite church or a good sermon, enjoyed the music, and feel that you have had a part in a service that is uplifting and worthwhile.

SYNONYMS

A synonym is one of several words expressing essentially the same idea, or, especially, in connotation. Here are a few commonly observed: "Keep out", "Posted", "No trespassing", "Private", "No admittance", "No fishing," "No hunting", "Private drive," "Keep off the grass", Etc.

NUMEROUS PENNIES

Anyone who handles very much small change will observe that in recent months there seems to be an excessive quantity of pennies in circulation. Passengers will offer pennies to a bus driver, pay for their daily papers, and when purchasing other smaller items. Recently The Mercury office received 50 pennies as part of the payment of a year's subscription. In former years pennies were used primarily to purchase postage stamps, or postal cards, and given to the farm girls looking forward to a Sunday School.

PROPOSES F. D. R. MEMORIAL

Maynard R. Ashworth, publisher of the Ledger-Enquirer at Columbus, Ga., has proposed the establishment of an Infantile Paralysis hospital at Warm Springs as a memorial to Franklin D. Roosevelt and announced the contribution of $10,000 to launch the project.

The publisher said he hoped "the biggest Polio hospital in the world" could be erected at the late president's "second home" where he died April 12.

"We hope that our idea will be acceptable to the committee recently named by Mrs. Roosevelt to decide what form the memorial will assume," he added.

"Obviously," he commented, since Mr. Roosevelt himself was a victim of Polio and devoted much of his life to further research to isolate the germ or fungus that causes it, a hospital would be the proper and fitting memorial.

"It is equally obvious, since he found relief from Polio at Warm Springs, that the Memorial hospital should be located there, where the subject of the Memorial found relief."
