KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

Up to now poverty and politics have been the major ills of most of Kentucky's public schools.

Poverty come first.

All over the state teachers were woefully underpaid and the standard of service was getting lower and lower, until about one-fourth of the teachers had to be given emergency certification.

And buildings were becoming a disgrace to the state.

Blame the tax limit this year is a long step toward relieving crowded schools of poverty, and some city schools have increased their funds.

But poor politics is still with us.

Persons get on boards because they have friends or relatives (?) whom they want to give jobs.

Superintendents play politics in board elections to perpetuate themselves in office, and often there is little resistance.

All a superintendent has to do is to work for the election of a majority of the board in order to make himself secure. And usually public apathy makes victory for the school politician's machine a pushover.

All this is not so much the fault of the school politician as the indifference of the public. In some instances superintendents carry politics into the business affairs of the schools they serve. Board members do business with the school which is a violation of the law.

"No member of a board of education in Kentucky, trustees, shall be or become, directly or indirectly, interested in any contract, agreement or trade, touching building of school houses, retaining of school property, selection of textbooks or otherwise, or use his official position to secure the patronage of the teachers or employees of the schools."

"Or, other thing" covers all the unsuspected business advantages school board members may profit by.

School politics is No. 2 on the list of evils that must be fought if Kentucky schools are to achieve the aims public spirited people are hoping to achieve.

And of course the task is for individual communities.

More stringent laws are not necessary.

The Committee for Kentucky can only contribute encouragement.

The people of each community must elect the best men and women available to boards of education.

And, which is most important, able and patriotic persons must sacrifice some of their time to the all but thankless job of serving on school boards.

The next election? Of course it is a long way off. But it is not too soon for people to make up their minds to fight to rid the schools of petty politics.

The best school men and women don't stay petty politics long. They don't have to.

But, in spite of poverty and politics in our schools, substantial progress is being made in Education. Yes, Education is on the March in Kentucky!

Veterans Fail To File Reports

Harry W. Farmer, manager of the regional Veterans Administration office here, reports that 2,900 Kentucky war veterans in training under the GI Bill of Rights failed to report their earnings from Aug. 8 through Oct. 31 as required by the VA.

Disabled veterans taking training are not required to submit earnings reports, Farmer said. In all, about 27,000 Kentucky veterans now are in training under the GI bill.

Farmer said veterans who have not submitted their earnings reports should mail them to the VA regional office at Louisville, unless they are on a farm and if the regular VA form is not available. Subsistence allowance are limited to $175 monthly for veterans without dependents and $200 monthly for veterans with dependents.

East Union Homemakers Meet

The East Union Homemakers club met at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Stephenson on Dec. 6th, for an all day meeting. One visitor and thirteen members were present, and one new member, Mrs. Albert Brooks, was added. Mrs. Elbridge Miller had her name withdrawn.

The vice president, Mrs. John Barrett, presided at the business meeting, and conducted the devotional. Mrs. Miller entertained the members with a poem, "Before the Toy Window." Miss Rowe gave the lesson on wiring the home, and asked that everyone save tinfoil for the crippled children. Mrs. Robert Boyd was appointed citizenship chairman.

In the afternoon a Christmas tree was enjoyed and gifts exchanged, and Christmas presents were wrapped for the school tree.

Wider Markets Being Sought By Burley Group

Plans For New Market Are Described

Lexington, Ky.—The Burley Auction Warehouse Association has launched an intensive program to find a vast export market for the state's chief revenue-producing crop.

Initial step in the plan to stimulate the sale of burley in foreign countries was taken Saturday by the association when it filed a brief, "Burley Leaf Tobacco Experts," with the Committee for Reciprocity Information at Washington.

William C. Clay, Mount Sterling, association counsel, called the filing of the data, which is kicked off in an unrelenting drive to find new markets for everproduced burley.

He said the plea was the most significant action affecting the burley industry in years. The program is based on a new demand for the burley crop, produced principally in Kentucky, Clay said.

He added all Kentucky businessmen, farm organizations, and interested persons would be asked to support the association's drive.

The brief stated the "potential world demand for burley is almost insatiable." It added that a world market for burley could be developed easily. The brief was filed with the committee in compliance with its request for written information and views about projected trade-agreement negotiations with foreign countries.

The Department of State on November 9 issued formal notice of intention to conduct such negotiations with Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, France, India, Lebanon (Syria-Lebanese Customs Union), Luxembourg, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Union of South Africa, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and the United Kingdom. The negotiations are expected to begin in April.

The brief stated, "Exploitation of the market will benefit importing countries. Burley is a virtually noncompetitive tobacco type, and foreign countries, like our own, find tobacco products to be a lucrative source of internal revenue.

"Concessions on burley should, therefore, be relatively easily obtained and would be of inestimable benefit to domestic producers and to the Government of the United States itself."

In burley production, soil and climate are the chief determining and limiting factors, and only in Kentucky, Tennessee, and a few adjoining states has nature created the right combination of essential ingredients for the growth of a true burley of superior quality," the brief stated.

"Generally, bananas and beef are and deemed to be competitive products, and there is almost as much difference between burley and other types of tobacco as one can discover between fruits and meats.

"Nevertheless, importing countries have treated burley as being in the same class with other tobaccos. Actually, burley is a noncompetitive type and for that reason entitled to a preference."

The brief described the 1946 burley crop, which may exceed 612,000,000 pounds, as "monstrous." The "frightening significance of this is apparent when the crop 'poundage' is added to stocks already on hand," the brief continued. On October 1, the brief said, stocks already on hand were estimated at 860,000,000 pounds.

These gigantic stocks of burley "cannot possibly be consumed in the United States," the association said. "For the year beginning October 1, 1946, the domestic use of burley will be only about 445,000,000 pounds. Stocks then are 330 per cent of annual domestic disappearance. Never before has the industry been threatened with such an appalling surplus.

"Domestically we need not, and should not, carry stocks in excess of 250 per cent of domestic disappearance. In the United States therefore, we require about 1,122,500,000 pounds of burley. We have 1,472,500,000 pounds. That leaves us 249,500,000 pounds available for export, and yet in 1945 we exported only 12,326,000 pounds of burley tobacco, and our

Large Collection Of Toys Reported

A favorable response greeted the efforts of the Carlisle Boy Scouts during the past week in their campaign to collect the city's used and discarded toys for distribution to underprivileged children. A wide variety of playthings, books, puzzles and other items of entertainment value to children were picked up in the house-to-house canvass, and the Scouts and their leaders were highly commended by the public for a praiseworthy project which will undoubtedly make Christmas a little jollier for numerous tots whom Santa might otherwise have missed.

Children Guests Of Rotary Club

Twenty-three Nicholas county children were guests last Thursday noon at a Christmas dinner held here under the auspices of the Carlisle Rotary Club. Christmas carols were sung under the direction of Prof. R. E. Davis, with Miss Virginia Lee Cowan as accompanist. Charles M. Wheat Farmers Reminded To File Reports

Nicholas county's 51 wheat farmers who have Federal all-risk insurance on their 1947 crops are reminded by H. S. Vice, Chairman of the County Agricultural Conservation Committee, to file written reports of the number of acres they have seeded to wheat.

The report forms now are available in the county office, Mr. Vice said, and each insured grower should make his acreage report as soon as possible. This needed-acreage information is necessary to determine the amount of insurance and premium each of the contracts, he pointed out.

In 1946, 51 farmers in this county insured their crop investments with Federal crop insurance. Of this number, 3 farmers received payment for a total of 145 bushels of wheat because their crops were destroyed.

The following deed was filed in the office of County Clerk John F. Sugg this week: Leroy Wagoner and wife to Mrs. Ida Phillips, 12 acres on Johnson dirt road.

Telephone Rates To Be Increased Jan. 11

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 20.—Increased telephone rates for about 150 Kentucky cities served by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company will become temporarily effective Jan. 11, it was announced this week.

The Public Service Commission set Jan. 21 for formal discussion on whether the new rate schedule asked for by the company last Oct. 1, should be suspended. If the new rates are suspended, the company must post bond to insure refunds to customers should the commission rule eventually that the new schedule yields excessive revenues.

The new rates will boost monthly bills for one-party resident phones 25 cents, except in Louisville, and on business phones from 75 cents to $1.50, except in Louisville where the raise will be $2. Also effective will be a five-cent increase on toll-message rates.

A hearing on Southern Bell's rate increase petition began last month and has been continued to Jan. 14.

Kentucky law permits a utility to file a new rate schedule which can become effective any time 30 days after the filing date.

The commission waived formal filing of a new schedule by the company because increases to become effective are the same as the ones requested in the original petition.

Southern Bell has filed for rate increases in Georgia and South Carolina. F. J. Turner, commander vice president, said it will seek rises in Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana. It was granted 95 per cent of its requested increase by the North Carolina Public Service Commission.

The increase on resident phones will be 25 cents monthly, except in Louisville where the jump will be from $3.75 to $4.25.

Coatney Red Cross Chairman

Frank J. Hardesty, chairman of the Nicholas county Red Cross chapter, announced Robert Coatney had been named chairman of the annual drive for the Red Cross. Assisting him will be Charles A. Roe, Paul Garrett, Billy Frey, Charles M. Cox, Earl Vanflower and Mike Cole. Working committees will be announced soon.

Union Prayer Service Wednesday

A union prayer service will be held at 7 o'clock Wednesday night, January 1, at the Carlisle Baptist church, in which ministers of all Carlisle churches will participate. The Rev. M. P. McClure, superintendent of the Carlisle district of the Methodist church, will be the principal speaker.

Farm Sold At Auction

William Ray Brunker purchased at public auction Saturday at the courthouse the 201-acre farm of the late J. L. Sosby, located in Nicholas county, for $29.50 per acre. The improvements consisted of a six-room house and five-acre tobacco barn. John L. Cummins of Cynthiana, was the auctioneer.

Fourth Victim Of Cynthiana Mishap Dies

Raymond J. Moore Succumbs Thursday

Raising to four the number of persons who lost their lives as the result of an automobile plunge into the Licking river at Cynthiana last Wednesday, Raymond J. Moore, 24, of Nicholas county, died at 8 o'clock Thursday night, after suffering some injury with a punctured lung and other injuries sustained in the crash.

Moore, who was brother Clarence, had extricated himself from the overturned car and was at first thought to be but slightly injured. Discovery of the punctured lung was made after examination at the Cynthiana hospital.

Clarence Moore, 23, also a passenger in the car, was released during the hospital after being examined, and was reported in good condition.

Arthur Craig, 37, the only other survivor of the mishap, was admitted to the Johnson Memorial hospital here this week suffering with pneumonia. His condition was reported as somewhat improved. Craig had been released from the Cynthiana hospital after preliminary examination Wednesday afternoon.

Three persons were drowned when the car crashed through a barrier on the road leading to the old covered bridge, which has been condemned and was being torn down by a wrecking firm. The vehicle dropped some 50 feet into the icy waters of the South Licking river.

The three victims were identified as Daisy Mitchell, 17, of Millersburg, formerly of Carlisle; Mildred Young, 16, of Cynthiana, and Jesse Myers Darnell, 34, of Nicholas county. The Moore brothers and Craig escaped through windows of the car which landed in the water upside down and was almost completely submerged.

Raymond J. Moore's body was brought to the Mathers-Potts-Shearer funeral home where funeral services were held Saturday afternoon.

Moore, a veteran of World War II in which he spent 39 months overseas with the Army, is survived by his parents, John and Eneta Sparks Moore of the Headquarters road; his brother, Clarence Moore; three sisters, Misses Ruth, Mary and Dorothy Moore, all at home, and his maternal grandfather, Leo Sparks of Nicholas county.

Darnell is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Darnell of Maysville; his wife, Mrs. Polly Sadie Darnell; an 18-months-old daughter, Linda Morris Darnell; two children by a former marriage, John Carter, 12, and James Garnett Darnell, 9; two sisters, Mrs. Opal Wagoner of Mason county and Mrs. Sallie Catherine Honaker of Cincinnati, and a stepbrother, William Darnell of Maysville.

His body was brought to the Mathers-Potts-Shearer funeral home here where services were held at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, conducted by the Rev. E. H. Barnette, pastor of the Carlisle Christian church. Burial was in the Carlisle cemetery.

The body of the Mitchell girl was taken to the M. E. Pruitt and Son funeral home of Millersburg where services were conducted at 10:30 o'clock Friday. The Rev. Robert M. Green, pastor of the Millersburg Methodist church officiated and interment was in the Millersburg cemetery. Pallbearers were Jimmy Jackie and Wilford Crump, Clyde Mitchell, Charles Williams and Tommy Williams.
