co has fully matured. Most farmers cut tobacco too early and reduce the yield and quality of their crops.

The tobacco field agent also stated that all farmers situated to use artificial heat in curing tobacco should have coke and stoves on hand to be used in case the weather is unfavorable for curing tobacco.

He said that house burn not only reddened and darkens the color of the crop but reduces the weight one-fourth to one-third.

News and Views
from Carlisle Mill & Supply Co.

We are against the kind of low prices that always begin with the farmers and wind up with the farmers. We hear over the radio, and read in the newspapers that prices will soon drop, due to the big crops of farm products. These crops were produced under inflationary conditions and are due to be sold in accordance with prices the farmer had to pay, and is still paying, the big manufacturers, processors and labor unions, for everything he buys.

There is a big demand for galvanizing roofing and we wish we had a carload of that good Wheeling Channel drum for our customers, but its still one of those items we get in we only get our quarterly quotas, at continued higher prices. However, we have some No. 1 Red Cedar Shingles and the best grades of Asphalt Shingles and felt roofing at reasonable prices.

There is now about 16 feed stores in Carlisle—and, of course, they all sell some feed —but we cannot see one bit of difference in our sales of Tuxedo Feeds, which goes to prove that hundreds of farmers know the feeding value of Tuxedo. Every bag of Tuxedo is made to produce the maximum results and they know it pays to feed it.

We will be glad to book your order for some of that good American Big Crop Fertilizer. The situation will remain about the same as last spring year and by booking early you will be assured of your spring supply, but we will have to ask you to take some winter deliveries. This will be necessary to get our full quota.

Dry grass is a poor ration for milk cows. Boost your milk production now, and build up your cows for winter, by feeding Tuxedo Dairy feed. Insufficient feed now will retard production when winter comes. There is no better Dairy Feed than Tuxedo. It's made to make more and better milk—and—it does it.

Encourage your pullets toward early production by feeding Tuxedo Egg Mash. All poultry are predicting a better price for eggs this fall and winter and, since Tuxedo laying feed prices, proper feeding should prove profitable. Many Tuxedo feeders have reported 63 to 96 percent production.

All Kinds of Field Seeds are scarce and high drought in some sections, too much rain in others, has reduced the harvest of all seeds and some are higher than ever known before. We will still sell what we have at reasonable as possible.

Finished Second Year In Organized Baseball

Hisel (Pat) Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hisel Patrick, of Carlisle, finished his second year in organized baseball Sunday, July 25, by defeating the Mattoon, Ill., Indians nine to four and clinching the Illinois State league pennant for his team, the West Frankfort, Ill. Cardinals.

Patrick, a 20-year-old right-hander, finished the season with 15 wins, one of which was a no-hit, no-run game, and clinching the pennant follows.

A part of the story which appeared in the Daily American, giving Patrick credit for clinching the pennant follows:

"The distinction of rolling back the Indians and a decisive er that clinched the gonfalon for the Cards went to Pat (cousin) Patrick, the angular Kentuckian who registered his fourteenth win against five losses.

The health lass of the season, Patrick wasn't pressed in taking the second game and joined his hopeful up teammates in a four-run, four-hit orgy to the second that with a little more cautious pitching would have been enough for the win right there. The four tallies cascaded across the plate on singles by McGovern, Porreca, Tom O'Connor, and Hawks, a fly ball by George Wilson and walks to Weaver and Hisel."

Patrick, who has finished the season, is reported to arrive in Carlisle Friday, August 27.

STATE ACCIDENT REPORT

Frankfort, Ky., August 23—July's highway accident report lists 33 killed and 255 injured in a total of 402 reported accidents, T. B. Smith, Director of the Kentucky State Police, Kentucky Department of Highways said today. The record for the same period in 1947 reported 39 deaths and 152 injured and 420 accidents. Property damage reported for July, 1948, totaled $192,517.

"Improved methods of reporting devised during the past month may account for an increase in the figures reported by Smith said. Each accident is being studied relative to cause, location, condition of the highway and other important factors. Reports are made designed to bring about a possible correction of the condition or factors which may have caused the accident."

Education Department Approves New NCH School Building

The completed plans and specifications for the new Nicholas County High school to be erected on the property recently purchased from W. E. Piper were given approval last week by the State Department of Education in Frankfort, Ky.

The plans, which were based upon an educational plan for Nicholas County as submitted by the board, were prepared by Stuart Merriweather and Associates of Lexington.

The proposed building is of brick and tile construction with an adequate number of class rooms which are designed for the purpose for which they are to be used. The building will have a combined gymnasium and auditorium which will seat its anticipated needs.

The cafeteria will be located in the basement of the building. The building is planned, and play productions, a field in which she has won state recognition.

No band instructor has been hired, but efforts will continue to be made to secure one if at all possible.

The school building has been thoroughly cleaned and the floors and seats varnished, class rooms painted in pastel shades, and new equipment installed.

Fluorescent lighting is being installed in the home economics department.

The laboratory has been improved, a larger sink is being installed, seats to be installed along with the laboratory tables and new laboratory equipment has been installed.

Home Ec. Teacher For NCHS Selected

The Nicholas County Board of Education recently elected Miss Ella Jane Greenfield of Benton, Ky., to fill the position of home economics teacher in the Nicholas County High School.

Miss Ella Jane is a graduate of the Bloomfield High School and completed her training for the position she is to fill at the University of Kentucky.

Since her graduation in June, Miss Greenfield has been employed in the campus book store at the University of Kentucky.

Miss Crume comes to Nicholas county very highly recommended by both the University of Kentucky and by outstanding citizens of her home community. She will assume her duties on September 1.

Applications for the replacement of the state home economics department have been executed and the most modern stoves will be installed in the new school. The local department has a contract for stoves whereby the most modern equipment is used in the home economics department at all times.

Nicholas County High School is included in Home Economics. An effort will be made to give the girls practical home economics training in home making. The course will be given in very successful year for the girls in home economics.

Health Examination Is Necessary For First Graders

According to the Code for Health and Physical Education which has been passed by the Kentucky General Assembly and which will be in effect at the beginning of the school session 1948, all children who enter school for the first time must have a Medical Examination and that record must be filed in the school office and be cumulative during the attendance of the pupil.

The medical examination must be repeated at least every four years while the child is enrolled in school.

The same law also applies to all school employees such as teachers, janitors, drivers and school lunch room employees.

In order to facilitate matters the local and county school authorities have placed the record cards which the medical examination is to be recorded in duplicate so that the parents may go there to secure the record for presenting the information of their child.

Seven Miles Down And Still No Bottom

Mason county has served notice that it considers that it had better be looking to its laurels as evidence of a potential subterranean rival is coming in depth to those of the famous cave that has been discovered on the Frazee Weaver farm near Minerva.

The discovery came about last Thursday when Leslie Fennell, Ft. Worth, Texas oil man, and Fennell, using a gate hinge drilling that had been made for oil on the farm several years ago.

Curious to learn whether the drilled had gone to a depth of 1,500 feet as they had claimed, Mr. Fennell, using a gate hinge attached to twine, began a personal investigation. After the hinge had been submerged a distance of 1,500 feet, he encountered no "soundings". His supply of twine exhausted, Mr. Fennell sent to Minerva for more string. When the second supply ran out, he added still more twine and continued his research until darkness overtook him.

Abandoning his task because of approaching dusk, Mr. Fennell found the measurements of the string revealed that the hinge had reached the depth of 39,000 feet, more than seven miles, without striking bottom. It is not known whether Mr. Fennel plans to continue the search for the bottom of the cavern—Public Ledger, Maysville.

Engineer's Report On Water-Works Made In 1904 By Henry Steuben

The following report was made by Engineer Henry Steuben to the Carlisle City Council in 1904, when the question of installing a system of water works was under discussion. Mr. Steuben's report in full follows:

Engineer's Report
Carlisle, Ky., July 1, 1904

To the Honorable Council,
City of Carlisle, Ky.

Gentlemen:—As it seems to be well understood by you that the Water Works system in this city is the only system that can be considered from an economical standpoint, I deem it unnecessary to discuss any of the other ways of constructing water works for this city.

The surface drainage requires a reservoir to collect the annual rainfall, which falls on a certain area of land, from which it is pumped into the city and houses or a standpipe or both.

There are four important points that ought to be considered in the selection of a site for the reservoir.

1st—The drainage should be sufficient.

2nd—It should be proof against any possible contamination.

3rd—It should be as cheap as possible.

4th—It should be deep and cover as little area as possible.

The McMillan property fulfills the requirements of the reservoir of 10 feet.

The Lowrie property has the same advantages.

The Wise property, though close, is subject to contamination.

Besides all three are objections at an account of cost.

We leave the consideration as the most available one—the McMillan location (farm of George Fishback).

The drainage basin covers a not less than 200 acres of grass land. It drains quick and thereby collects the water from the rainfall than a flat drainage. There is no possibility of ever getting to be contaminated. A reservoir of 10 feet deep would be at the other locations but of greater depth. The water therefore, will get less stagnant, evaporate less and be cooler. A dam there will be shorter and therefore less expensive. It is close to the city and the pipe line therefore less costly in construction as well as expense, and also giving less friction in the pipes and easier service and lower lift of the water.

Of the three judges one listed the teams in the order of their merit, another gave the nod to Fayette county with Estill second and Clark, Estill, and Fayette in that order. Five points were awarded for a first-place vote, three for second and one for third.

Trophies were presented by Thomas L. Adams, chairman of the Kentucky Pyess Association's Cripple Children's Fund.

Counties represented in the square dance contest other than those winning trophies were Bath, Bourbon, Montgomery, Nicholas and Rowan. Each team performed approximately 15 minutes in the colorful, interesting and sometimes comical show.

Judges were Frank Smith of the International Authority on folk dancing, Miss Georgia Hartmann of the Lexington recreation department, and Radio Barn Dance Band Leader Tom Nolan.

Soil Preservation Is Keynote Of Meet

Preservation of Kentucky's soil resources will be the keynote of a one-day soil conservation demonstration to be held in the farm of Colon T. Brown near Flemingsburg, September 24, according to Allen Rose, Chairman of the Nicholas County Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors.

This is to be one of 12 similar demonstrations held in the state during the October period, beginning in Boone county September 22. Farm equipment used in the demonstration will be carried from farm to farm in twelve-truck Conservation Caravan.

Local demonstration is being sponsored by the State Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors, assisted by the State Division of Soil and Water Resources, the Soil Conservation Service, and other Federal and State agencies working with the districts.

"There is a widespread need for a better understanding of soil conservation in Kentucky," Mr. Rose says. "There is still much land in the state being destroyed by erosion. We hope the Caravan will speed up soil conservation in Kentucky by getting more people interested in this vital matter."

In the main, the practices which will be established on the farm of Brown farm are the practices employed to control erosion on farms in the Nicholas county district. These include terracing, contour cultivation, pasture improvement, wildlife border, development of farm pond and construction of concrete trough; establishing permanent pasture, pasture improvement, fertilizing and liming.

Equipment to be used in establishing these practices include wheel-tractors, two two-row lister-tractors, and two motor-graders. These will be supplemented by additional equipment provided by local dealers.

All the agricultural agencies in Nicholas county are participating in the field day to make it an outstanding demonstration of a complete farm conservation program based on sound land use.
