Vandals Riddle Road Markers

Amateur marksmen are "shooting up" Kentucky's highway signs, a state official says. Damage to signs at a rate of 12,000 a year, causing the state an extra expense of at least $20,000 annually, H. H. Palmer, highway department director of maintenance at Frankfort, said today.

Palmer said 100,000 of the metal signs line the state's highways. "Fourteen manufacturers make the signs which have been riddled by bullets," he added. "Hundreds are mutilated with rocks and through other forms of vandalism and many simply disappear."

The signs, made by prison labor at the Kentucky State Reformatory, cost an average of $2.25 each. The more expensive are the reflector signs which, Palmer said, are particularly tempting to marksmen.

"In addition to the actual cost of the signs there is the added expense of hauling and erecting new ones", Palmer added. "The Highway Department is appealing to everyone concerned to report any case of this type of vandalism in order that drastic action may be taken against them. We also are asking the cooperation of local law enforcement officials"

All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them.—Matthew 7:12

Committee Estimates County's Home Gardens Worth $300,000

Home gardens in Nicholas county are estimated to total about 1,000 acres with an average use of $200 or a total of more than $300,000. The high value of home gardens was pointed out a dollar and cents standpoint but also from the standpoint of better nutrition and health were considered of high importance by the Nicholas County Better Gardens Committee meeting at the County Extension office. Mrs. W. L. Marr of the Paras Homemakers Club has accepted chairmanship of this committee.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Victor Day, Mrs. J. H. Hardwick, Miss Claudia Clary, Mrs. S. T. Terrell, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Hanson Judge, and Mrs. Guy Neal.

To bring about higher quality and more productive gardens for Nicholas county the garden committee makes the following recommendations:

1. Use water cover crop or a good application of barnyard manure. For each one-fourth acre in garden, apply 100 pounds of 20 percent phosphate and from 100 to 200 pounds of a good complete fertilizer. The fertilizer should be plowed under; the phosphate may be applied on top.

2. Grow disease resistant and varieties of high vigor and quality including yellows resistant cabbage, will resistant tomatoes of the following varieties: Breakso-day (early), Prichard (medium early), Marglobe (late), Rutgers (late); Golden Cross Bantam sweet corn (not hybrid), Blue Lagoon beans, a new variety of dwarf snap beans is recommended as being more productive and of higher quality than common varieties grown locally. For early potatoes, Irish cobbler is recommended but regardless of the variety certified seed is all important.

3. Control insects and diseases by spraying or dusting. Rotenone is recommended as all purpose insecticide which is nonpoisonous to humans and is very effective against most common garden insects including the Mexican Bean Beetle. For control of tomato (late) blight the following mixtures are recommended: Bordeaux or Dithane or Bordeaux mixture. The latter two are highly preferable to Bordeaux mixture.

4. Grow strawberries for home use. Recommended varieties: Beauty, a new variety of highly productive quality, for the Nicholas county climate, is recommended, or Blakemore, a satisfactory variety. A cooperative order of strawberry plants will be arranged for individuals who want to secure plants of the Tennessee Beauty variety may do so by notifying the member of the garden committee or by contacting the county agent's office.

5. Each gardener is requested to grow at least one new vegetable this year. If you haven't tried broccoli, this vegetable is recommended.

6. Gardeners are urged to plant garden crops on a succession basis, that is, make several plantings during the season of such crops as beans, corn and tomatoes. This will provide higher quality vegetables of the main crops throughout the summer months and during the fall.

As a means of stimulating more interest in better gardens so that better diets and better health will be insured, the homemakers clubs are having as the subject for the January meetings: Better Gardens.

During late June a garden field meeting will be held at eight community points in the county with Miss Ruth S. Gardener, field agent in horticulture of the Experiment Station, assisting. The purpose will be to determine special garden problems that exist during the growing season. Nicholas county gardeners the latest recommendations on the control of insects and diseases.

In May or June a county wide meeting will be held dealing with canning, freezing and storing of vegetables.

In November a meat cutting and curing demonstration will be held with Grady Sellards, field agent in animal husbandry, assisting.
