WANTED—Married man preferred, to work on service floor and in our lubrication department. Harper's Garage. 1-29-1t-c

In Memory of

Mrs. Elma Mullikin Standiford

Today, stunned as we are, in the wake of Death, as we search for words expressive of the grief we feel, in the loss of this loved one, gone from amongst us forever; we for words adequate to pay tribute to her blessed memory, there come to us, in the hour of grief, the Beautiful thoughts and words of the Poet Longfellow as expressed in his brief but immortal poem, "Crossing The Bar."

And, I read, with the Poet, these lines:

"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And, may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea,
But such a tide, as moving, seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that, which drew from out the boundless deep,
Turns again Home.

Yes, she came into the world, to live a life of fullness, in its truest sense; a life of Consecration, of love, and of Devotion, and over a period of years, whose numbers, exceeded by a few months and days, the allotted "Three Score years and ten."

But comes the "sunset", and "one clear call", (which she recognized), and her frail ship, sailing beneath the stars of the evening, turns again on the voyage Home.

And again I turn to the poet, who reads him, and these are his words:

"Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark;
And, may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark;
For the tide from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot, face to face.
When I have crossed the bar."

To Twilight, and the Evening bell tolls; God's Curfew is calling his children home, and one we loved, passed out, "Across the bar," to meet the Pilot of her hope and faith.

And we are comforted, at this time, by that beautiful Scripture of Verse, whose words we read: "For these are those who have come up out of great tribulation and have washed their Robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

Her tomb, embosomed on the upland, Eastern slope of the beautiful churchyard cemetery, is near unto the church she loved so well.

And, as the beams of the morning, sun, come to lay a glow of warmth, and gladness, upon her tomb, and the rays to touch, each sparkling crystal, from the tender blades; so will the Light of her blessed memory, return again and again to shed its effulgent radiance, upon the hearts and lives of those who loved her so well.

So, sleep on, dear one, in thy sweet and earned rest,
We shall not, till morn of Judgment Day,
When God's call shall come to thee, thou blest,
Sleep thou in sweet repose, and heavenly be thy stay.

Her Brother

Sale Of Blue Grass Produce Marks End Of 55-Year Business Career By Its Owner, M. T. Ruddell

Sale of the Blue Grass Produce Company this week by M. T. Ruddell to the firm of Carl Ross and Bill Oliver, completed the 55-year business career of the owner who founded the old firm of the company under its old name.

While the new owners purchased all chicken crates, egg cases, feed and other inventoried items, the building remains the property of Mr. Ruddell although the purchasers have obtained a lease.

The new owners have announced their intention of renovating the business. World War II and men have been contacted with the produce business in Bourbon county for the past 14 years.

The new owners, brothers, said that they desired to continue the operation of a successful business, and seek the continued patronage of the former customers of the business.

Mr. Ruddell began his business operations in Carlisle in 1893, opening a small establishment on Dorsey avenue, where he bought chickens and eggs. He moved to his present location on Market street in 1897 and since that time has seen his business twice destroyed by fire. With his retirement from active business Clifton Fisher now becomes the oldest business man within the city of Carlisle.

As his business progressed over the year, Mr. Ruddell became a dealer in feeds and other items associated with his trade. His bulk walnut plant was, perhaps, the first one to be opened in this section of the state.

For many years he carried on an extensive trade in wild rabbits, shipping carload after carload of the Nicholas county game delicacy to the city markets. At one time he also bought thousands of turkeys which he also shipped in carload lots to the city markets for the Thanksgiving tables.

Many times the purchase of these turkeys was made from the owner at holiday time, for holiday consignments, which caused Mr. Ruddell to extend his buying range over many square miles of territory.

Mr. Ruddell's retirement from the Carlisle business scene marks the end of a long, active career. Although he has been forced by illness, several months ago, to turn over the operation of his business to others, his presence on Market street will be missed by those with whom he had been closely associated in trade for many years.

Farm Holdings Over Eight Million

Farm property in Nicholas county is now worth more than $8,749,000, and rural land here and throughout the state are in the best condition in history, according to a report just released by the Tile Council of America.

More than 70 per cent of farm dwellings in Kentucky and the South are in excellent condition, or need only such minor repairs as painting or general maintenance, the report revealed. Only 61.1 per cent were in good repair in 1940. The report was based on Bureau of the Census surveys.

"The rise in farm incomes and property values since 1940 has been accompanied by a great increase in the number of farm homes equipped with such modern conveniences as electric lights, tiled baths and sanitary and running water," F. B. Ortman, chairman of the Council's residential construction committee.

Electricity, for instance, has gone into hundreds of thousands of the nation's rural dwellings since 1940, Ortman noted. More than 59 per cent of all farm homes now have electric lights, in contrast to 31.3 per cent in 1940.

More than 32 per cent of rural dwellings in the United States today have running water, and 20.1 per cent have private baths, according to the Tile Council reports. In 1940, 17.7 per cent had running water and only 10.8 per cent private baths.

Indications that a garment factory will locate in Carlisle with production scheduled to get under way the middle of February appeared bright today as $5,700 of the $6,000 estimated necessary to remodel a building which the factory will occupy was pledged by the board of the newly organized Nicholas County Business Association.

The collections represent 57 four-year memberships in the association, which was organized primarily for the purpose of encouraging an industry to locate in Carlisle. The dues of the association are $25 annually. Collections were made for a four year period.

The association said that its officers and board of directors had been in a series of conferences with Lennie Giffin, Paris, who formerly was connected with Hansley Mills of that city as general manager.

Giffin, who seeks a location in Carlisle, requested that the association find a building suitable for the factory and that it be equipped with a cutting table, a pressing table, heat, lights, toilet and lounge facilities and ventilation fans. These alterations are to be made by the association which estimates that approximately $6,000 will be necessary for the project.

Giffin, in turn, promised to pay rental on the building, adding that his industry would maintain a payroll of at least 50 persons, and furnish bond in the amount the members of the association would put up for the necessary alterations.

Members of the association said that the bond which Giffin puts up will be forfeit if the proposed industry does not become permanent. They added that in the past Giffin operated in localities, after a time, the original backers were forced to cover the expansion program.

Giffin has told members of the association that approximately 50 persons will be required to operate the factory, which has been purchased and shipment is expected by February 15. He agreed alterations on the building would not have to be authorized until the association had ample proof of contracts for orders of garments to be manufactured.

The association has already secured an option on a brick business building.

The association has been advised that the manufacture of men's shorts will be the principal products of the proposed factory. Plans call for the establishment of one unit, which will require the services of 32 women. The assembly line and a supervisory force of at least 12 persons.

Giffin has had 20 years experience in the field of textile manufacturing, during which he has spent with the Hansley concern in Paris.

The Nicholas County Business Association was organized Thursday night in a meeting held at the court house with the following officers and directors being elected:

Frank Hardesty, president; Robert T. Taylor, vice president; Charles M. Thompson, secretary; William Sexton, treasurer; Elva H. Gilkey, Jr., Ben Bell, Emery Clark Sr., and Mayor W. C. Talbert, directors.

The organization of the association followed the first community business meeting held in January 23, who appeared before a special session of council with proposals for aid to the city, with his initial proposal of seeking a location here.

A list of the memberships in the association, each contributing $100 toward the securement of a factory in Carlisle follow:

W. F. Clark, Charles M. Cox, Roger Womack, J. J. Hardesty, R. W. Neal, William Harper, George Scott Sr., H. C. Fallranath, Milton Cole, G. E. Duncan, Elva H. Kendall, Tom Abraham, S. T. The 62 youngsters, who are affiliated with the Scouting program in Carlisle and Nicholas county, Friday will join the more than two million members of Boy Scouts of America in observance of the 38th anniversary of the organization's founding.

Locally the anniversary is the culmination of a project which has resulted in taking a slapboard covered log cabin, erected trying it into a modern log cabin which serves as a Scout meeting place.

The project got under way in May, 1947, when the boys raned the barn, then located on the farm of W. N. Funds for the work of restoring the cabin was collected by the Carlisle Rotary Club from business concerns and private individuals.
