Burley Sales To Begin November 15; Earliest Opening Marketing Date Ever Set For Eight-State Belt

The 1948-49 burley tobacco sales will begin November 15 in the eight-state production belt, the Burley Auction Warehouse Association announced at Louisville Friday night.

William C. Clay Jr., Mt. Sterling, association attorney said, "Never before have the sales started in the loosleaf warehouses before the first Monday in December."

The earliest opening date was seen by a resolution adopted by members of the association as they opened a two-day convention.

Farm Bureau and other groups in the burley-growing area long have sought an earlier sales opening for burley, Kentucky farmers' biggest cash income producer, and for the bright producer of burley type leaf.

Clay said the association, holding its seventh annual meeting, had favored an earlier opening since the organization was formed. He said the association retained its sales committee, composed of representatives of growers, warehousemen, buyers and the federal government. The sales committee regulates length of daily sales and their workout.

Clay said the earlier opening would be of great value to growers, especially those who produce small amounts of leaf. It will enable them to get their tobacco onto the floors and sold without delay, Clay said. More cash would be put in farmers' pockets before the Christmas holiday recess. Burley sales continue through the winter.

The earlier opening would result "in a more orderly market." In some instances, growers with loaded trucks have had to wait for days for space on warehouse floors.

The association approved another resolution to expel from membership any member "wilfully or knowingly" violating any enactment of Congress, or any lawful regulation of the U. S. agency relating to tobacco allotments.

Rep. Virgil Chapman, Paris, visited with members at the convention briefly. Earlier the Corps for three years, 18 months of which were spent in the Pacific theater. He has recently completed an automotive course at the Veteran's Vocational training school in Cincinnati and at present is employed with an automobile company there.

After a short wedding trip, they will make their home in Cincinnati.

County's Gardeners Plan To Improve $300,000 Industry Through Series Of Nine Demonstrations In Field

Nicholas county's home gardeners, estimated by the County Garden Committee to equal a value of $300,000, are due for further development at a series of nine community field meetings, which have been arranged for June 23, 24, and 25, by William T. Stoney, county agent, and Miss Dorothy C. Bowe, home demonstration agent.

These events are a part of the garden improvement work outlined by the County Garden Committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. L. Marr.

John S. Gardner, field agent in horticulture, University of Kentucky, has been scheduled to attend each meeting to assist with the demonstrations and explanation of current garden problems, including disease and insect control, fertilizers, new varieties, and the use of new chemicals which may make the gardener's burden easier.

Nicholas county has some of the most successful home gardeners in Kentucky, and these meetings will be used for gathering exchange ideas and to learn the latest practices developed by Experiment Stations, which will insure even greater success, the committee said.

To receive special attention at each meeting will be the tomato blight question, which has been causing great losses in the country during the past two and three years. Growers have tried a new material called Dithane, which has been widely used by vegetable growers, and reports from commercial growers, as well as home gardeners, are effective in controlling the disease if properly applied. Special dusting and spraying equipment and methods will be displayed and used at each meeting.

Several of the gardens to be inspected will have new varieties of vegetables, which are disease resistant to special diseases such a cabbage wilt. This disease resistance is similar to the principle used in developing root-rot resistant tobacco.

Although during the past few weeks weather has been dry and garden are not present, some garden plants have survived the drought exceptionally well, and growth will be rapid when the rains come. All garden producers are invited to attend one of the following meetings:

June 23—10 a. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howe Blount, Moorefield; 1:30 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Allison, Bartlerville; 3 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sexton, Carlisle.

June 24—10 a. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Farrell, East Union; 1:30 p. m. at the home of Miss Claudia Clary, Bethanda; 3 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Simons, Myers.

June 25—8:30 a. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reubel Williams, Paris; 10 a. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Allison, Headquarters; 1:30 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Day, Ellisville.

The garden committee is composed of the following leaders: Mrs. W. L. Marr, county chairman; Mrs. Victor Day, Mrs. H. Hardwick, Miss Claudia Clary, Mrs. S. T. Terrell, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Hanson Judge and Mrs. Guy Neal.

Rotary Committee To Report On Chest

The possibility of establishing a Community Chest in Carlisle and Nicholas county will be outlined by a committee of three Rotarians at the meeting of the organization which will start at 6:30 p. m. today.

This committee, appointed two weeks ago by Roger Womack, president of the organization, is composed of James F. Hardin, Dr. S. F. Hutchings and Edward L. Jones. The group was instructed to study the proposal of establishing a Community Chest and report on its findings today.

The primary aim of establishing a Community Chest is to combine drive into one drive solicitations for funds made by various organizations throughout the year. Belief has been expressed that local residents prefer to make all necessary contributions in a lump sum rather than to be visited at various intervals throughout the year.

Although Community Chests in other cities will accept contributions in a lump sum, provision is usually made for the donor to pledge the amount he wishes to give and spread the obligation over such a period of time as he finds convenient for his budget.

Youth Service was the topic discussed last week by Capt. Robert Dressin, headmaster of Millersburg Military Institute, who told Rotarians that this was one of the most valuable objectives of the entire Rotary program.
