CITY, COUNTY REMAIN 29 Pct. SHORT OF QUOTA

Carlisle and Nicholas county Wednesday afternoon remained a percent short of its Red Cross Fund Campaign quota, of $1,232, according to reports filed with the Nicholas County Chapter by 58 of the 88 solicitors appointed.

Collections reported Wednesday afternoon totaled $875. However, reports from the solicitors, who have yet to complete their work, will probably bring the contributions much nearer the quota set for the county and city.

INTRODUCE NEW SYSTEM FOR TISE COLLECTIONS

A new system for the collection of overtime parking fines was set up here this week, Chief of Police John Shields has announced.

Collection boxes will be attached to the parking meters into which violators of parking regulations can deposit their fines. This is made possible by a new type of ticket which police are now issuing.

Although police have been very patient with violators of parking regulations since the installation of the meters here, Chief Shields has said, strict enforcement of parking regulations is planned beginning at once.

Parking law violators, who make no attempt to pay the nominal fine within the 24 hour period, will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law, Chief Shields said.

City Sets Reasonable Parking Limit Upon Vehicles Using Loading Zones

Carlisle police have been instructed to check up on unnecessary delays in the loading of trucks from parking spaces reserved for loading and unloading purposes in the business section of the city.

Violation of the privileges accorded under the specified zones by owners of commercial vehicles was brought to the attention of the city council in session Monday night. As a result police have been instructed to keep these zones free of vehicles which are not actually engaged in loading or unloading merchandise.

Council expressed belief that 30 minutes was a "reasonable limit" for parking commercial vehicles within the specified zones.

Persons, who violate the specified limit, will be liable to prosecution, police were told.

$1 City Tax Levy Set

Council Monday night also set the city tax rate for the forthcoming year at $1 on each $100 worth of taxable property. This tax remains the same as the one set at the April 1948 meet ing.

Seventy-five cents of the tax dollar goes into the general fund and the remaining 25 cents is for the retirement of water works bonds.

A poll tax of $1 for each male citizen 21 years old and over also was set.

Collections from parking meters since their installation within the city total $1,260.79, council was told.

Fines for the months of February and March totaled $353, a report filed with council by Police Judge Hereby Myers showed.

Other business conducted by council follows:

Issuance of a building permit to Jesse Shaw to make an addition to his residence on Chestnut street.

Request of Lon Bell and Raymond Wesley for rock on North and First streets referred to the street committee.

Councilman Harper's report that the city has installed enough for additional water lines, one on Chestnut street and the other to serve residents of the city on the Upper Jacktown pike taken under advisement.

Transferred the restaurant license of Jim Monakeet Inc to Arthur Kerns.

Reminded residents of the city that firecrackers and discharging firearms within the city limits for target practice.

Annual Cancer Drive Launched In County

The launching of an educational program by the American Cancer Society has been announced by Mrs. Frank Hudson, Nicholas county chairman. The goal is to instruct every one in the community about cancer and its treatment.

The program which will be conducted throughout the month of April is under the sponsorship of the Carlisle Woman's club. Nicholas county's quota in the present campaign is $175, the same quota set last year. Solicitations will be made by members of the Carlisle Civil Sorat troops.

There were at least 10 Nicholas county persons examined in free clinics for diagnosis and treatment in 1948. Transportation expenses for these persons were paid out of funds derived from last year's quota.

An educational film upon cancer will be presented at tonight's meeting of the Carlisle Rotary Club by Dr. M. E. Johnson who has charge of the program. The picture will be shown Friday at Nicholas County High school. Headquarters and will also be shown at a number of other schools in the county during the month.

Proper treatment of cancer which is not too far advanced frequently results in a cure. It, everyone would heed the danger signals of cancer and be diligent about their examinations, the death rate from this disease could be radically lowered, medical authorities say.

Following are a few facts on cancer:

Cancer is—

Unlike when adequately treated in its early stages, cancer fatal if left untreated, a disorderly growth of cells within the physical body, a rapidly growing tissue serving no useful purpose to the human economy, at first a local growth that spreads to other organs if not removed or treated, cancer is caused by visible tissue changes recognized in many cases as a precancer stage; therefore preventable, among the most important irritants of the tissues in which it occurs, one of the oldest known diseases, distributed throughout the world kingdom; the second largest cause of death in the United States; include 30 to 50 percent as a cause of death if the public and physicians take advantage of its control; treated successfully by one or more of the following surgery, X-rays and radium.

Farmers in Daviess county signed up 1,210 cows in an artificial breeding association.

Photographer Coming Friday And Saturday

Pictures of Carlisle and Nicholas county youngsters will be taken from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Friday and Saturday for publication in the Carlisle Mercury.

All children who are brought by their parents or other guardian to the Bourbon Laundry office, just three doors above The Mercury office, will be photographed free of charge.

The Wolfe Studios, Des Moines, Iowa, nationally known children's photographers, will have charge of the photography. The Mercury, your hometown newspaper, wants a picture of your child for use in its forthcoming feature, "Citizens of Tomorrow,"—a series of photographic studies of local children who are growing up to be the best the feature will be, so cooperation of all mothers and fathers is urged.

There is absolutely no charge or obligation for taking the pictures. Parents don't even have to be a subscriber to The Mercury. You are under no obligation to purchase pictures either, though you may obtain a limited number of additional prints at a nominal direct cost to the parents if you want them. That is entirely up to you. There is no agreement.

PUBLIC NOTICE CHATS

It is the duty of every Public Notice shall be published in a proper medium and otherwise as provided by law. It must be absolutely accurate. If it is not much trouble will follow.

If such a notice is inaccurate in any material point, it is not only invalid but may cause extensive legal complications, may invalidate the entire proposed legal action on which it is based. It will always cause by be challenged and may prolong the proceedings considerably.

For these reasons all who are responsible for the handling of such notices must take extra pains with them. This is particularly true of the newspapers in which they appear lest some unintended error occur. Knowing this, newspapers take extra precautions to guard against mistakes for the protection of all concerned. The very experience of the newspaper in such matters should be helpful.

Parents Are Urged To Follow Up Clinic With Medical Exam

The parents of Nicholas county children should take every advantage of the recently completed hearing clinic by following up the program with a medical examination by the family physician, the sponsoring agencies said today.

Often minor conditions are the cause of hearing loss. The hearing program can only distinguish the deficiency. Only an examination by a doctor can determine the cause.

For example, the sponsoring agencies pointed out, the parents of one child took him to a doctor for an examination after several unsuccessful attempts a foreign object was removed from the ear by the doctor. In another case a popcorn lodged there approximately five years ago. The child had thought they had removed it at the time of the incident.

Through these hearing tests, conducted among the school children of the county it was found that 18 children have defective hearing in at least one ear. Some of the parents have accepted with the program and their children are being treated by the family physician or a specialist.

Easter Seal Goal Sought In County

The urgently needed funds from this campaign will be used to complete twinship the cost of a hospital the Convalescent Home now under construction near Lexington to supplement funds of the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission, to keep a mobile unit in the Diagnostic Workshop, treating both children and adults in Louisville, and to give further educational and recreational aids to crippled children.

Mrs. Jimmie Henry, Nicholas County Chairman, requests that every one who receives an Easter Seals contact her right away. "We want to make the goal for our county," she said.

In addition to the Moorefield troop, a new troop is in process of organization at Centre Hill in Bourbon county is reported by District Executive Sam Coleman. April 30 Final Date For 1949 ACP Program

With approximately one month to go in the 1949 Agricultural Conservation Program sign-up campaign, 65,726 Kentucky farmers have signed farm plans indicating their intention to participate in the program, M. C. Butler, state chairman of the State PMA Committee, said today.

All Kentucky farmers are eligible to participate in the program, Butler said, and he urged that every farmer in the state sign up before the closing date on April 30.

One or more of the soil-saving practices included in the 1949 ACP is needed on every farm in Kentucky, he said.

The number of practices on which program assistance is available varies in the different counties of the state, the acting state chairman said. Applying lime to farm land and spreading phosphate on legumes and grasses have been approved for ACP assistance in all Kentucky counties. Establishing small-grain winter cover crops has been approved in 119 counties; winter cover crops of crimson clover, hairy vetch, or rye-grass have been approved in 117 counties, and 114 counties have adopted pasture development for assistance under the 1949 ACP.

Special practices, including cleaning pasture, turning under summer legumes and establishing cover crops of kudzu, were approved for ACP assistance this year in 24 counties. Farmers may obtain specific information about practices on which ACP assistance is available in their counties when they sign 1949 program applications, he stated.

Butler points out that the amount of assistance offered under the program this year has been increased around 85 percent above the amount available last year. This assistance will be located to individual farms after the close of the sign-up campaign. ACP aid is offered on a short-the-cost basis, and farmers pay—on an average—about 50 percent of the cost of practices.

"Participation in the Agricultural Conservation Program is entirely Voluntary, but the cooperation of every farmer is needed," Butler said. "Soil depletion and soil erosion on any farm endangers the future security of the nation because wherever these losses occur, the potential food supply of the nation is reduced."

Nicholas Draft Board Still Remains Active Despite Enlistments

Despite the fact that the armed forces are now relying on voluntary enlistments to meet their needs, members of Selective Service Board No. 77 here in Carlisle still have specified duties to perform.

Among these duties are:

1. Registration of all men—with five exceptions—within five days of the date of their 18th birthday anniversary; 2. mailing of questionnaires; 3. completion of classification of all registrants, 4. review of the cases of all registrants whose status may have changed since they were originally classified (in this connection Major General Lewis B. Hershey recently instructed State Directors of Selective Service that "Every classified registrant shall be permitted to present any new evidence he desires to have his Board consider and the Local Board is hereby authorized to reopen any case upon its motion or at the request of the registrant, his employer or anyone claiming to be a dependent of the registrant."); "keeping track" of the current status of reserve-registrants so that the armed forced may prevent violations of provisions of the Act concerning reserve obligations of men after their discharge.

Veterans who are registrants must complete questionnaires and comply with the Selective Service Act the same as non-veterans. Failure to comply with any request from the Local Board may result in an erroneous classification because of lack of information, and mean embarrassment to all concerned.

Receivals are not expected from registration, and upon registering must not fail to cooperate with their Selective Service Board.

Walter S. Atkinson, Howard Colliver and Elva Kendall are members of the Local Board; Lee Oney is the clerk; Dr. J. M. Hall, P. Scott is medical advisor.
