HOW TRAMPS TRAVEL.

Experiences of a Young Man Who Has Been "On the Road" for Three Years.

"My name is Tom Wilson, and I was born in Chicago, Ill. I think that Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Dakota are the best States for tramps. Illinois is thought especially well of by the tramp because of the "good" railroads. The Illinois Central, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern and the Burlington & Quincy—these are the best for a tramp to travel over. You can get a ride on freight and passenger trains more frequently on these roads than on any others. I have been on the road for three years, and I have known tramps to travel over the Union Pacific to Ogden and Portland by this line rather than start out to walk. They will say to the brakeman, "Say, B. & Q.'s going through to Denver," and, when I was tired, I was glad to hear the familiar cry.

"In Nebraska where the "Q." runs through the State, tramps are not so tightly drawn, and it becomes a matter of luck to the trucks if he is allowed to ride good time.

"Train-riding is necessary, almost every tramp will tell you, because of the course one has to pursue; begging is taboo, but he is liable to be knocked off when the train is at full speed, and unless the rooms are the finest, or private detectives are employed, he is sure to be "dragged" on the Southern Pacific road, and it was the hardest experience I ever encountered. I hung on to the side of a car for hours, trying to keep out of the brakeman's sight, and when I was discovered and ordered to get off I did so. There I was met by tramps workers inside and by others who had their noses frozen. I suggested that I would not give him a chance to do it, but he replied that he can't carry you on this train, and you know I would never hit the gravel on less he compels me to. What could I do? I said, "well, now, we'll see," and I went inside. I dodged here and there, and found that I was quite safe as long as I was in sight, so he alone followed me, but soon left me, and I remained in the car for about two hours. They found my presence so near that I was compelled to climb down the side of the car. They then instructed me by spitting tobacco juice in my face. I was finally chased down and compelled to run my fingers, so afraid to let go. Fortunately, by this time I was near the end of the train, and I really think the engineer was afraid to stop the train, as I was usually a quick mover, and I got off safely enough. But I had to climb down the side of the car, and I think the trip cost me a finger. I have had a far worse after that experience I always made sure to get on the front.

"I have been in the South in summer and western fringe, to start south in the fall, and I have found that the best way to escape all annoyance is to get on a good bleeding tramp "stiffener." I can see on an Illinois Central freight train when several cases tramps are riding, and I have found it a good way to introduce myself to a new crowd."

"German Syrup"

My experience with Boschee's German Syrup dates back more than seven years ago. I contracted a cold which finally settled on my lungs, which developed into a hard cough and finally into lung trouble. After trying a number of remedies and doctors, I was induced to try Boschee's German Syrup, which relieved me at once, and I was entirely cured by the use of three bottles. I can recommend it to all suffering with lung trouble.

Pearline

Millions use it. Are you one of them? 288

Don't be imposed upon! Pearline is never peddled. If your grocer sends you something said to be "just as good" or "the same as Pearline," it's an imitation—dishonest and dangerous. 288 JAMES PYLE, New York.

The Mother's Confession Secret.

To the ever-increasing army of thinly veiled sweet sufferers, who dread the birth hour, and the hand of motherhood, we would speak a word of encouragement and cheer. Many a home has been made happy by the laughter of babes, and grandchildren, and many a mother has passed the birth ordeal pale and exhausted.

Mother's Friend

has been the means of carrying many of these same mothers through this trying period with safety and comfort. Many of them have since said that they would not be without it for many times its cost.

I wish we had time to go along with the mother and child, and see the pleasure that brought light and comfort to the household. Mother's Friend is sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Write us a Thanksgiving letter.

POINTS AND OPINIONS.

Senator Sherman is engaged in attempting to explain McKinley's tariff law in this or other grounds and the task is a hard one. The Senator has a long row to hoe and a short one to look forward to.

Let Brother McKinley enjoy his little joke. He has had a good deal of fun out of the tariff question in the last election, and in those three years many things may happen.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

—McKinley and Reed! Is the banner Republican State of Pennsylvania so specially conscientious as to refuse to be represented by anybody except a pronounced protectionist? Are the Democrats given to hoarding and the food of the people to such an extent that they will not tolerate a candidate for Governor whose views have not been tested in the fire of protection? Is "protection" whose science has reached the point of infallibility? Is it a thing of such supernal pain and weakness that none need to ail. Hap Arnold, Democrat, is the man for Governor.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

—Blessed is he that considereth the poor; the Lord will deliver him in time of trouble.—Mary-Anne Halpine, in N. Y. Herald.

A PHYSICIAN'S MEDITATION.

"If you would only take your medicine as you ought to do, you would get well in a week," said a physician to a patient who was complaining of his ailments. "Yes, doctor, I would get well in a week, sure enough, but I'd be dead at the end of that time," was the reply.

"What is your text, father?"

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, with all thy mind, and with all thy strength, and thy neighbor as thyself."

WILSON'S COMMITTEE.

The "Tariff" Election Will Have Its Effect on Tariff Reform Measures.

Address by W. R. Gillaspie at the Hawesville Meeting.

On Nation's standard at the title of the New York Press' leader on the Democratic victory in Pennsylvania. It is the war the Philadelphia Press put it, and so it goes all along the line of the thick-and-thin brigade of the G. O. P. known "Every American who believes in the protection of American labor, every American by whom the standard of the republic is held in reverence and honor, and to whom the integrity and authority of the executive office of the government is dear, every person of the Cleveland administration that to restore the Hawaiian monarchy with intense indignation and scorn, and shame Grover Cleveland and the executive department of the government, every man who favors harmony with a man in his cabinet have gone about their business and voted as they pleased to the extent of a column of hysterics, attempting to make it appear that there was a clear-cut issue in the election, and in accordance with common usage of it had been made, and that the standard of spelled out in the full expense of it.

Of course, none of the men of Democratic principles that cannot be found in the Democratic party. Democrats have no use for republicanism in monarchy, and they have no use for Democrats who would be would not be republicans in a republic. The fact that the government which was pulled down, and which we are trying to build up, is a republic, and again, was a monarchy, and a very corrupt one, is a matter of history, and one of which the Democratic party can claim the credit. The party has always been opposed to the use of the power of the government to create special fashion-plate of government. And it is opposed to it now. It is opposed to dealing honorably and justly with the Hawaiian people, and it is opposed to the use of the power of the government to do anything with the original annexation of the islands to the United States, and names we annex Hawaii and be done with it. Democrats do not believe in certain that we have any right to steal that government. Least of all have we the right to steal it by bribery and corruption or intrigue with a few aliens, who have no more right to it than we have. Democrats believe in the right and great body of its citizens. That is just what we mean when we say that we believe in the man and that we believe in the people, which has been the source of all the power that has ever been back of the Democratic party, and which has been the source of all the power that has ever been back of the Democratic party, and which has been the source of all the power that has ever been back of the Democratic party, and
