Improvement Plan Covers Long Time

Farmers in Boyd county are planning a long-time, as well as a 1949, soil and crops improvement program, notes Farm Agent Henry H. Pope. Objectives set up by a committee are: Know the soil through soil tests; drain wet land, provide good pastures, one acre per animal; 100 percent of farmers to grow hybrid corn; use of lime and phosphate; slow down water run-off by means of terraces, ditches, soil waterways, and contour cultivation; 100 percent to grow cover crops, take better care of farm woodland, and produce more hay of better quality with alfalfa.

Thousands Enrolled In State 4-H Clubs

Announcement of plans to observe National 4-H Club Week in Kentucky, March 5-13, reveals that 39,869 boys and girls were enrolled in 4-H clubs in the state last year. Included were 2,257 Negro club members. This was an average of almost 600 a county.

The annual report of J. W. Whitehouse, state club leader, shows that the 39,869 boys and girls started 102,788 projects and completed 73,404. These projects included practically all phases of farming and homemaking.

The largest project enrollment was clothing, with a total of 25,615 girls participating. Some of the other large projects were canning, with 8,778 club members enrolled, foods, 7,792; gardens, 8,932; tobacco 2,221; corn, 4,653; hogs, 5,296; beef cattle, 3,052; dairying, 3,020, and poultry, 6,628.

Other projects in which club boys and girls learned about farming and homemaking were: Farm production, growing potatoes, hays and grains, housekeeping, child care, health, and the conservation of the soil and wildlife. Many 4-H's made money while learning.

More than 1,000 boys and girls helped their parents improve and beautify home crops, thereby gave attention to learning how to manage farms, while others studied forestry and marketing.

Eight members of 4-H clubs in Ohio, grew prizes worth $1,000 in cattle and 620 raised tattle.

The 4-H club program in Kentucky was directed through the assistance of 4,371 women who served as leaders. 2,200 men leaders and 1,097 older boys and girls who helped direct the activities of 4-H Clubs. Without the aid of these volunteer leaders, the vast program could not have been carried out. Mr. Whitehouse said.

Good Curtaining May Help Windows

Windows which are poorly proportioned may be improved if they are curtained correctly, according to Miss Vivian Cutmutt, specialist in home furnishings at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

She offers these suggestions:

To make windows look wider, fasten a block of wood to the wall on either side of the window in line with the top of the window frame. Fixtures attached to it will permit the draperies to cover wall space and the window frame, leaving the glass exposed. This giving the effect of a wide window. Two blocks of wood may be from two to six inches in size.

Too-short windows may be made to seem longer by fastening a length of board above the window, having the outside edges even with the window frame. It should be painted like the woodwork. Fixtures for glass curtains, draperies, and window shade, or venetian blind, will then be attached to it.

Length of draperies also affects the apparent proportion. When they are made floor length, they make the window seem longer, while those made to the sill or lower edge of the apron will tend to shorten and widen the appearance of the window.

Although all windows in a room may not be the same size, they should be treated in such a way that they seem to be the same proportion, the specialist said.

Fescue and Ladino Mixture Profitable

Ode Mullins of Hickman county figures he made $40 an acre on 30 acres of Ky. 31 fescue and ladino clover pasture. Warren Thompson, county agent, reports the story.

Mr. Mullins sodded his 30-acre field in the fall of 1945. In September, he turned 57 head of cattle in the field, leaving them there until Dec. 10. During that section of Rowan county is so satisfied with a test he made in 1948 of F 17A 46 tobacco that he plans to use it for his entire crop this year, he told Farm Agent Adrian Razor. Having had fusarium wilt in his tobacco field in 1947, he set half his field with Ky. 16 and the remainder with F 17A. The crop of Ky. 16 suffered extensive damage, but it escaped almost all of the F 17A plants were set. He was pleased also with the weight and quality of this new variety.

time, they had no other feed. Mullins estimated the cattle put on a little more than 100 pounds per head, or a total of about 6,000 pounds, worth about 20 cents a pound. "Where else could a farmer make as much on a small investment and no work?" asked Mr. Mullins.

PARIS MAYOR REPORTS SHORTAGE IN CITY FUNDS

Mayor George I. Doyle has reported an indicated shortage of $10,000 to $12,000 in the water and light department of the City of Paris.

Mayor Doyle said a bookkeeper in the department had been suspended pending the outcome of an audit of the accounts.

The audit was ordered, Mayor Doyle said, after water and light service customers who had paid their bills complained they had not been given credit on the department's books. He said it appeared that current income had been applied to cover past year shortages.

The audit is being made by Johnson and Fowler, Louisville, the firm has audited the city's books for several years, the mayor said.

Testing Soil Saves Money for Farmers

Two farmers in Menifee county expressed appreciation of the value of having soils tested before using limestone, phosphate and other fertility building materials.

John Uterback had planned to spread four tons of limestone an acre. But when County Agent Wallace Coffey tested his soils he found that only half this amount was needed, thus saving the cost of applying about 100 tons of limestone.

Major Wilhoit, who recently bought a farm in Menifee county, was at loss to know where lime and phosphate had been used. Tests made by the county agent showed where these materials were needed and how much should be used.

The value of soil tests depends largely on how carefully the samples are taken, according to experts at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Often eight or 10 samples should be gathered in each field and then mixed together to form the samples to be tested.

Soil samples should be accompanied with a brief record of the crops grown, fertilizers and manure used yields and other information. Leaflets telling how to take soil samples and providing for a brief history of the soil may be had at county agent offices.

OWENSBORO WINS TOURNEY

Led by record-breaker Cliff Hagan, the Owensboro Red Devils last night downed Ralph Carlisle's Lafayette Generals 65-47, in the 32nd annual Mid-Year Catholic High School Basketball tournament in Louisville, Saturday night.

Paris, 10th Regional champs, advanced to the semi-finals, only to be bumped hard by Lafayette, lower bracket finalist. In the consolation game, Paris bowed to St. Xavier, 60-52.

WILDCATS WIN N.C.A.A.

Returning to championship form, Kentucky's royal Wildcats humbled Big Ten runners-of Illinois, Big Nine champs, 76-47, before 16,000 avid fans in the eastern division finals of the NCAA Basketball tournament held in Madison Square Garden, Tuesday night.

Anglers May Wet Lines Any Day In The Year

Nicholas county fishermen will have a full 12 months of fishing this year.

Previously in the month of May it has been illegal to fish in navigable streams in Kentucky. However, last year, acting under the new powers granted by the State Legislature, the Director and the Game and Fish Commission agreed to permit fishing throughout the month of May in all waters.

A 60-day period is required before these rulings by the Commission and the Director become effective, and, although they voted to allow fishing in May last year, much of the month had passed before their action became legal.

Previously fish were protected in the month of May to safeguard them during the spawning period. It was assumed that fish were in vestigations by the Division have found that fish may spawn in any one of several months depending on weather conditions. For instance, it was pointed out, most of the spawning may be over before May, in extremely warm spring, while in colder periods spawning may not get under way until late May and June.

It was found out also that fish do disturb fish very little at spawning time. So now, local and other anglers may legally fish any month of the year.

Letter May Unite Father And Son, Who Each Think The Other Is Dead

By Emily Asbury

This is a "once upon a time" story, because it all started way back during World War I, but, unless you like continued stories don't start to read this one . . . You see, it may have no ending.

Thirty-odd years ago while fighting with the armed forces of the U. S. Army, Charles Horn, back, formerly Miss Louise Lowe and cousin of Miss Nellie Crump, of Carlisle, married Miss Louise Brochon, a pretty French lass. To them a son, Charles Wesley Hornback, Jr., was born. After the war was over, Hornback returned to the United States and a divorce followed.

When he sought possession of Charles, Jr., he was informed that the boy had died in infancy. Nothing more was heard of the Senior member until relatives here received a greeting this past Christmas from Houston, Texas, where he now resides.

This week from a war prison camp in Orleans, France, came a letter addressed to Mayor W. C. Talbert of this city, later translated by Miss Nancye E. Talbert. The letter, in part, requested contact with American relatives known to him to be living in Carlisle. It was signed Charles Wesley Hornback, Jr.!

It was stated that although he had been told that his father had lost his life during World War I, he hoped to contact, with Mayor Talbert's aid, relatives here in the county. He went on to say that he had been imprisoned at Orleans since August of 1945.

The letter also contained his birth certificate and his parent's marriage certificate, which was turned over to Miss Nellie Crump, who contacted members of the family.

As things stand now, neither knows the other is alive. However, in air mail letter was sent to Hornback, Sr., in Houston, Monday, telling him of his son's whereabouts. As we go to press young Hornback still does not know that his Daddy is alive . . . Stranger things may have happened.

Rainbows can be formed by moonlight.

Bluestone-Lime Mixture Advised For Treatment Of Tobacco Beds

"Bluestone-lime mixture is recommended for plant beds that have been for at least 10 years," County Agent W. T. Straw said today. The number of people using blue-stone to control wildfire and root is rapidly increasing. Several farmers have reported that plant beds properly treated with blue-stone lime are free from tobacco to hold its lower leaves better.

Bluestone-lime mixture should be applied to the surface of the soil of the tobacco bed not later than when the plants are producing their first true leaf. Ten days later the treatment should be repeated. Later if it is necessary to avoid the plant beds getting a third treatment should immediately follow the weeding operation.

How to prepare bluestone lime mixture:

(1) Fill a clean 50-gallon barrel or oil drum three-fourths full of water stirred thoroughly. (2) In one container thoroughly mix four pounds of fresh commercial hydrated lime in three or four gallons of stirred water. (3) In another container dissolve three pounds of powdered bluestone—in about four gallons of water. (4) Pour the lime paste into the barrel of water and stir vigorously. While stirring, add the bluestone solution and (5) Add enough water to make 50 gallons.

Apply without removing the cotton cover, with an ordinary sprinkling can. Star each time the sprinkling can is filled. Use one quart per square yard. Fifty gallon will treat 200 square yards, or 200 square feet of bed 9 feet wide, or 150 running feet of bed 12 feet wide.

Ditch around the bed to keep surface water from flowing into it. Cut weeds instead of pulling them, or make another application of bluestone-lime after pulling weeds.

CAUTION: Bluestone-lime does not injure plants, we don't think so. Don't mix nitrate of soda with bluestone-lime.

Board May Test Merger Legality

Legal action to have set aside the Nicholas County Board of Education's acceptance of a merger proposal submitted by the trustees of the Carlisle Board of Education, is owned today, as the court judge sat in the local consolidation tiff between the two school boards.

Attorneys for the Nicholas county board said that the city board would attempt to amend something a proposed merger plan submitted to the county board and two from the city.

The city board, later appealed to the State Board of Education for settlement of the merger, which has been pending for two years. However, the city board in its appeal recently asked representation upon the merged board until such time as the terms of the members, elected to office, expired.

Raymond J. Wesley, secretary of the Nicholas County Board of Education, Wednesday said he now considered the boards merged and acted in accordance.

In the opinion written by Mr. Kelly and signed by Judge Robert B. Hodgkin, Superintendent of Schools Noel Testing, Attorney General Hughes, Frankfort, was the following:

"Section 4 would advise that, in my judgment, the county board of education should not allow the Independent Board of the meeting of March 31 needed and have present the two members of the Carlisle Board who may be elected under the provisions of the merger agreement. The merged boards at that time may decide upon teaching personnel for the two schools under the new county setup. Of course, you understand that the superintendent of the merged board will be required to see to it that term and that his salary shall not be lowered nor the length of time as set out in his contract of employment be set on the Carlisle board.

"The purpose of the meeting should be set out clearly and each member of the Carlisle Board notified in order that they may have time to select the two who will represent the board during the period between the next regular session, when the membership will be reduced to its normal number of five members."

Mr. Wesley said the Carlisle Board members would be informed of the meeting today.

Soil Laboratory Completes Tests Upon 227 Samples

A total of 227 soil tests have been completed in the Nicholas County Soil Testing laboratory by James C. Lowe, laboratory technician. Farmers who had tests made wanted to know the soil analysis in the production of the following crops: tobacco, corn, alfalfa, pastures, gardens and lawns.

Soil tests should be very helpful in determining weak and strong points of soils. The soil testing laboratory has been kept busy keeping with the crop history of the field in the most fundamental principle in increasing soil fertility.

If farmers will bear in mind, these questions will be answered about your field. Do I need lime for clovers and hay? Do I need to soil high in phosphate? Will more phosphate be worth the cost? Is the field high or low in potash? Does the field meet the fertility requirements for alfalfa? Will 1000 pounds of 6-8-6 fertilizer or equal be worth the cost? Will balanced, fertility for tobacco? What and how much add to my soil to double the production of pasture?

Clark Countians Visit Lab

Mr. Henry is a farmer and lives in Nicholas county recently. These visitors from Clark county were interested in learning how the program worked out here through the Nicholas County Soil Testing Association. This committee said they had been provided larger selling space with the added advantage of the new meats, and wider varieties of merchandise has added speed and faster shopping service is now available through three check out lanes.

PUBLIC NOTICE CHATS

There's quite a difference between sounding one's horn and blowing it. The difference consists whether the "blowing" is in the tune of figurative sense. The one may be as necessary as the other is objectionable.

Pro a Public Notice, especially one of the many, kinds required by statutes, may be a little unto sounding one's horn. It is done beforehand with considerable care. In particular it is done for the protection of others.

Such a Public Notice, carried in the columns of the local newspaper of general circulation, is designed to do two things: to give notice or warning that a certain move is contemplated, and to advise those who may be affected by it a chance to protect their rights in the matter. The principle is the same whether the issue is great or small and whether it affects few or many. The important thing is to give the notice in the manner specified and place publicity within reason. To do so, in effect, is to sound one's horn.

Approximately $26,097.24 (working allotment) of the Rural Highway Division of the State Highway Department will be used to aid Nicholas county in the maintenance of approximately 67.4 miles of road as far as funds will go, next year.

The projects, which will affect at least 15 roads within the county, cover both traffic bound macadam and bituminous surfacing. The plans were approved here Friday by the Nicholas county fiscal court in a special session attended by John Sperrier of the state highway district office, Flemingsburg.

The plans will be sent to the state highway department in Frankfort for final approval.

The roads included in the plans are: Grace Creek, Stony Creek, Scrub Grass, Cassidy Creek-Maple Grove, Dixie, Leesut Grove, Carlisle-Jackstown, Blue Lick-Bartersville, "Bartersville-Sattwell, Taylor's Creek, Dr. Bow, Bartersville-Rose Hill, Whetstone, Carlisle-East Union, Headquarters-Saltwell, and Arnold Heights.

The county highway department will handle the projects which are to receive a traffic bound macadam surface and a state highway crew under the direction of L. B. Barton will work the roads which are to receive bituminous or black top surfacing.

Members of the fiscal court said that this is not the entire road program but only a portion of the planned. Other projects will be announced as soon as they are set up and approved.

In connection with the construction of state highway surveyors Monday started location work for the roads.

The traffic bound macadam projects follow:

Consolidation Could Improve Football Prospects, Rose Believes

"I don't know. So much depends upon the county boys that consolidation could bring to us. That was Coach Tebay Rose's answer to the much asked "how are our football prospects?" Coach Rose continued:

"This first week we spent a lot of time on blocking, tackling and basic offensive plays. Seventeen boys reported for practice Monday," he continued, "and a few more drift out each day, to be with those who have to drop out for a time because of illness.

When queried about who looked good and what play or plays, Rose scratched his head and came out with, "Well, with only one week of practice under our belts it's hard to say, especially when I'm depending on a lot of boys with very little experience, and several with none at all to fill some mighty big holes. At end posts I'm working Jim Hughes, 140-pound sophomore to be and Benny Donovan, 145, and only a freshman next fall. Both boys are working mighty hard, and may develop into fine flankers."

In reserve, Rose must rely upon a 165 pounder, Winfred Hughes, senior who may well spell trouble for the opponents.

At the tackle slots, Rose is depending on Senior holdovers, Jim Williams, 185, and Joe Stephenson, 160-pound end on last year's varsity. Supplementing these two will be Ralph Jacobs, a sophomore.

Battling for guard berths are Herman Dayton, 160, Billy Dale Cornford, 152, seniors; Billy Hill, 135-pound sophomore, and Roundtree, 125, junior. Noel Williams, 155-pounder on last year's reserves, is not expected to see action, as a result of his operation that board. I responded to treatments.

Kimball Booth and Gary Flora, must "battle it out" for the middle of the line duties. Both boys weigh 168 at Black Lick, a total distance of 4.6 miles.

Teeny Allison, 168 pounder, is doing at junction with KY 36 approximately 1 mile northeast of the east city limits of Carlisle and extending northeast 1.5 miles to the end of the traffic bound section, a distance of 1.5 miles.

The Stony Creek road No. 2, beginning at the end of RH 1008-M at the intersection of RH 1059, thence extending in a general northerly direction to its intersection with KY 32 at Myers, thence extending in a general northeasterly direction via Sprout to the Bath county line, a distance of 7.4 miles.

The Dixie road, beginning at its intersection with KY 57 approximately 1.3 miles northeast of Moorefield, thence extending in a general northerly direction to a point approximately 1.5 miles to the end of the traffic bound section, a distance of 1.5 miles.

The Leesut Grove road, beginning at its junction with KY 36, 4 miles southeast of east city limits of Carlisle, thence extending in a general northeasterly direction to its intersection with RH 1018-M1, a distance of 4.7 miles.

The Carlisle-Jackstown road, beginning at its junction with RH 1031 approximately 1.8 miles south south city limits of Carlisle, thence extending in a general northerly direction to the Bourbon county line, a distance of approximately 5.8 miles.
