Fish Deliveries Late Says Fish Game Division

The extremely late spring has delayed the spawning of bass, the Division of Game and Fish announced today.

It is now believed that the first deliveries will not be made before the latter part of May. Continued unseasonable weather would further delay deliveries, the Division points out.

The Fisheries Section explains that it is imperative that pond owners to receive these bass be given the proposed place on schools to obtain these quota, since only one delivery will be made this year and those ponds which have already received bluegill will be those out of balance, if the bass are not added this year.

All deliveries and schedules will be based on Daylight Saving Time except in the Eastern Standard Time, where Eastern Standard Time will be used.

More than 2,000 ponds have been stocked with bluegill last fall and this spring, and an estimated 150,000 bass will be added to these ponds in the spring delivery to complete the stocking.

City Proposes Ordinance To Cover Gas Installation

At a called meeting of the city council Tuesday night several suggestions were offered regarding regulation of the gas system in the city of Carlisle.

These items are to be included:

1. The low pressure regulator and meter for each service will remain the property of the City of Carlisle.

2. Every service will be required to have a curb stop and box at or near the property line to permit easy access for cutting off the service in case of emergency and to be used to cutoff all the regulator is suggested.

3. Each individual low pressure regulator and meter are to be installed in such a way that either the regulator or the meter may be easily removed for all necessary repairs or replacements. All meters to be installed go outside the building.

4. No regulator or meter is to be adjusted or tampered with under any circumstances without approval of the City of Carlisle or its designated representative.

5. The metallic service lines may be no smaller than 1-inch pipe as far as the regulator, and piping beyond the meter and into the house may be no smaller than 1¼-inch pipe. In cases where gas fired furnaces are to be used, a 1¼-inch pipe is recommended from the meter to the tee for the connection to the furnace.

6. No inside piping may be of smaller size than the size of the connection for the appliance to which the pipe is connected. No cast iron fitting will be permitted.

7. All furnaces, water heaters, or other large capacity units must be vented to an active flue, or an approved vent, in accordance with the manufacturer's specifications.

8. All service lines and inside piping will be checked for leaks by the designated representative of the City of Carlisle before the new pressure regulator and meter will be set and the gas turned on at the main. The installation of the regulator and meter will be made by the representative of the City of Carlisle, to be at the contractor's expense.

9. The installing contractor will be held responsible for purging the service line and all inside piping before any appliance is lighted. Following the purging of the piping all appliances will be placed in operation for a period of time of sufficient length to determine that each appliance is working properly.

10. All service connections at the mains shall be swing joints.

11. The contractor shall notify the gas company as to size and capacity of all utilities to be installed, and inspection required for satisfactory operation of units installed.

12. Pipe fittings and valves, etc., removed for any existing installation shall not be again used until they have been thoroughly cleaned and inspected and pronounced to be equivalent to new material.
