ABOVE THE HULLABALOO

By LYTLE HULL

UP TO THE TIME this is written, no one in authority in our government has made the flat statement that the United States will not permit Red China to take over the island of Formosa regardless of anything the United Nations, or any part thereof, may wish or may decide.

If Red China can be "Munished" with that vital portion of our Pacific defense line—as the British government seems to believe, why shouldn't Miss settle for Hong-kong? Maybe he could save fare if he ordered a mass fire in exchange for that overworked port of entry for British shipments to Communist China. Mr. Attlee's government ,has exchanged, some pieces of paper for the physical properties of the hypothetical ownership of Hong Kong, and appease Mr. Mao at British expense instead of ours!

Incidentaiy when this column mentions the present British government, it does not mean to confuse that "vaguart" body with the British people.

Never since the New Deal"came into power in this country, it has wasted our substance in one way or another. Since the latter days of the last war it has contributed more than our wealth. Today we are in serious danger of destruction at the hands of a nation whose aggressive power was so enhanced at Yalta and Potsdam. We must call a halt to this formula before we become too weak to defend ourselves. We must call that halt at our defense line along the coasts of Red China—Japan, Formosa, the Philippines. Lose Formosa and that line is broken right in the middle.

The American people must see to it, that our government is not permitted to give up Formosa regardless of anything the United Nations may vote. There are plenty of protestations coming out of Washington at this moment when the New Deal's Far Eastern policy is on trial.

Recipe Of The Week

Hot or cold, ham loaf is a general favorite. For those who prefer it hot, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, suggests reheating it in tomato soup, thus giving variety to the dish.

Ham Loaf

½ pound ground cured ham
½ pound ground fresh pork
1½ cups dry bread crumbs
¼ teaspoons pepper
2 eggs beaten
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1½ teaspoons dry mustard
1½ tablespoons vinegar

Combine ground ham, pork, dry bread crumbs, pepper, beaten eggs and milk. Mix thoroughly. Form into a loaf and place in a loaf pan. Combine sugar, mustard and vinegar and pour over the loaf. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, for one hour. Serve with the following:

Horse-radish sauce—Combine 2 tablespoons horse-radish, 2 teaspoons vinegar, ¼ teaspoon salt and dash of cayenne pepper. Fold into ½ cup of cream whipped.

Menu: Ham loaf with horse-radish sauce; new potatoes in cream sauce; buttered spinach, tossed salad, rolls, butter and strawberries with cream.
