KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE

Thursday, May 7.—Senate.—The senate was unable for half of a quorum to transact any business whatever.

House.—Mr. Bradley, of Madison, sent up a joint resolution directing the superintendent of public instruction to prepare and have printed a text-book upon the history and principles of the American system of government, and providing for the distribution of the same among the public schools. The resolution was referred to the committee on education, with instructions to report back on Tuesday next. Mr. Cecil, of Jefferson, sent up a resolution to investigate the charges made against the management of the Kentucky Reformatory, and to report to the governor and recommend such legislation as may be necessary to correct the abuses. After discussion, which developed the fact that practically none of the members present knew anything about the charges, the resolution was adopted. Mr. Bradley, of Madison, introduced a bill to amend section 3, of the Kentucky Reformatory act, so as to make it read that the board of managers shall consist of seven members, instead of five as at present. The bill was referred to the committee on reformatory. Mr. Cecil introduced a bill to amend section 1, of the act to establish a house of refuge, so as to make it read that the board of managers shall consist of seven members, instead of five as at present. A Dress Thirteen Hundred Years Old.

"It was you ever treated by a professional dressmaker?" asked Mrs. Partington, as she looked at Ruffling Reporter. "If not, you don't know what you are missing. Why, I've had dresses made that I've worn for years, and they've been the envy of all the neighborhood."
