TV NOTEBOOK

By Gene Clinkenbeard

This week we would like to pass on a few quoting words for the benefit of black-and-white TV-owners who seem to be flirting with the thought that their conventional sets are momentarily about to become obsolete.

Despite all the hullabaloo about color, the fact remains that there are probably no more than ten thousand color sets in the hands of the public as compared to some 31 million black-and-white. Boiled down to a simple dollars and cents basis, this means that neither the networks nor the sponsors can afford to col-shoulder the whopping pile of loot represented by this vast audience.

It would appear to us that until a 19- or 21-inch color set can be offered to the buying and viewing public for, say 500 skins or less, the chance of your b & w set joining the ranks of the dodo bird and celluloid collars isn't worth worth fretting over.

And mechanical trouble isn't worth fretting over either . . . as long as GENE'S TELEVISION is around! Our EXPERT REPAIR DEPARTMENT will have your TV set performing like new in no time . . . just call 71-J and we'll come a'runnin.

Egg Nog Chiffon Pie

Like Christmas, Egg Nog Chiffon Pie comes but once a year. At least it's true of this pie, made as it is with dairy egg nog. Homemakers blessed with culinary curiosity are learning they can do a lot with this delightful seasonal dairy food. One cooks it over hot water, with a bit of cornstarch stirred in, to make a custard for her youngsters. Another uses the same trick to make the perfect sauce for prune whip, and other puddings. Still another adds unflavored gelatin and turns out a delicious molded dessert to serve garnished with strawberries and raspberries.

But husbands hold for Egg Nog Chiffon Pie, and a luscious dessert it is. Made yesterday, it's an obliging dessert for company. Or it may be made up with all but the whipped cream topping, appropriately wrapped, and given a frigid siesta in the freezer, to be enjoyed with only an hour's thawing.

Ada's Egg Nog Chiffon Pie

1 envelope plain gelatin
¼ cup milk or dairy egg nog
1½ cups dairy egg nog
3 eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
½ tsp. vanilla
½ cup whipping cream
Shavings of bitter chocolate
1 baked nine-inch pie shell

Soak gelatin in the ¼ cup cold milk or egg nog for 5 minutes. Heat 1½ cups egg nog in top of double boiler. Pour over the combined beaten egg yolks mixed with half the sugar, and cook over hot —not boiling—water, stirring until the mixture coats a silver spoon. Remove from heat.

Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool.

Beat the eggwhites until stiff but not dry; slowly add the remaining half of sugar, beating until stiff. Then fold into the cooled custard mixture along with the flavoring.

Chill until mixture begins to congeal. Then pour into the baked crust and chill until set.

Serve topped with slightly sweetened whipped cream sprinkled with shavings of the bitter chocolate. To prepare the chocolate, shave a one-ounce square of chocolate with a vegetable peeler or a sharp straight-edged knife. (Makes 6 servings).

Ice Cream Wafers

This is a quick and easy recipe that can be stirred up in a jiffy and makes delicate cookies with lacy brown edges caused by the bit of spreading which occurs during baking.

Temp: 400 degrees
Time: 8 to 10 minutes
Yield: about 30 small wafers

½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
½ tsp. salt
¾ tsp. vanilla (or a blend of almond and vanilla extracts)
¼ cup sifted all-purpose flour
Walnut halves or halved candied cherries

Whip together until light and fluffy: butter, sugar, egg, salt and flavoring. Stir in the flour. Mix well.

Drop on cookie sheet, lightly buttered in tiny mounds about the size of small marbles, 2½ inches apart. Put nut meat or cherry half in center of each. Bake in quick oven about 10 minutes.

Weekly Recipe

A hot spicy breakfast cake that can be partially mixed the day before will be a special treat during the holidays. Mrs. Pearl Haak, specialist in foods at the University of Kentucky, suggests mixing all the dry ingredients and the fat. Then just before baking, add the milk, beaten egg, and topping.

Spicy Breakfast Cake

2 c sifted flour
3 t baking powder
1 t salt
1/2 t cloves
1/ t allspice
1/4 c brown sugar
1/3 c shortening
1 egg beaten
1/2 to 3/4 c milk
Caramel nut topping.

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, cloves and allspice. Add brown sugar and mix well. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Store in container with tight fitting cover. Just before baking, combine egg and milk; add liquid to flour mixture, stirring until flour is moistened. Spread in greased 9-inch layer pan, and sprinkle with caramel-nut topping. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, about 15 minutes.

CARAMEL NUT TOPPING: Combine 1/4 c brown sugar, dash of salt, and 2 tablespoons of butter until crumbly. Add 1/4 c finely chopped pecans or black walnuts. Sprinkle over spicy breakfast cake batter. Makes one 9-inch breakfast cake.

Menu: Tomato juice, scrambled eggs, bacon, spicy breakfast cake and coffee.

Candidates Chosen For Rhodes Grants

Two Kentucky youths were chosen as the state's candidates for Rhodes scholarships by a committee which met last week at the University of Kentucky. They were Lt. Wayne Frye of Maysville, graduate of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and Diogenes Allen of Lexington, University of Kentucky graduate. They will enter regional competition for the scholarships at Chicago.

Dip cooled cupcakes in corn syrup, then swirl in chopped nuts and shredded coconut. It's easy and good.

Specialist In Math Addresses UK Group

Dr. John Livingood, associated with the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Cleveland, Ohio, addressed several hundred University of Kentucky students last week in a lecture sponsored by UK's Department of Mathematics.

The talk was the first in a series of lectures planned by the department to acquaint students with the practical aspects of mathematics.
