Don't Blame the Cook
 If a baking powder is not uniform in strength, so that the same quantity will always do the same work, no one can know how to use it, and with a family good light food cannot be produced with it. All baking powders except Royal, because it is uniformly compounded and made from inferior materials, lose their strength quickly when the can is opened for use. All subsequent bakings done with it are a failure. It is not only more economical because of its greater strength, but it will retain its full leavening power, which no other powder will, until used, and make more wholesome food.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
 The only one that will keep its strength until used. It is made from the purest materials and is uniformly compounded. It is the best for all purposes, and is the only one that will retain its full leavening power until used.
