Second In Series Of Articles Explaining Soil Conservation Work In County

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles prepared by Nicholas County Soil Conservation District.)

Do not confuse a Soil Conservation farm plan with signing A. C. P. program at the county A. S. C. office because they are different organizations. The District is a local unit of state government, while A. S. C. is a federal.

With the cooperation we have in Nicholas county, of the A. S. C., the County Agent, the F. H. A. representative, and others, this should be one of the leading conservation counties in Kentucky and the nation.

A farm soil conservation plan is an agreement between the Soil Conservation District and a farmer to use the land within its best capabilites and care for it according to its needs. This agreement carries no liability to either party in the execution of the agreement but makes available to the farmer, any assistance that may be offered in the District at no cost to the co-operator.

The Nicholas County Soil Conservation District will furnish the farmer the following aids:

1. A land capability map of the farm.
2. Furnish information or a guide, for needed conservation treatment by alternative land use for each capability unit.
3. To provide available technical assistance to help prepare and apply a conservation plan.
4. To furnish equipment and materials available for conservation use at rates established by S. C. District.

The farmer agrees to the following:

1. To develop and apply a plan of soil and water conservation practices established on the farm.
2. To pay the established rate for use of any equipment or materials furnished by the District at his request.

A land capability map of a farm classifies the land according to soil type, slope, and land use.

As an example, level sandy land could be in continuous cultivation, where steep eroded land should possibly be in woodland and rolling land in pasture and meadow.

This technical assistance will help the farmer understand and put in practice the best plan for his farm.

WOOL OF SIX GOATS

Cashmere wool is the soft winter underfleece of a small, semi-wild goat that ranges from the Caspian Sea to western China, says the National Geographic Society. Although it gave the wool its name, the Himalayan state of Kashmir itself has comparatively few of the goats. White cashmere is scarcest and most in demand. Gray and brownish gray are other natural shades. Each goat yields two' to four ounces, compared to the 12-pound fleece of some sheep. A [illegible] sweater may represent the wool of six or more goats, while the wool of 30 might be required for an overcoat. The wool is never shorn, but plucked or combed out painstakingly by hand during the goat's spring molt.

White Potatoes, II

Even though certified seed is used, it should be treated for scab and black scurf, the latter disease sometimes cutting the yield to half or less. The material in Semesan Bel and the directions are printed on the container; the two-ounce package treats up to 300 pounds. Perhaps several neighbors could share.

Seed pieces should be about the size of a pullet egg, weighing about 1½ to 2 ounces.

In planting, the furrows should be laid off about four inches deep and 36 inches apart, and fertilizer, 4-12-8 or 5-10-10, should be sown, one pound to 25 feet of furrow (100 pounds to 100 pounds of seed). Then, a hoe handle should be dragged down the furrow to work in the fertilizer, but keeping it in the bottom as much as possible. Deep placement of fertilizer keeps the roots deep, where the soil is cool and moist.

The seed pieces should be dropped 15 inches apart, then covered. If planting is done toward the end of the recommended time (March 15 to April 10) the covering should be only two inches, so that the sprouts will come through in a hurry; when the sprouts are garden level, the furrow is dragged shut.

A dangerous pest is the black flea bettle that makes those many fine holse in leaves when the first sprouts appear. Fleabeetles can be stopped with DDT or Methoxychlor (Marlate) spray or dust, the first application being made as soon as the complete row can be seen. Then, 10 days later, a second application is made, and in 10 days, the third. Three such applications have been known to almost double the yield, and make the potatoes from 6 to 10 days earlier than when not protected.

For making spray, use the 50-percent strength of either of the above materials, two level tablespoons per gallon of water. Or 5-percent dust of either may be used, with about 75 to 80 per cent efficiency as compared with "wet" spraying.

Planted as deeply as recommended, the potatoes have little need for hilling. They really do better not hilled, but if the swelling tubers make cracks through which light and air may enter enough soil should be dragged to the row for closing them, to prevent the potatoes becoming green and strong in flavor.

Cassidy

By Mrs. T. H. Vice

Linda and Marty McClanahan spent the weekend with their aunt, Mrs. Raymond Tribley and family in Morehead.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Minton and sons have moved to their farm they recently purchased on the Myers road.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Letcher and daughters, Louisville, spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Letcher and family.

Mrs. J. W. McClanahan has been ill with flu at her home. She's improving.

Mrs. Ed Crawford is visiting her sister, in Paris.

We extend sympathy to the family of Rev. Hall, who passed away Monday. He was a former pastor of Cassidy church.

Mrs. John Hall remains very ill in Bourbon County hospital.

Don't forget preaching service Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

R. D. Letcher of Carlisle is in Nicholas County hospital very ill with pneumonia. He is a brother of Earl Letcher. We wish for him a speedy recovery.

There are some 44 local names for the large-mouth black bass, ranging from "green trout" to "bride perch," "glowler" and "speckled hen." The small-mouth black bass has some 36 names, according to locality.

Girl, 16 Wounded By Shotgun Blast

Miss Ruth Robinson, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Robnson of Paris, and granddaughter of Mrs. Grace Reid of Carlisle was taken to the Bourbon County hospital March 17 shortly afternoon for an alleged self-inflicted gunshot wound. The wound was termed as a "nasty wound" but not serious.

She was found in the bedroom of her home after her mother hear the shot from the kitchen, where she was preparing the noon meal. The girl was removed to the hospital by ambulance. The wound was reportedly inflicted by a 12-gauge shotgun, the charge entering the girl's body just below the heart.

According to the Bourbon county sheriff's office, the gun reportedly was kept in a closet in the room where the girl was found and was thought to have been left unloaded.

Robinson said he could give no explanation as to the reason for the incident. He said his daughter was a student at the Bourbon Vocational high school.

INDUCTION CALL
According to Miss Hallye Griffin, secretary of the local draft board, six youths volunteered for induction but only two, Thomas Cleveland McCarty and William Kenneth Curry could be accepted for induction and they left Wednesday, March 24, in the county's 47th call.

Southern States' Net Worth Up During 1953

Southern States Cooperative's net worth increased over two million dollars during 1953 as compared to the year 1952, L. E. Raper, Director of Membership Relations of Richmond, told members at their annual regional board meeting held in Cynthiana, Ky.

Net worth of the South's largest cooperative stood at $27,427,305 on December 31, 1953 as compared with $24,658,988 for the same date in 1952, Raper reported.

Net savings of Southern States for the first half of the 1953-54 fiscal year totaled $1,638,000 which was one of the largest totals in a comparable period in the history of the organization.

"This increase in net savings," Raper said, "stemmed primarily from market gains on inventories whereas losses were sustained the year before."

Dollar volume for the same period for Southern States Cooperative, exclusive of affiliated cooperatives, was $43,304,000, which was slightly lower than that of a comparable period last year.

Combining both wholesale and marketing volume, not only for Southern States Cooperative, but for subsidaries and local affiliated cooperatives as well, the total for the six month period ending December 31, 1953 stood at $65,903,990, which is slightly below that of the corresponding period a year ago, Raper said. "This decrease was due largely to the lower price level prevailing on most commodities," he added.

Feed tonnage increased some 14,966 tons; petroleum volume was up 1,455,000 gallons, and dollar volume on farm supplies which was $4,439,849 on December 31, 1953 as compared with $4,228,907 on December 31,1952, showed an increase of $210,942. Decreases were reported in fertilizer and seed, which was due largely to lower prices and the severe late summer and fall drought which hit the six-state operating

Dance Review Given Friday

The Biancke Dance Review presented Friday night in the city school auditorium was well attended and the youngsters from Cynthiana and Carlisle displayed much talent and artistic training.

There were some 65 young folk in the review and the attractive costumes, unusual lighting and perfect rythm added much to the entertainment.

It was noted by all, the great number of Cynthiana citizens attending, showing much interest in the youth of their home town.

Mrs. Biancke showed wonderful talent in her training of the groups and joined in the last production, as solist in the dance, encostume.

The event was sponsored by the Younger Woman's Club and netted over $80 to be used for the establishment of a Youth Center here.

Motion Passed To Audit City Records; Financial Statement Is Published

Meeting in a called session last Thursday night Carlisle's city council heard the minutes of the previous meeting read and undertook other business—namely the need to have the city water books audited so that the Louisville bonding firm can tell if there is sufficient revenue to justify a bond issue for a pipe line to Licking river.

Motion for the audit passed and Mr. A. J. Lynn of Louisville was contacted Monday and will arrive next week to audit all records.

Other business before the council consisted of an order to have the city's financial statement published in a newspaper of the largest general circulation. This statement will be found on page 8.

The matter of city licenses was again brought up as the city fathers sought a way to a increase monies in the general fund. It was pointed out that some auctioneers have not paid their licenses as per an ordinance of long standing on the city's books.

Also brought to the attention of the council was the fact that all restaurants are to close at 12 midnight and not reopen until 5 a.m. and those found not complying with this ordinance will be subject to court action.

Police were instructed to place tickets on all vehicles found to be blocking alleys.

All water and gas users who are delinquent are to be notified in writing of such, and unless their past due accounts are settled within a limited time service will be discontinued. A charge will be made to turn the service on again in addition to a cash deposit.
