LEGAL NOTICE

The following ordinance passed by the Carlisle city council prior to 1941 and is entered in the Ordinance Book, Page 46:

GIVING FIRE TRUCK RIGHT-OF-WAY—FOLLOWING FIRE TRUCK — PARKING NEAR HYDRANT AT SCENE OF FIRE—DRIVING OVER HOSE

"Any person operating any kind of vehicle who shall follow a fire truck to the scene of a fire, or any person who shall park any kind of vehicle within twenty feet of any fire hydrant, or any person who shall park any vehicle within two hundred feet of the scene of any fire, or who shall in any way hinder or interfere with the rapid and efficient action of a fire truck or members of the fire department, shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

"It shall be unlawful for any person to ride, drive or haul any vehicle of any nature whatsoever over or upon any hose of the fire department, whether the same be attached to or connected with any fire engine or hydrant or not, and any person violating this provision shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars." 4-14-1tc.

City Treasurer

late in December, while idle funds remained in checking accounts and drew no interest.

At present The City has $70,500 drawing interest.

The Sewer Sinking Fund has $28,000 drawing interest and only $550 in the checking account. Interest plus the $550 will carry this account to June 1, 1958, after which the $2,000 each year will be withdrawn to redeem bonds. The $28,000 will be ample to pay interest and redeem all bonds, as they come due.

The Gas Bond & Interest Fund has $10,000 drawing interest and $4,200 in checking account. If we are able to make the usual contribution to this fund, from the Gas Operating a/c each month, the checking account will meet the years obligation and the $10,000 in interest guarantee that bonds will be redeemed and interest paid for an additional year.

The Gas System Depreciation Fund has $6,000 drawing interest and no checking account.

The Gas Operating Account has about $5,000 in its checking account. The suppliers of our gas continue to increase the price we must pay and so far as I can determine, no one knows what the cost will be from month to month. There is a doubt in my mind that our present retail prices to our users will enable us to meet our commitments for bonds and interest and to pay our expenses. The Federal Power Commission upholds the increased wholesale price of gas to us.

The Water Funds & Accounts are all operating well in the Black and it seems assured that all expenses and commitments on bonds and interest will be met.

The City Operating Account, with the contribution of $15,000 to be made, from earned income to the Gas Operating Account, on April 23rd, will be able to meet all reasonable expenses and have a surplus, instead of a deficit at the start of tax collections this fall."

Proper Adjustment In First Grade Helps Make Child A Good Reader

First grade Johnny is learning to read. He stands before a large chart and reads a story about a trip which he and other first graders took to a farm yesterday. It is fun to read the words:

We went to Mary's farm.
We saw baby chickens.
We saw baby pigs.
We saw a baby calf.
We liked the little calf best.

Johnny has had a great many experiences at school like the farm trip. He talks about them. He draws pictures of them. He tells stories about them. The stories are written on big sheets of paper so he and the other children can read about the things they do.

Later in the year Johnny will be given a book and he will begin to read stories about other children. They will all be planned to help him build a background of experiences that will make his reading vital and meaningful.

Susan is also in a reading class. She is sitting holding a small book in her hands. The book has pictures in it and lots of words. She likes the pretty pictures, and she slowly turns the pages to look at them. Suddenly she realizes that her turn to read aloud, but she has lost the place. The teacher helps her find it again, but she has forgotten what the words say.

She knows that words are made from letters and that letters have sounds, but there are so many letters that she forgets what the sounds are. The teacher helps her say the words she does not know, but she feels that reading is very difficult and she will never be able to do it. Many years ahead reading and school are building up within Susan.

Many first graders have been forced to attempt to "learn to read" before they are ready for it. They must first become adjusted to the newness of school before they are ready to begin reading. Some children require only a short period of adjustment to school and will be ready to read in a short time; others need months to get ready. The good teacher, making a thorough study of the children in her class, noting their individual differences, introduces reading when the time is ripe for each.

During the adjustment period she provides such experiences as Johnny had. She teaches the children to follow simple directions as they color, paint or model. She surrounds them with bright books and interesting objects to excite their curiosity. Her room is an attractive, inviting place. When the children begin to read, they make rapid progress because they will be ripe for that experience.

A good reading program provides for development on four levels. (1) It develops skill in word recognition. (2) It provides varied means for practical use of reading. (3) It teaches appreciation of good literature. (4) It develops ability to draw inferences and to interpret what is read.

Word recognition begins in grade one. Johnny's teacher begins gradually to train his eye and ear to catch the sounds all words contain. She makes games of words and letters and Johnny begins to discriminate between words on the basis of those differences in the way they look, as well as sound.

Nicholas Countians Will Do It Too

Last Sunday's Herald-Leader carried an interesting article, with two pictures as proof, about George Scott, Jr., popular and talented of Lexington, formerly of Carlisle.

According to the auction sales date, Mr. Scott plans, before a gathering of the opposing of young girls in marriage to the highest bidder. Down through the years most every kind of article has been sold at auction. Some of the articles listed on a sale bill printed more than 100 years ago are on teams, on carts, fox hounds, weather boards, spinning wheels, mutton tallow, six gallon of sorghum molasses, barrel of whisky, apple brandy, 40-gallon still, six negro slaves "to be sold altogether to same party, will not separate," 50 gallon of soft soap and many other items practically unknown today.

This jovial son of Nicholas, who has held auctions "all over" claims Central Kentucky" is the one of the best auction territories any where, concluding with this good-natured remark, "Fayette countians will buy anything at auction!"

Scott is the son of George D. Scott, local realtor, of the Scott-Kendall Sales Company, of Carlisle.

Safety Award Presented KU

The Blue Grass Division of Kentucky Utilities Company is the winner of the Company's 1954 public accident prevention award, E. W. Brown, Lexington, K. U. vice president, announced this week.

Towns with K. U. offices in the Blue Grass Division include Lexington, Versailles, Wilmore, Georgetown, Winchester, Paris, Carlisle, Maysville, Augusta, Flemingsburg, Carrollton, Warsaw, Owenton, Mt. Sterling, Owingsville, Morehead and Cynthiana.

This area is part of the Blue Grass Division, one of the company's four operating divisions which vie each year in the safety contest.

"The Blue Grass Division has one of the best records in the previous of public accidents established by any of the divisions in recent years," Mr. Brown said.

Only three public accidents were charged against the 342 employees in the division who established the safety record while working 636,931 manhours and operating motor vehicles 1,043,495 miles. Two of the three accidents resulted in minor motor vehicle damage and the third was a fall at a company office which slightly injured a woman customer.

Mr. Brown presented a safety plaque to R. A. Brownski, division safety director. G. C. Jones, division manager, and James R. Wright, assistant to U. safety director, attended the presentation ceremony in Lexington.

Six Emergency Teachers In County

Kentucky's public school system for the current year includes 2,384 emergency or sub-standard teachers—fewer than for any year since 1941—a study completed recently by the Division of Teacher Education and Certification of the State Department of Education has disclosed.

The study, made under direction of Miss Louise Combs, director of the division, showed that despite the fact that 20,868 teachers are now employed—or 1,035 more than a year ago—the number of emergency teachers—those with less than the minimum legal requirements to teach—fell from 2,408 to 2,384 for the year.

Emergency teachers in Nicholas County by school districts: Nicholas County, 6.

That the problem is still serious is illustrated by the fact that 1,903 emergency teachers are included in the 14,197 teachers employed in the elementary system, while 481 of the 6,671 high school teachers are so designated.

"It is significant to keep in mind that until 1956 only 64 State College and has done graduate work at the University of Kentucky.

Ashby Roberts of Bath county says 70 crests spent to have his tobacco land tested saved 400 pounds of fertilizer an acre.

GOLDEN TIME
Is Made up of the very minutes, moments of happiness, human happiness, which are the only things that count in life. Golden Time is the Time you spend with your family, your friends, your loved ones. Golden Time is the Time you spend in your home, your church, your place of business, your place of pleasure. Golden Time is the Time you spend in your own way, doing what you want to do, when you want to do it, with whom you want to do it. Golden Time is the Time you spend in your own home, with your own family,
