IN MEMORY

In memory of a wonderful mother, Laura B. Reid, who passed away Aug. 16, 1954.

One year ago today my hands clasp hers in death and she went away to a home where no changes come, no pain nor sorrow toll nor care yet. Tis a bright and blessed home who would not fain be first? The parting was hard but the One that giveth, taketh away and realizing my physical inability to further care for her as I had done in the past and knowing it grieved her for me to have to do so, I find peace and comfort that our maker took her to home. Her chair is vacant now in which she sat and oft's would quiver by sing this part of one of her favorite hymns.

Oh how sweet it will be in that beautiful land.

So free from all sorrow and pain, with songs on our lips and harps in our hands. To meet one another again. A loving daughter, Mrs. Estle (Ellen) Blake. 8-25-1t*

B S A Drive To Raise $69,000 Begins Oct. 18

Sidney Rosenbloom of Louisville is Chairman for the state organization and Tom Bennett of Lexington is chairman for the finance campaign for the Blue Grass Council. Each Council in Kentucky will conduct similar campaigns all beginning October 18.

The Blue Grass campaign designed to raise money to service approximately 8,000 Scouts and Scouters in 34 Central Kentucky counties, will be launched community by community on October 18 simultaneously. A budget of $69,000.00 has been developed by the Finance Committee and adopted by the Executive Board of the Blue Grass Council, to finance a rapidly growing demand for Scouting by more and more boys and men.

Community Chairmen have been selected by the various District Committees to lead these community campaigns. The whole budget is supported by the people in the various communities whose boys are benefiting by the Scouting program.

The Blue Grass Council, during the past five years, has increased its membership more than 50%. It has a paid staff of six professional men and three office secretaries, to give assistance in the use of Scouting. The Council maintains two large camps and an office which serves as a service station and clearing house for registrar records, information and services at all phases of the Scouting program—this includes training and services for advancement and recognition, techniques and skills in all programs and interpretation of the program, as to purpose and administrative relationships for the benefit of those institutions using the program.

Bennett urges the support of this drive in the interest of building character and citizenship training for an increasing number of boys who are facing life in a hazardous age.

Ralph Shearer is campaign chairman in Carlisle.

Dump Truck Driver Hurt In Collision

Jesse Lee Stamper, 35, of 1431 High street, Paris, was admitted to the Bourbon County hospital Saturday morning after he was hurt in a collision of two dump trucks on the Hughes-Jones road.

Mornson was not believed to be seriously hurt but he was cut and badly bruised and shaken up and is being kept at the hospital for observation and other injuries.

Deputy Sheriff Joe Collier said a truck driven by Mornson and owned by the Summerhays Lumber and Coal Co. was traveling toward Sharpsburg and collided with one driven by Donald McCord, 31, of Paris.

The collision occurred at 8:30 a.m. on a narrow stretch of road. Both vehicles were heavily damaged.

Mornson is a son of the late Charles Mornson, former Carlisle business man.

SCOUTS GO TO FAIR

"LIFE IN THESE UNITED STATES"

Mrs. Martha Ann Carpenter of Millersburg, mother of Attorney Roger Womack, of Carlisle, has just received a $100 check from The Readers Digest for a short anecdote submitted to the magazine's department "Life in These United States" which appears in the September issue.

City Tax Notices Mailed To Property Owners

Bills for 1955 city taxes have been mailed to all owners of property within the city limits for the week. Bills were mailed to nonresident owners in July and many paid them promptly according to City Clerk W. T. Greene.

A 2% discount is being allowed on all bills if paid before December 1. After that period a penalty and interest will be added, up to five years, after which legal action will be taken to collect delinquent taxes, Green said.

Taxes for 1954 were collected in all except two pieces of real property, which are now in pending in these cases. Compared to other years of our size, this is a very remarkable record for prompt payment of taxes, he said.

Taxpayers who were assessed only on automobiles and other personal property have not been so prompt and several such items will be levied on and sold to pay delinquent taxes. This is a step we do not like to take as this cost to the taxpayer is frequently more than double the tax bill," Greene added.

The 1955 taxes will be about 10% lower than in previous years, because for a few years, property that had been listed too low, and which were increased by the City Board of Equalization.

Poll Tax of $1 on each male citizen of voting age has been collected for many years, will not appear on tax bills for 1955.

Contract Let

A contract for construction on the Moorefield-Earl Union road in Nicholas county has been awarded to Ballard & Hamilton of Bardstown according to an announcement by Mitchell W. Tinder, Commissioner of Highways.

The company submitted a low bid of $159,845.67. The project is for grade drain and traffic bound surface on the Moorefield-Earl Union road, in accordance with Earl Union Road approved plans, which is a distance of 4.4 miles and extending in a northeasterly direction for a comparatively straight line from west of Moorefield, a distance of 1.170 miles.

Dr. Nellie Crump

Dr. Nellie Crump announced today that some announced (under a small crack pulled in the door) "Come in." Then a little shaggy mutt entered. The Mexican office With a "hello" and a pushing home to eat, he was my customer. Smiling, he stated his business. It was about that "years on windows of the soul" and I believe he

By this time I had learned his name. It all happened in a flash just like that and the smiling little man, getting well along in years, began to talk of other things. And at once he stood erect. For just a moment and told me of being in World War I.

'No Good For Nothin' Nubbin'

"Never been any account since that big German pitched me over his head and broke my back in Uncle Sam's boys went 'over the top'." The deep-set smiling eyes filled the chair and quietly showed he told of how they were fighting hand to hand, every man for himself, when his bayonet broke just as the enemy grabbed him, and they went down together. "We were not mad—had it to do—soldiers, you understand."

There the rescue team found C. B. Cassidy, of Bath and Nicholas counties, under the enemy soldier, but still alive. Taken to the field hospital, he began to improve and make friends with other boys "I slaped sight worse off than me," he announced.

Death Proferred

"Well sir! My buddy and me decided we preferred death to our suffering. So we watched our chance—it came—as it always does in a tough spot—and we 'fell'." I thought I heard a chuckle as though he remembered something funny (Or maybe it was the expression on his face) I think he recalled something he did not tell me.

Having had my bayonet for several minutes now, at last I got a chance to stick in the question, "Did you make it?"

Remember lady, my back was broke and I couldn't walk, but I could crawl—and I did! Lots of times I prayed to die, but I knew God always the will of the Master." The eyes filled with tears.

"Yes-sir, we left—God led us—My buddy and me—in a little abandoned church, nothing more than a pile of rubble—where we had and waited for Death."

By now my own voice could not be trusted. No more was said until he broke the silence a whole minute later.

The Armistice

"There they found us dazed and half starved—I guess I did not learn how long it had been, or what they had eaten, if anything! but all of a sudden we wanted to live! They said the war was over! Now that seemed to have been signed! Now the chin quivered with joy.

"Takes to air overseas hospital he spent many months, where, running with grade! They pushed me up the best thes could, considering.

"Then the blow fell, lady! I had dreamed for weeks and months of getting back to Kentucky alive when one day a big guy, nearly as tall again as I am, came to me and I could tell by the look on his eye it would be a danged long time before I'd be back in Kentucky—if I hadn't learned to cuss then. If I had I would have been killed there afid then. That guy, he says, 'Cassidy, you are one of 65 officers to take a bunch of 65,000 colored stevedores to southern France'.

"Now that was a blow after being waited on like a baby for months, but I went—had to—and I guess I did a good job, for I forgot and cussed."

Prof. C. B. Cassidy, principal of the East Union school for seven years in a row in his younger days, may have learned to "cuss a campmeetin'" but he got no farther than five "damgs" in nigh onto an hour as he reused in The Mercury office one day last week—still a gentleman and scholar—and still a soldier.

Red Cross Quota Set At $150 For Eastern Flood Relief Funds

A quota of $150 has been set for the Nicholas County Red Cross Chapter, as its portion of flood relief funds that are being solicited over the nation in an emergency drive to give aid to more than 10,000 stricken families.

Cleary Fightmaster, local chapter chairman, said the quota was the chapter's part of the $8 million emergency fund needed to finance relief in the estate area affected by floods.

Fightmaster stated, "he received a telegram from National Red Cross headquarters urging every effort to be made to oversubscribe the quota." The wire pointed out that though the Federal government is spending millions for rehabilitation of the flooded area, by law the government cannot lend personal aid to individuals.

Any and all contributions will be made to Sterling Blake at the Deposit Bank, or Henry A. Palmer at the First National-bank, Fightmaster added.
