There's No Substitute

The surest way to develop the local community and create permanent prosperity is to encourage the building of steady payrolls.

Information that shows the individual his interest in productive enterprise is indispensable to the sound solution of questions that encourage the establishment or growth of industries and business.

Just as industries bring business to every store, so do they make possible advertising and subscribers upon which the local newspaper depends, and herein lies the interest of editors in the problems of industry.

That this philosophy is sound and has a direct bearing on the prosperity of every community, every business and every individual is evidenced by figures released by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States covering the period from 1940 to 1950. They show that for every 100 new industrial workers in nine counties surveyed by the Chamber, retail sales zoomed $360,000, personal income $700,000, and bank deposits $270,000.

An increase of 100 industrial workers meant 174 new jobs in other lines of work, 112 more households and a population increase of 296—new purchasers of all manner of goods and services. The survey covered a ten year period and was designed to measure the impact of new industry on local business.

The problems of industry are the problems of the people. They involve the welfare of the publisher, who is the spokesman for the people and every business in the community.

People rely heavily on the home town paper. No other agency is a substitute for it. From politics, deaths, birth and editorial comment on public issues, local and national, to household recipes, the gran roots press interests its subscribers.

It is the newspaper that people live with, set down with, and study. Its editorials help its readers formulate their own conclusions on current issues—not necessarily in agreement with the editor. It is therefore logical that editors should take the lead in discussing issues which involve production and payrolls—bread and butter for all.

COOPERATIVE EXTENSION WORK

STATE OF KENTUCKY

Lexington 29, Ky.

January 18, 1955

Mr. William T. Straw
County Agent
Carlisle, Kentucky

Dear Mr. Straw:

Congratulations to the Carlisle 4-H Club! Their report was selected as the outstanding report in the state of Kentucky in recreation in 1954. Their activities were outstanding for the variety of events. It is very unusual to find a Club that will participate in an active, social recreation program consisting of music, drama, arts and crafts, sports, nature lore, and also have an outstanding home economics program.

As the outstanding blue award Club in the state, they headed our list of contests 1954 and was sent to Chicago as part of the National Recreation and Rural Arts Program. I hope that you have received your prize money by this time, and, I am sure that you will make excellent use of it.

Miss Johnson used this news on two of her broadcasts, and we have put in several news releases from the University.

I would like very much to have four copies each of the three pictures attached to the outside of the folder. I will be glad to pay for these if they are made. In a local photographer, or, if the person having the negatives would like, I would be glad to make them from the negatives, if he will send them to me. I will, of course, return the negatives, after having the prints made.

May I suggest in 1955 you enter an individual in the National Recreation and Rural Arts Program, as there would be an excellent chance of her winning state honors, which include a trip to National 4-H Club Congress.

I think that the Club has done an outstanding job, and I am sure that they will continue to receive benefits from their recreation program.

Sincerely yours,
James Pheane Ross
Field Agent in Club Work

Prof. Gillis, 88, Wins Honor At UK

Prof. Ezra Gillis, 88-year-old director of the University of Kentucky Bureau of Source Materials in Higher Education, has been presented a "charter key" in recognition of 23 years of active membership in the Kentucky Archaeological Society. He became a charter member of the society when it was established in 1932.

Weekly Recipe

Pretty desserts are always in demand for February holidays. Miss Florence Imlay, specialist in foods at the University of Kentucky, notes that the following recipe has the added advantage of containing few calories.

Cherry Spanish Cream

2 T gelatin
¼ c cold water
2 c hot milk
3 eggs
½ c sugar
Dash of salt
¾ c drained cherries
½ t almond flavoring

Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat milk in top of double boiler; beat egg yolks, add sugar and salt and add to hot milk, first stirring in a small amount of milk to the egg mixture. Stirring constantly, cook over water until the back of the spoon is coated. Remove at once from the lower part of double boiler. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Pour into bowl and chill until consistency of heavy cream. Add drained cherries and flavoring. Whip egg whites until stiff. Fold whites into gelatin mixture. Pour into molds greased with plain fat. Serves 8.

Pineapple Cream: In place of cherries, add the following before folding in egg whites: 1 c drained shredded canned pineapple, 1 c frozen raspberries, 1 T lemon juice, and ½ c macaroon crumbs or coconut.

Menu: Roast beef, browned potatoes, 7-minute cabbage, grapefruit salad, cornmeal muffins, butter and cherry Spanish cream.

UK Bureau Is Host To Greek Visitor

The University of Kentucky's Bureau of Community Service was host for several days this week to Mrs. Nausica Paraganitakis, director of the Working Girls Club in Athens, Greece. She spent this period on the UK campus to study and observe American techniques in social welfare work.

Tid Bits Of Kentucky Folklore

Washington Reports by your Congressman JOHN WATTS

Kentucky's Voice

This Session of Congress, Kentucky's delegation will hold many important committee posts. This will give the state a voice on practically all the major issues and legislation ranging from farm problems to your personal income tax.

Vyoren Brent Spence, Dean of the Kentucky House Delegation, has resumed chairmanship of the House's powerful Banking and Currency Committee which handles legislation regarding housing, banking, FHA mortages, and any general economic control measures. Representative Noble Gregory, as a member of the House Ways and Means Committee which affects the pocketbooks of everyone of us. This committee is responsible for legislation affecting personal income tax law, the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and Social Security.

Representative Frank Chelf and Representative John M. Robsion, Jr., are Kentucky's voice on the Judiciary Committee. This committee is the general watch-dog of the United States Code. It concerns itself with Constitutional Rights and any amendment thereto, immigration and naturalization laws, measures affecting patents, trademarks and copyright law, anti-trust and monopoly legislation and improvements in judicial machinery. Representative Carl Perkins is a member of the Committee on Education and Labor which receives all bills introduced in the House relating to either the field of labor or education, such as the school construction bill and school lunch program. Representative William Natcher is Kentucky's member on the Appropriations Committee which controls the purse strings on all Federal spending. This committee decides how much money she'd be given to the government departments for operating and for their various programs.

Representative Eugene Siler has been appointed to the Veterans Affairs Committee which, as it implies, handles all legislation affecting veterans.

Senate Coverage

In the Senate, Kentucky is represented on four extremely important committees. Senator Clements is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee and the Senate Committee on Agriculture which handles all farm legislation. In addition to these committee assignments, Senator Clements is the Democratic Whip. This is an important position of prestige and responsibility, vital in organizing Democratic Party forces and votes. Senator Clements is also presently acting Senate Majority Leader in the absence of Senator Lyndon Johnson.

Kentucky's beloved raconteur, Alben Barkley, although technically a "freshman" Senator again, because of his unusual record of service to the Senate and his country, he has received two much sought after seats—one on the Foreign Relations Committee and the other on the Finance Committee. The Foreign Relations Committee is responsible for all matters relating to the United States foreign policy. The Finance Committee is the Senate's twin to the House's Committee on Ways and Means and handles revenue matters.

Watts On Agriculture Committee

As for myself, I am very pleased that I won a seat on the House Committee on Agriculture. While on the past Congresses, I have enjoyed my work on the Committee on Public Works, I asked to be assigned to the Agriculture Committee where, I feel, that I will be of greater direct help and benefit to my District. Most of our people in the Sixth District are engaged in farming, or in some business or occupation, the success of which depends upon the success of agriculture. I intend to work for this success, for I firmly believe that the farmer's economic well being is the foundation of the nation's prosperity.

District Visitors

Ralph E. McClanahan, Irvine; T. E. Pinkston and Jack Woodruff, Lexington; Hobart Adams, Grayson; and Miss Louise W. Brasner, Frankfort.

TV Notebook

By Gene Clinkenbeard

Not long ago there was a considerable stir among TV viewers and critics when it was disclosed that Mario Lanza mouthed the words to a brace of songs on a big show while and off stage-photograph provided the actual voice. That all seems like much ado over nothing inasmuch as this is a fairly common practice which gravitated from movies to TV.

Pre-recording, separate recording or dubbing—call it what you like—is a technique which was originally exploited in TV to allow energetic performers such as Betty Hutton and Donald O'Connor to combine their particular acrobatics and singing without being forced to gasp and puff through the vocalizing. Some top-flight-ers, however, such as Dinah Shore, Eddie Fisher and Perry Como shun pre-recording which is understandable in light of the lack of acrobatics in their offerings.

The practicianers of the lip-sync art have been with us for some time now and to get back to our original contention, the big fuss over Lanza's whirl at the radio and the subsequent stir at the washing machine or behind mist. Shades of toothpick shoes and derby hats and gold-headed walking canes!

The Gallatin County Utopia Club bought a new portable sewing machine for the use of 4-H club girls in the county.

L. M. Wilkerson, Pulaski county, can sell his strawberry plants for $2,000 an acre, which he says is better than he could get for the berries.

School Grounds Planted

For the fourth successive year, Harrison county homemakers cooperated with Prof. N. R. Elliott, horticulturist at the University of Kentucky, in supplying plantings for the Harrison County School grounds. Four evergreens, four trees, a hedge of Japanese barberry and other shrubs were bought, said Miss Elizabeth Donnell, home demonstration agent.

Farmers Prepare For Better Corn Yields

How some Daviess county farmers are preparing to grow better corn is reported by UK County Agent Lloyd E. McClure.

Herman Baskett applied 500 pounds of 12-12-12 fertilizer an acre and chopped cornstalks on 100 acres. He is planning to plant early, harvest early and follow with a cover crop.

Swain Miles applied 200 pounds of cyanamid an acre on plowed land to be disked and planted early. Burtlett & O'Brien shredded stalks and applied 1,000 pounds an acre of 4-16-16 fertilizer. They expect to add 160 pounds an acre of nitrogen in anhydrous ammonia.

Homes Are Improved

More attractive, convenient and comfortable homes was an objective of the 15 homemakers clubs of Breckinridge county the past year. As a result, they reported to Miss Mary L. Steele, home demonstration agent with the University of Kentucky, that 268 rooms were painted or papered, 11 bathrooms were installed, 3 kitchens were built and 29 remodeled, 8 water systems and four furnaces were installed, home furnishings were made for 33 rooms, and 78 women selected new furnishings for 116 rooms.

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

By Gil Kingsbury

On The Job:

Kentucky's John Sherman Cooper may be ambassador to India by the time this reaches print. But the former senator hasn't been wasting time awaiting senate confirmation.

Recently the Cooper law firm here was engaged to help in the developments of Southwest Washington, a run-down area of the capital. Senator Cooper has been active in the work of restoration. If the plan succeeds the near-slum area will blossom forth as a desirable place to live in over-crowed Washington.

Coming And Going:

This is the social season in the capital and one of the better White House parties was a tribute to Speaker Sam Rayburn. Congressman Brent Spence was among the guests invited. Incidentally, the Fifth District Congressman will be home to make some Jefferson-Jackson Day speeches.

Senator Capehart of Indiana also will be a Kentucky visitor. He's scheduled to make a Lincoln Day speech in Louisville.

Another social note brings information that Miss Jane Hadley, the daughter of Mrs. Alben Barkley, has returned from Oxford, England, and has rejoined the Barkley family.

Sports Notes:

Kentuckians have the habit of topping the baseball producers. Where practical, consumption rather than the sale of poultry should be considered, the economist commented, with freezer lockers and canning offering possibilities.

Clinton Farmers Plan Bull Sale

The furnish sires for improving the quality of calves offered in the district feeder-calf sale, Clinton county farmers are planning to hold a "better-sires" sale in the spring. Sixteen producers of registered beef cattle are expected to consign animals to the sale. There is a definite trend in the county to improve the quality of beef cattle, according to Warren Thompson, county agent for the University of Kentucky. Farmers are convinced that better calves are needed for the feeder sales, he said.

Donald Bush, Bourbon county 4-H boy, sold 1,710 pounds of tobacco for $65.22 a hundred.

Federal School Help Is Sought By Kentucky's Supt. Of Public Instruction

Kentucky's Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell P. Butler has appealed to the Senate Committee on Education and Labor to approve measures to provide federal aid to states to meet "pressing school building problems." He was before the committee in Washington last week.

"In the past ten years, Kentucky has more than doubled its support of public education at both state and local levels," Butler said. "Despite this effort, Kentucky has not kept pace with her sister states and educational opportunities offered her children are still grossly inadequate and fall short of those afforded children elsewhere.

"If Kentucky's boys and girls are to be housed in school facilities that are not adequate for a modern educational program, Federal aid for school construction is imperative. If Federal financial assistance can be secured for school construction, then state and local funds can be released for other educational services."

Butler appealed for support of measures offered by Kentucky's Senator Clements and other Senators for aid in this field and advised against having to await another White House conference on the subject.

During the last two years, Kentucky's school districts spent more than $32,000,000 for capital outlay purposes. Of this total outlay, more than $4,000,000 was received from the Federal government for buildings, improvements to buildings, for sites and improvements to sites. During 1954, Kentucky's school districts issued school building revenue bonds for $20,300,000.

The superintendent estimated it will require $350,000,000 by 1960 to provide Kentucky's school districts with needed new facilities and renovation of old facilities. Present taxing resources are sufficient to amortize $190,000,000 in school house construction, of which $60,000,000 already is outstanding, leaving resources sufficient to retire only $130,000,000 of school building bonds.

"Accordingly, there would still be a deficit of $220,000,000 between ability of Kentucky's school districts to finance the needed program and the estimated total cost of the program. Actually, the deficiency would be greater. Federal aid is imperative," he concluded.

The interior of the church at Trimley, Ky., was decorated in accordance with color principles learned by Bell county homemakers in their lessons on color selection.

died Sunday morning, was buried Wednesday. She was the sister of Mr. Ed Keys.

Word received from Mrs. Susie Mae Sharp from her husband, Mr Ab Sharp of the Veterans hospital in Louisville states that he is improving nicely. Hoping to be home soon.

Suggests Early Buying Of Chicks

The poultry industry in Kentucky cannot survive on the basis of so-and-out production, says John R. Roberts, University of Kentucky agricultural economist. It must be a source of meat and eggs for the family or a business enterprise, he added.

When poultry is a business, cash costs become a major consideration and efficiency in production has to be stressed. "It does not pay to jump 'clear in' or 'clear out' in an effort to express the market," said Roberts. "When economic conditions are unfavorable, changing emphasis and management rather than changing enterprises is to be recommended."

For this season, Roberts said the efficient producer should buy chicks early, cull unprofitable hens, and feed and manage for production. "You cannot starve a profit out of layers," he declared.

For the farm family, Roberts also stressed early purchase of chicks, but said this was less important then in the case of commercial producers. Where practical, consumption rather than the sale of poultry should be considered, the economist commented, with freezer lockers and canning offering possibilities.
