The F.F.A. Creed

I believe in the future of farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds—achievements won by the present and past generations of farmers; in the promise of better days through better ways, even as the better things we now enjoy have come up to us from the struggles of former years.

I believe that to live and work on a good farm is pleasant as well as challenging; for I know the joys and discomforts of farm life and hold an inborn fondness for those associations which, even in hours of discouragement, I cannot deny.

I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others. I believe in my own ability to work efficiently and think clearly, with such knowledge and skill as I can secure, and in the ability of organized farmers to serve our own and the public interest in marketing the product of our toil. I believe we can safeguard those rights against practices and policies that are unfair.

I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so—for others as well as myself; in less need for charity and more of it when needed; in being happy myself and playing square with those whose happiness depends upon me.

I believe that rural America can and will hold true to the best traditions in our national life and that I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task.

Pitman's Jewelry Robbed Monday Night; Royse Trial Results In Hung Jury

Thursday, February 14, 1935

Weekly Recipe

Homemade vegetable soup is a favorite with old and young the country over. Mrs. Pearl Haak, specialist in foods at the University of Kentucky, suggests making a generous amount, then canning or freezing a few jars for later use. Cooking for 4 to 5 hours at simmering temperature is desirable to extract the juices.

Vegetable Soup

1 soup bone, knuckle preferred
1 lb. diced lean beef
4 qts. cold water
11/2 t salt
1/8 t pepper
2 c diced potatoes
2 c diced carrots
1/2 c chopped celery
1/4 c chopped onion
1/2 c peas
2T finely chopped parsley
2 c tomatoes

Have soup bone sawed across to allow flavor to escape. (Chopping causes splintered bone.) Add soup bone and diced meat to cold water. Cover and simmer 2 to 3 hours, or until meat is tender. Add seasonings, all vegetables except tomatoes, and simmer for 1 hour. Add tomatoes and cook 10 minutes longer.

Luncheon menu: Vegetable soup, toast strips, fruit salad, Boston brown bread and butter sandwiches and milk.

UK Scientist Wins Rockefeller Grant

A member of the University of Kentucky's Department of Entomology and Botany has been awarded a $10,000 research grant by the Rockefeller Foundation for a special study on the effects of insecticides and fertilizers upon certain plant-feeding mites (insect-like animals). He is Dr. J. G. Rodriguez, assistant entomologist at the UK Agricultural Experiment Station.

Mites attack almost every well known crop with the exception of tobacco and the cabbage family.

Several farmers in McLean county are planning to use self-feeding trench silos with paved floors and walls.

Washington Reports

BY YOUR CONGRESSMAN

JOHN WATTS

The Little Red School House

Is the little Red School House to be built or not to be built? And if so by whom? That is the million dollar question facing Congress and the country today.

This week the President sent to Congress his message and bill for school construction. It was a step in the right direction—toward more schools—but unfortunately only an infant tottering step when what the country needs is a bold stride. One political cartoonist pictured the Administration's bill about as effective as tossing a drowning man a book on swimming instructions.

The ineffectiveness of the Administration's bill is that, except in the case of indigent communities, the Federal Government's contribution is limited to pump priming. Of the talked about seven billion dollars of expenditure for schools, scarcely more than $200 million would be supplied by the Federal Treasury. The remainder would be just loaned to communities and not only would have to be paid back to the Federal Government but paid back with interest.

Apparently, the President's proposals were dictated by economy. But this is really only Federal bookkeeping economy since the U. S. taxpayer is going to foot the bill whether it be paid directly to the Federal, State or local government.

Federal Failure

Now perhaps the Administration's proposal would look good on the Federal budget books but in my opinion it fails to recognize several very real problems.

First, most communities are already financially obligated about as far as they can legally go so the offer of loaning them some more money with interest doen's help much. Title I of the bill provides $750 million for such loans.

Now in case the local school district really can't borrow any more money, there is Title II of the bill. Title II encourages states to establish a Statewide School Construction Agency for the purpose of floating its own bond issues, constructing schools, and then leasing the schools to the local school district. The [illegible] district would then [illegible] school building and pay [illegible] enough rent to pay the principal and interest on the bonds outstanding. The Federal Government's only participation in this would be to loan the State School Construction Agency a sum equal to one-half one year's payment on pricipal and interest. In straight figures this would mean if the State Construction Agency spent half a million dollars on school buildings in one year it could expect the Federal Government to loan the magnificent tiny sum of $15,000. And remember the Federal Government would expect to get this $15,000 back.

If you are a completely destitute school district and are unable to borrow or lease under Titles I or II, you might be able to get a little help from the $200 million provided over a three-year period for indigent school districts, provided the state is able to contribute ratably with the Federal Government.

In my opinion, the bill fails to realize that the Federal Government takes the biggest chunk out of our personal incomes; its sources of revenue are not nearly as restricted as the state or local community; and as a result it should bear a greater portion of the financial burden to meet this national crisis.

The children of this Nation are one of its greatest assets. In the education of these children lies the great potential wealth, strength, and future of America. Are we going to fiddle with figures while the little Red School House doesn't get built and our children grow up uneducated? Is the education of these children to be tossed around like a political football because of a few overzealous bookkeepers?

The Crisis

This country needs more classrooms! I feel that this crisis can be met more effectively by a direct Federal program of grants-in-aid to the States for school construction, such as proposed in H. R. 1633, which I introduced. H. R. 1633, if enacted, would provide for $55 million each year for two years, to be contributed by the Federal Government and to be granted on a basis of need and effort with no repayment required.

I am convinced that this investment in our childrens' education, as proposed in my bill, would be more than paid back with interest in the future.

Celebration At UK To Be Open To All

All Kentuckians have been invited to attend the University of Kentucky's annual Founders Day program, scheduled on Thursday night, Feb. 24, in observance of UK's 90th birthday.

Two University alumni who have achieved outstanding success in the field of music will receive special recognition at the event. They are Jean Ritchie, formerly of Viper, nationally known singer of ballads and folk songs, and Tom Scott, widely acclaimed composer and ballad singer.

Second Term Starts For Students At UK

University of Kentucky students returned from their homes on Feb. 7 and 8 to register for the second semester and began their class work on Wednesday, Feb. 9. Tuesday, Feb. 15, was set as the last date that a student could enter an organized class.

Only holiday period listed during UK's second semester is the Easter holiday slated from April 8 to April 12.

STATE FARM WOMEN HEAR SOCIOLOGIST

Dr. James W. Gladden, associate professor of sociology at the University of Kentucky, was a principal speaker last week at a women's section meeting of the 43rd annual Farm and Home Convention, held on the UK campus. He told the homemakers that any child is underprivileged if his father and mother are not in love with each other. "Religion and science agree that the child growing up in a happy home is likely to be happy and likely to make a happy home for himself," Dr. Gladden said.

40 CLASSES GIVEN IN EVENING AT UK

The University of Kentucky's College of Adult and Extension Education will give approximately 40 different courses in the evening on the UK campus in Lexington during the second semester. Classes have been planned in the arts and sciences, commerce, engineering and home economics.

Air Cadets At UK Briefed On Flying

As a part of the general program of the University of Kentucky Air Force ROTC detachment, a group of 29 students recently were given a briefing on flying procedure while on a flight in an Air Force C-47.

GRANTS ARE GIVEN IN LANGUAGE STUDY

Ministers, Sunday school teachers and other religious workers are eligible to apply for scholarships available in Herbrew Language and civilization this semester at the University of Kentucky.

Tid Bits Of Kentucky Folklore

By Dr. Gordon Wilson

"IRONING"

When my son gave me one of these new-fangled shirts that do not require ironing, it set me to thinking of the long, hard tasks that such an invention will save present and future housewives. In Fidelity the calendar ran just as it does elsewhere, so far as the patent-medicine calendar on the wall ran; in reality, there were far different names for some of the days. Monday was Washday. Apparently the pioneers had got up on Monday and started to clean up for another week. It was as natural for the women folks to start to washing the clothes as it was for the men to begin plowing or whatever other work was interrupted by Sunday. The next day of the week was Ironing Day. Tuesday, Mardi, Dienstag, Dies Martis-who cares what it is or was called? It was predestined, our Old-school Presbyterian friends might have said, as Ironing Day, by anybody's calendar. And Ironing Day it was.

When I could first remember, the only irons we had were those that were heated by setting them in front of the open fire or by putting them on top of the kitchen stove. We broke a small cedar limb for Mother to clean off the iron with and give it, I suppose, a sort of waxy surface. When I hear the word ironing, I seem to smell cedar, just as nearly every other word brings an olfactory sensation. Such stacks of clothes had to be ironed! In a big family it takes clothes and lots of them. Mothers and sisters felt that it was positively disgraceful not to iron everything, from sheets to the rough towels that we had made by cutting a two-bushel mealsack in two. No matter how quickly the towel would lose its smoothness and ironed look, it had to be ironed. One swipe of wet hands and face after we had cleaned up with home-made soap would make one of those mealsack towels look like a scrub rag. But no one must accuse our mothers or sisters of being lazy or slovenly. And such tired feet as those women of that day must have had! But washing and ironing were two of the penalties women paid for being born as women.

Not long before I left Fidelity, we got a new iron, one that was a small furnace, heated with charcoal. It was hot, but it did not heat up the whole house as did the fire in the fireplace or in the kitchen stove on Ironing Day. Some years ago, while roaming through Henry Ford's museum at Dearborn, Michigan, I stood for a long time before the exhibits of irons, seeing all the kinds I had known at Fidelity and many more. I could have sworn that the furnace type was the very one that Mother and my sisters used. There they were, all arranged according to their ages, showing how long and how hard humanity was worked to reduce necessary labor to the minimum to preserve decency and one's social standing.

At long last the electric iron made its appearance and lightened some of the soul-kil'ing labor of Tuesday. And every kind of gadget has been added to it until today it is one of the necessities that were formerly only luxuries. I recall that once a colored woman who was working for us when my wife was sick was afraid to the "lectrous" iron for fear she would get shocked. I had to search around in a storeroom and find some old-fashioned ones, for our clothes were badly in need of ironing, and no modern notion had yet grown up that ironing was not necessary for many of the things that used to be smoothed out as if they were precious linens.

And now comes a kind of cloth, maybe more than one, that does not need ironing. Isn't that a boon? Of course, some people began a few years ago to put away some of the clothes unironed, probably feeling pretty sheepish about it. Acually some towels have gone unironed in some advanced households, towels ever so much more ritzy than the mealsack ones at Fidelity. Maybe it will be possible to think of Tuesday as something else besides Ironing Day.

Women Deans At UK Fete Greek Visitor

The director of a working girls club in Athens, Greece, visited the office of the University of Kentucky dean of women this week. Mrs. Nausica Parapantakis, the Greek visitor, marveled at the advantages offered working girls in the United States while chatting with Dean Sarah B. Holmes and Dr. Jane Haselden, assistant dean of women.

TV NOTEBOOK

By Gene Clinkenbeard

This week let's clear up a little misunderstanding a lot of folks have to the effect that the only "bad" TV tube is one that is burned out. This isn't quite the case.

A tube with a blown filament—a burnout—which is comparable to a burned out electric light bulb, is one that is cold and no longer lights up But a tube could be as useless in the operation of your TV set as an old mason jar and still be hot to the touch and obviously lighted. Often times if a tube does not have a complete vacuum inside the envelope, it glows blue and indicates that it is "gassy."

Also, tubes may give the appearance in the sense of warmth and glow, of being perfectly functioning articles and still create a howl in the sound or picture interference due to loose elements inside. This is sometimes known as a "microphonic" tube. Improperly operating tubes sometimes introduce distortion and occasionally a tube which will not operate in one type of circuit due to a minor defect, will operate in another.

What this all boils down to is that a cold and dead tube needs replacing, but even though another tube glows like an alcoholic's nose, it too can be troublesome.

No matter how troublesome your TV set may be, our ability to repair it thoroughly and economically is as sure as sunrise on the desert. When your set needs a helping hand, be sure to give us a jingle . . . GENE'S TELEVISION, 71-J.

J. Wayne Green, eminent Trichologist, demonstrates causes of baldness and how it can be prevented.

How To Have Hair For A Lifetime To Be Demonstrated Here By Famous Trichologist

Offers Written Guarantee

An exclusive interview by Steven Bright

WICHITA (Special) J. Wayne Green, Director of Rogers, Inc., Hair and Scalp Specialists, exploded the "myth of baldness" today in an exclusive interview.

"Baldness is unnecessary, costly and a plague to mankind," says Green. "No man need be bald. No man need suffer the stigma of premature old age that is forced upon him because he is losing his hair. The Rogers method of hair and scalp treatment can prevent baldness—can turn colorless fuzz into healthy, growing hair—can make you look youthful again."

Demonstration To Be Held in Carlisle, Kentucky

This revolutionary method of home treatment for the hair and scalp will be demonstrated in Carlisle, Kentucky, Saturday ONLY, February 26 at the Feeback Hotel. Trichologist L. G. Evans will conduct the private, individual interviews from 12 noon until 9:00 P.M. on Saturday ONLY. There is no cost or obligation, and you need no appointment.

Reason for Baldness

"There is always a reason for baldness," continued this nationally known authority. "Hair cannot grow through a scalp that is infected with dandruff, excessive oiliness, or extreme dryness. A scalp that has never been exercised cannot be expected to produce healthy hair." Men, and yes, women too, walk the street today, completely devoid of nature's greatest ornament—hair. Simply because they were not taught the basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene while they were growing up. "The simple answer," emphasized this expert, "is that children should be taught the same simple basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene that they are taught for the proper care of their teeth. If this were the case, baldness would be a rarity today!"

Heredity Not Involved

Trichologist Green dodged no issue. He quickly took up the most widely spread theory of baldness—heredity. "Mankind's un-realistic belief that baldness is hereditary stems from a misinterpretation of the theory of genetics. Theory does not state that any person must be bald because baldness exists in the family. What it does say, is that in some families, a tendency exists towards an undernourished scalp." The purpose of the Rogers Hair and Scalp Clinic is to teach the methods of strengthening the weak scalp and nourishing it to a healthy, vigorous condition. "A healthy scalp will grow hair if it is not already completely bald," assures Green.

Is There Hope For The Completely Bald

In his travels throughout the United States and Canada, Green has collected hundreds of testimonials of his ability to develop weak fuzz into healthy, mature hair. All of his clients have started with a private examination, hair and scalp analysis, and a diagnosis of the disorder. Green is quick however, to tell a hopeless case that he cannot be helped. "We strongly advise," says Green, "that no person who is completely bald hold any hope whatsoever of regrowing hair. If there is any fuzz at all, we can restore a healthy scalp condition and the hair will grow normally again as nature intended."

Offers A Guarantee

"Rogers, Inc." America's Foremost Hair and Scalp Specialists, offer a guarantee to any client who enrolls for treatment. If he or she is not completely delighted with results at the end of 30 days, the money invested will be graciously refunded," pledged Green. "We must have satisfied clients. We must grow hair. After all, it is our best advertisement."

Is Your Hair Healthy?

If you have a scalp disorder, or if you are worried about your hair, call Trichologist L. G. Evans at the Feeback Hotel in Carlisle, Kentucky, Saturday ONLY, from 12 noon to 9:00 P.M.

The Public Is Invited

The examinations are private and open to men and women. You do not need an appointment, and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.—Adv.

West Homemakers

By Mrs. W. M. Kendall

Regardless of the extreme cold weather and icy roads, we came near having a 100% attendance at our Homemakers club meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sexton last Friday, February 11 at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Caywood's selections for the devotional were well chosen.

Mrs. Frank Henry our Citizenship chairman told us some interesting facts in regard to Ecuador and also reported that the supplies for the Henryville school was well received.

Miss Emma Barnes, Mrs. Eugene Neal and Mrs. W. M. Kendall gave the lesson on "Personalizing The Bed Room." Mrs. Neal stressed the point of first having a comfortable mattress and the rest of the furniture to meet the needs of those that were to occupy the bed room.

Miss Barnes gave us a pattern and demonstrated the practical bed spread using a flounce and suggested that the same rule might be used in making a skirt for the dressing table.

A salad course with coffee was served by our hostesses Mrs. Clyde and Bruce Sexton.

Our next meeting is to be on Friday, March 11 with Mrs. Eugene Neal.
