Stock-Raising To Be Feature Of State Convention

Breeding, feeding, disease control, marketing and other phases of stock-raising will receive attention at the annual Farm and Home Convention at the University of Kentucky at Lexington, Feb. 1 to 4.

One of the speakers will be J. C. Pierce of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who will discuss grades and consumer preference of beef, pork and lamb. On the same program, H. M. Conway, National Livestock Producers Association, Chicago, will speak on prospects for livestock profits.

One session will be devoted to feeder-calf production and sales. Dr. C. O. Rindoff of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and several Kentucky contributors will speak.

Walter I. Hodde, another Washington expert, will address the conference. Wayland Rhoads, state control administrator, will review efforts to eliminate the dog menace.

Speakers at a session for hog growers will include Prof. Vaughn Speed of Iowa State College and R. C. Chinn, Bourbon county farmer.

There will be sessions dealing with dairying, goat-raising and poultry-raising. Basic conservation of breeders of Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Holstein and Jersey cattle will meet.

After the general session the first day, homemakers will meet Wednesday and Thursday in Memorial Coliseum and on Friday in Memorial Hall.

Other sectional meetings will be devoted to tobacco production, agricultural engineering, the rural community and church, marketing and farm management, horticulture and seed improvement.

Emergency Shelf For Storing Canned Meats

With butchering time at hand, Mrs. Pearl Haak, foods authority at the University of Kentucky, reminds housewives that summer meats rate first place in importance on the emergency shelf. During times of illness, unexpected company or busy seasons on the farm, a jar of canned meat is ready to serve after 10 to 15 minutes of boiling after opening.

For variety, Mrs. Haak suggests that several kinds of meat be canned—beef, pork, lamb, chicken, sausage, tongue or liver.

Pointers that help insure a successful product:

1. Use a pressure canner for boiling all meats. The high temperature for processing makes certain the killing of heat-resisting bacteria in a fairly short time.

2. Can meat only from healthy animals or fowl.

3. Avoid bruising the animals, forming blood clots.

4. Cool the carcass thoroughly before the meat is canned.

5. Pack sliced meat tight and down in the jar rather than flat, thus allowing circulation of liquid and heat.

6. Remove fat from pork as it gives a rancid taste of meat.

7. [illegible] pints to quarts in size [illegible] the size of the jar.

Certified Meat Litters At UK

Four new are four Certified Meat Litters in the Hampshire herd at the University of Kentucky at Lexington, it is announced by The American Hampshire Herdsmen, official publication of the breed.

This means that the University owns one of the top herds of this breed, since there are only about a dozen Certified Meat Litters in the United States, according to Prof. C. E. Barnhart, in charge of the swine herd.

Two pigs butchered from each of the four litters weighed an average of 220.12 pounds at 180 days of age. The average lean meat in the pork chop area was 4.72 square inches.

Three of the litters were sired by Prairie Star. Two more qualified litters sired by him will make him a 'Certified Meat Boar, it is stated.

Nuts Keep Better If Left In Shell

Nuts in the shell will keep better than those that have been removed, according to studies made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Likewise, a cold temperature is a better storage place than a warm room. Shelled nuts absorb off-flavors and moisture, making them tough, limp or even moldy.

Shelled nuts in tight containers keep well for a year in home freezers, stored in the refrigerator in tight, vapor-proof containers, they will remain fresh much longer than when kept on the shelf in a warm kitchen.

Tight containers and cold keeping are necessary for pecans and walnuts, as they are especially subject to rancidity.

Berries Should Be Mulched

James Stacey of the University of Kentucky Extension Service advises mulching strawberries for protection against excessive freezing of the ground. Put on after the soil gets cold enough to keep it from temperatures of the ground. Care should be taken not to smother the plants. An inch or more of straw will cover five rows 22 feet long. Meat and hardwood chips are used in the bulk, where plants are to be dug, but should not be applied more than a inch deep.

Chart Shows How To Cull Poultry

A culling chart of the American Poultry Association is one of the features of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics circular called "Culling Farm Poultry." To cull accurately, one should recognize the difference between a producer and a loafer. It is stated. This knowledge can be obtained by studying the chart and by handling the birds. It is considered easy to distinguish between the high and low producers. The medium producers give the culler the most difficulty. Ask a county or home agent for Circular 330.

CONTRACTS APPROVED

Two new printing contracts to supply the State's printing needs for the next four years have been approved by Governor Wetherby. The two contracts are estimated to be worth $950,000 during the four-year period.

Deane Press, Louisville, obtained the first class contract, estimated to account for an outlay of $800,000 during the period, while Courier-Journal Job Printing Company, Louisville, was awarded the second-class printing contract, estimated at $150,000. Both formerly held expiring contracts.

The first-class contract is for book, pamphlet and job work. The other contract is principally for lithographing.

HOUSING SHORTAGE

The University of Kentucky had to turn away some 800 prospective women students this year because of insufficient dormitory space for housing them, state Auditor I. Herbert Smith reported. So Governor Wetherby Tuesday said steps are being taken to eradicate the housing shortage there.

He said that new residence halls for both men and women are in the planning stage.

PLAN APPROVED

Final approval was given by Franklin Circuit Judge W. B. Vickery to a plan to allow Inland Empire Insurance Company, Salt Lake City, to assume assets and liabilities of the Louisville Fire and Marine Insurance Company. The Louisville firm's affairs were placed in hands of the Insurance Commissioner two weeks ago when it became apparent it was in bad condition.

BIDS REJECTED

Bids to buy 13 acres of surplus land near historic old Boonesboro on the Kentucky River have been rejected by the Federal government. The land will be held pending legislation to be introduced at this session of Congress by Senator Earle C. Clements to authorize the government to deed it either to the State of Kentucky or the Protomac National Monument Association.

Plans are for the site to be developed as a historical park.

PUBLIC FUNDS SCARCE

During the 13 years of the University of Kentucky's present administration, only one classroom building has been erected at public expense on the UK campus.

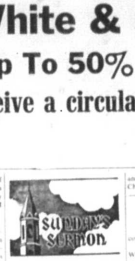
WEEK PROCLAIMED

Governor Wetherby named the week of January 10 as "Young Women's Christian Association Week in Kentucky" in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the organization and recognition and wished it success in continuing family moral freedom with faith and fellowship.

The Lake Spring 4-H Club of Simpson county is presented a plaque by the Franklin Rotary Club for being the outstanding 4-H club in the county.

Mrs. Jesse Richardson, 81-year-old president of the Women's Auxiliary member and recreation and ex-president of the Hilltop Home, Butler county, and recognized leader of the White Mills Home Demonstration Club in Hardin county, has completed 18 hooked rugs.



SUMMER'S SUPPLIES

Home Agents Give Information

That a county home demonstration agent is regarded by homemakers as a source of practical information is indicated in the variety and number of requests made of Miss Elizabeth Donnell of Harrison county, HDA with the University of Kentucky.

In one month, these were the approximate requests for information: 137 related to vegetables and gardens, 273 to flowers and shrubbery, 245 to the house and surroundings, 51 to furnishings and equipment, 315 to clothing, 1,076 to foods and nutrition, and 76 to community development. These were answered by home visits, telephone calls, office calls, meetings and by sending bulletins.

Weekly Recipe

Using eggs generously during January, "Egg Month," has been recommended by Secretary of Agriculture Benson as a means of helping the poultry industry. It will also help the family budget, as eggs are unusually reasonable for this time of year. Because they are a good protein food, Miss Florence Imlay, food specialist at the University of Kentucky, suggests this recipe as the main dish in a menu:

Cheese Fondue

2½ c milk
1½ c fine dry bread crumbs
1½ t butter
2 c grated cheese
6 eggs
1 t salt
¼ t paprika

Heat the milk, bread crumbs and butter in double boiler. Add grated cheese to hot mixture and stir until cheese has melted. Add beaten egg yolks, paprika and salt, and fold in beaten egg whites. Pour into greased baking dish set in a pan of hot water. Bake at moderate temperature, 325 degrees, for one hour, or until inserted knife comes out clean. Serve at once. Ten to 12 servings.

Menu: Cheese fondue, buttered peas, pear and carrot salad, biscuits, butter and angel food cake with ice cream.

Taxpayers Asked To Look For Pamphlet

For aid in preparing their 1954 income tax returns, taxpayers will receive by mail from the Internal Revenue Service, a pamphlet entitled "How to prepare your income tax return."

This booklet contains two 1954 income tax return forms and the schedule necessary for computation of the amount of tax liability. In past years, the short form tax computation schedule has appeared on Page 4 of the tax return itself.

The District Director of Internal Revenue urges that taxpayers retain this information booklet due to the fact that without it, the tax liability cannot be computed, which would necessitate the taxpayer's obtaining another from the local Internal Revenue Service Officer.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
How purification of thought brings freedom from fear, sickness, and sin will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday. Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament" is the Golden Text from John (4:23). "The hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship Father in spirit and in truth."
From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, the following passage will be read (242:1-3,6): "Through repentance, spiritual baptism, and regeneration, mortals put off their material beliefs and false individuality. Denial of the claims of matter is a great step towards the joys of Spirit, toward freedom and the final triumph over the body."
Scriptural selections include this
