we are asked only to contribute to the original purchase.

6) Where will it be located? On a site centrally located for the area, depending on a suitable tract at a reasonable cost.

7) When will it start operation? Funds are now ready for operating the farm, and the project can start immediately after the farm is bought.

8) What kind of testing will be done? Research on varieties, diseases, insects, on seeding, fertilizing, building soils for various crops, including particularly hay and pasture; on protection against erosion, on vegetable and fruit production adapted to this area, on dairy, beef and other livestock production.

9) What is Nicholas County's quota? $1,000 minimum—we may need more.

10) What should each farmers part be? At least $5. Those with large farms and all those that feel they can are invited to take a larger share—$10 to $25.

Individuals may mail their checks to the Eden Hill Committee of the Nicholas County Farm Bureau. Checks should be made payable to the Eden Hill Committee.

The following counties have already made their quota: Carroll, Gallatin, Boone, Kenton, Campbell, Grant, Pendleton, Bracken, Harrison, Owen, Trimble, Henry, and Fleming. Substantial progress is reported from many other counties.

At a district meeting Thursday night at Williamstown a selection committee was set up for the final selection of the farm.

feels that the general public should know about it. The court also realizes that there are numerous improvements in properties owned by the county that will have to be made but it has been impossible to do them previously, and now that the outstanding indebtedness has been retired a general plan of improvement can be established to be carried out in the next two years," Cox stated.

"The new lease arrangement on the County Farm should provide a means of support for elderly people under the State Welfare agencies, the continued operation of the Johnson Memorial Convalescent hospital under the trusteeship arrangement (in effect the last three years), and the operation of the County Nurses home on a monthly rental plan have all proved successful business ventures to the extent that the county hasn't had to maintain these operations—a saving to the taxpayer. Such resulting savings will not be fully realized until all of these properties are placed in first class condition which is the immediate goal of the court. Then if succeeding officials will maintain them regularly these particular properties should be a net asset or no expense to the county," he said.

Burley 11A and 11B were grown on 75 farms in Mercer county, both showing resistance to the black shank disease.

HERE'S HOW . . .

MAKE A WALL RACK

A graceful rack for china or knickknacks is easy to make with lumber of hardwood plywood.

The ends are drawn to pattern on two 6 by 24-inch pieces, and cut out with a coping saw.

Shelf mortises are made with a hack saw and chisel, 3/16-inch deep and ¼-inch wide. The three 24-inch shelves are 4, 5, and 6 inches wide. In each shelf a V-groove is cut 1¼ inches from the back and ¼-inch deep, with a router plane or with a chisel. The groove is a stop for standing the plates against the back.

The rack is fastened together at all joints and then sanded and varnished.

Two 5/32-inch holes are drilled 1¼ inches deep in the back of each side piece, 4 inches from the top, and directly opposite, in the top, and corresponding 5/32-inch holes are drilled in the wall, at a 20 degree angle, downward. Drive a 3-inch finishing nail into each hole, leaving 1¼ inches protruding. The rack is hung on these nails.

Budget Estimate Includes Funds For Locks, Dams

Congressman John C. Watts has announced that the Budget Estimates submitted by the President call for the expenditure of some $210,000 for maintenance and operation work incident to the functioning of the Locks and Dams on the Kentucky River during the next fiscal year commencing July 1, 1955, $150,000 will be for defraying routine maintenance and operation costs, and $60,000 for clearing, dredging, snagging and other similar work.

Representative Watts also stated that the Corps of Engineers had assured him that at least $20,000 would be made available for renivals and planning work on the Kentucky River which was started last year.

While this doubles the amount allocated for this phase of the program during the present fiscal year, Congressman Watts indicated that all that can be used will be several years to complete the planning program contemplated. The original estimate of cost of the over-all planning program is $165,000. In this connection, the Congressman expressed the hope that he, with the help of other interested parties, would be able to persuade the Appropriations Committee to raise the amount to be made available for the planning program for the year commencing July 1, 1955, so that this phase of the work on this badly needed project could be substantially accelerated.

Congressman Watts has been in contact with the proper authorities and has received some substantial assurances that consideration for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1956, allocations for the planning program would be materially increased.

Americans Today Walk Less Than Forebears

The modern American, the world's greatest rider, sometimes proves he still can walk—for fun.

Recently a Navy officer stepped off 13 miles from one end of Manhattan to the other, the final lap in a 502-mile jaunt over every street on the island.

Other Americans have performed more prodigious feats with their feet. But it doesn't happen very often, says the National Geographic Society. For foot experts point out that no American generation has walked less than the previous one and has paid less heed so Thomas Jefferson's dictum that "30 exercises walking is the best or to Walt Whitman's famous line:

"Afoot and light-hearted, I take to the open road. "Healthy, free, the world before me."

Ye or 10 Miles a Day

According to one study, the average man, 21 through 65, averages 9 miles a day, the woman 10 miles. The high school student boosts 16 miles, the policeman pads 18, and a waiter 19.

"Probably the outstanding walkers are the English. Hundreds of years ago their walking excursions over the placid countryside developed into pedestrian contests. English heel-and-toe speedsters set the world pace with a formidable array of long-standing records.

Eventually Americans took up the sport. In his 70's Edward F. Weston speed from Los Angeles to New York 3,443 miles in 77 days. In 1912 Mrs. David Beach drove from New York to Chicago, 1,067 miles, in 42 days, 12 hours. In 1946 George Howe a spry 92, made 504 miles in 60 days. James H Hocking, one of the sport's unforgettable figures, marked up 270,000 miles in a long career and philosophized:

"A superb health builder . . . I always averaged about 40 inches to the stride . . . really moving along. The whole trick is stepping off the big toe of one foot, forward with the other, landing on the heel, knees locked, arms swinging."

A number of Americans have journeyed afoot coast-to-coast in informal odysseys. John F. Horn (Legs) Stahl—a frustrated mailman—trudged 10,000 miles over Central America, Mexico and the United States as a hobby. He did 13 miles a day usually, once 32.

Rolls Wheelbarrow

In 1950-51 a woman pushed her son, 9, and a cat in a wheelbarrow from Jacksonville, Fla., to Los Angeles in 13 months. One man, 52, pulled a 350-pounds wagon through 44 states while wearing out 19 pairs of shoes.

In 1953 a California woman topped the scale at 265 pounds. Lying his wife, her husband said: "Let's take a walk." They hit the road from Tijuana to Ensenada, Mexico, across the border. She lost 100 pounds.

Possibly the best publicized hike was Sgt. Edward Leslie Foy William O. Douglas's 549-mile Yukon trump along the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal from Georgetown, Md., to Washington with eight companions in tow.

The greatest hoofer of all, perhaps, was Pedro Pietri, who in 1937 walked from Buenos Aires, Argentina, to Valparaiso, Chile, a distance of 1,000 miles, in 21 days, 19 hours, 40 minutes. He was accompanied by a burro. Such American Legionnaires as Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman walked the length of the United States. At the end of four years he had covered 29,000 miles and Truman had worn out pairs of boots. Some people think it's the record.

Big Leaf In Knox

Tobacco season is here. Knox county is reported by UK Extension Agent Lucas H. Williams. Jim Mills, Knox county farm manager, has set up an acre or at the rate of 1,000 pounds an acre. John Hendricks, 7.014 pounds from 7.4 acres, an 2,922 pounds an acre. Charlie Hill, 3,130 pounds from 1 acre. Lewis Warren, 4,600 pounds from two acres, and Lester Perry, 2,640 pounds from 1.1 acres.

Escape Cover

Multiflora rose probably provides the best escape cover, says the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Blackberries, briars, honeysuckle and other dense vegetation are also valuable. Multiflora rose is valuable for making living fences, especially where the desired fence is too crooked to be built of wire. Songbirds are especially attracted to the rose fence as a nesting site.

Rose fences are valuable to quail where there is an abundance of waste grain, but a scarcity of cover. They also serve as travel lanes between patches of cover and feeding areas.

Information can be obtained from Harry Duncan conservation officer of from William Threlkeld, wildlife conservationist.
