"How Well You Look"

Friends Surprised at the Wonderful Improvement.

"I had a fair, hotel, Mass., writes me: 'I was troubled with a severe pain in my left side and shoulder, which extended to my back and other parts. Every spring and summer for the past three years I was confined to my bed for a month or more. Last spring I was a cripple. I could not walk without crutches. I was a mere skeleton. I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken one bottle I could walk across the room. I have taken three bottles, and can do my housework. I am gaining in flesh, and feel like a new woman.'

PROTECTION'S CRIMES.

McKinleyism the Cause of Moral Assassins Labor.

There is a repetition of history in the story of 1854 and bloodshed comes from the ghastly regions of Pennsylvania. The same conditions which produced those of the opening of Kansas and the Bleeding Valley and in the coal regions of Pennsylvania are the result of the same causes and in substance of the same evils. It is not a new condition that all those deplorable affairs occur in portions of the country where the protective system has been in force and in the support of McKinleyism is energized. They are among the legitimate results of that seductive system of taxation which, from its active existence, has been a curse to the country. It is the good of the "home industries" which is manufactured especially for the southern market. It is the good which has driven from our shores the cotton manufacturer and the trade of cotton that brings in the money.

McKinleyism has been the curse of the country. It has been the cause of enacted laws, ever imposed and in existence among our manufactured products. It has been the cause of the high prices which has power our wages, the cause of the destruction of American capital. The lowest and most degraded of the human race are imported to compete with American workmen and do the roughest work at starvation wages, subsistence and other hideous incidents. Without sympathy for our workmen and without any desire to see them work for less than a living wage, the requirements of a self-respecting man, the fact remains that the wages of labor have been worked for far too long a time in the interest of the manufacturer. Labor and wealth produced by labor have been the prey of the manufacturer and the trust. The wages have not advanced in proportion to the profits which have been made by the manufacturer. The result has been that labor has become restless and dissatisfied. Many of the poor have become paupers and many more have been driven to the verge of pauperism. The rich have grown richer and the poor poorer. The rich have grown richer and the poor poorer. The rich have grown richer and the poor poorer
