Cracks In Boiler Close Grade School

The cast iron boiler which has been in service for 17 or 18 years developed two cracks when it went into service Monday morning at the Nicholas County Grade School.

A crack developed in each of the front and back sections which rendered the boiler unusable for further service until the sections are replaced.

The trouble was the result of deterioration from age.

The Nicholas County Board of Education met in special session Wednesday to arrange for the replacement of the equipment.

In the meantime, school will continue temporarily at the Nicholas County High school and the Courthouse. Three classes of the Nicholas County Grade school have been provided for at the high school and three at the Courthouse. It will take at least two weeks to get replacement parts which have to be shipped from the factory.

Installation will take at least one week after the parts are received since the entire boiler has to be taken down.

General Polio Vaccine Received

Dr. B. F. Reynolds, health officer announces that this county received a supply of the vaccine appropriated by the Federal government for the purpose of immunization against polio to the age group from five to nine years of age, who were not eligible for or under the N.F.I.P. polio program.

At a local board of health meeting in conjunction with the physicians of Nicholas County it was decided that this supply (130 shots) would be made available to our local physicians. The vaccine is free, but the physicians may charge for the administration of the vaccine. However anyone unable to pay the physicians fee may receive the vaccine for their child by applying to the physician who has the vaccine on hand.

Dr. Reynolds states that he is expecting another supply from the Federal allotment for this county in the very near future.

The Old Hotel Lamarr . . .

By NELLIE CRUMP

Many a day has poured since pixies and many a change has taken place. Few of that era are here today, and still fewer places of business remain the same, but at least one stands as a monument to bygone days. The old Lamarr hotel is very much the same and is still run by members of the family, Mrs. Pevie Feeback and Mrs. Lulu Bentham are daughters, and John Feeback a nephew of Windsor Scott, Feeback who purchased the new hotel two years after it was built by Green Cheatham in 1880.

Named Hotel Lamarr by Mr. Cheatham (no one seems to know where he got the name) the 3-story red brick on West Main street contains 20 rooms, plus a long inviting veranda, lovely with its boxes of multi-colored petunias from early Spring until frost. A large basement show room no longer needed by "drummers," is now used as a cream station.

Sale of the Lamarr

During the summer of 1882 Mr. Cheatham decided he wanted to move to Texas. Attending the great Centennial at Blue Lick Springs he met his old friend Scott Feeback who lived on a hill overlooking the valley and was a moderate business in the driving regions. Mr. Cheatham remarked that he would move to Texas if he had a buyer for his hotel. Mr. Feeback said than done. The sale was made at once and Mr. Cheatham became owner and proprietor of Hotel Lamarr—tired of counting eggs, the little store could "go to blazes" for he now owned a hotel in Carlisle and four daughters could have the advantage of "higher education." Soon the family decided it was the Feeback hotel and that was what it should be called, so from then until about—73 years—Carlisle has boosted of the Feeback hotel.

About the time of world War I there were three hotels in Carlisle. A great many citizens can remember these "homes for men away from home" and the crowds arriving daily between Paris and Maysville. (Remember, automobiles were very few then.) Each train was met by a porter from each hotel, pushing a hand-cart to transport baggage to the hotel he represented. No siren ever screached more loudly than these three porters "pulling" for their places of business—porters they received little extra pay per guest, but I do not know it to be a fact. "Feeback Hotel!" "Pots. House!" "Hotel Kimbrough!" they shouted over and over until the carts were piled high with big trunks, little trunks, bags and cases of cheaver wares for the showrooms.

I can tell you that Willie Wilson of about "Feeback Hotel" louder and longer than any porter I ever heard. He always got his share of trade. Many is the time he could not push his load up Lincoln street and was given a hand by "Shabby", everybody's helper and always in the right place at the right time.

The Magnet

W. S. Feeback was known far and wide as a rank prohibitionist, also he served the very best food to be found in a hotel. Traveling men soon learned that all cooking was supervised by Mrs. Feeback and her daughters and that Charity Marie began cooking there in 1909 when she was barely tall enough to reach the big cook range. For 43 years she fed the public with genuine southern cooking, yes sub! Retiring in 1952 when the hotel quit serving meals she lives in Henryville and could "whip up a meal in a jiffy."

Willie Wilson began as a porter for the hotel in 1910 and is there to this day, making himself handy as Jack-of-all-trades.

Last, but by no means least, is Johnny Feeback who, among a thousand and one other things, acts as valet and nurse to Mr. George Young (son-in-law of the Feebacks) who was a valuable assistant in the management of the hotel for many years.

The building underwent remodeling a number of years ago, modern conveniences and fire escape being added and the office dropped to street level.

If you are looking for a clean, comfortable room tell Willie and he will find Johnny who will relay the message to Pevie or Lulu—and you will always remember the old Lamarr Feeback hotel in Carlisle since 1880.

Approved!

The Mercury received the following wire from Earle C. Clements Wednesday morning: "I am pleased to advise that the public health service has today given preliminary approval to construction of sewer treatment plan Nicholas County hospital, cost $26,000. Estimated federal share $13,000."

Chamber To Have Labor Survey Made

Do you want a JOB?

Very few unemployed people are in a position to turn down a means of livelihood and though this area is heavily dependent upon agriculture, if there was more industry, preferably something to employ male workers, its economy would become more stable—but before industry will give the town or county consumers facts concerning labor availability must be compiled.

With this in mind, directors of the Carlisle-Nicholas County Chamber of Commerce voted last Thursday to have such a survey conducted here on Oct. 28-29 by Mr. O. L. Burkeen of the Lexington office of the Department of Economic Security.

Mr. Burkeen stated that everyone employed in Carlisle, 16 and over should register on this date.

The survey will show many characteristics of the labor supply including, age distribution of available workers, sex, occupational distribution, educational background, distance workers live from county seat, background of available workers by age and race, and other factors of much importance to interested employers.

Location of the registration point in Carlisle will be announced in next week's newspapers.
